MSL Employee Q+A s following the announcement:

1. Why are we merging with CLS? This transaction will provide the combined company with an enhanced portfolio of capabilities, expanded supply chain leverage and the advantage of an increased global footprint. In addition, CLS's proven track record, strong balance sheet and reputation as a global leader in the EMS industry makes this attractive for our customers, shareholders and employees.

2. Who are they? (See fact sheet)

-Number of employees- 38,000 worldwide

-Number of sites- 38 worldwide locations, 17 countries

-Key customers-Dell, Cisco, Alcatel, Lucent, EMC, IBM, HP, Avaya, NEC

-Annual 02 revenue-8.3 billion in 02

-Headquartered in Toronto Canada

3. Do we have any common customers with them now? Although the majority of Celestica's customers are not a part of MSL's customer portfolio, there are some common customers, including HP and IBM.

4. How do our customers feel about this? We are contacting our customers and expect that they will be pleased with the announcement as it expands the depth and breadth of our service, capability and geographical offerings.

5. What impact will this announcement have on our suppliers when the deal closes? We expect that the closing of the transaction will enhance our overall buying power and provide more opportunities for our suppliers as we grow. Until then, we will continue to operate as a separate and independent company.

6. Does this share purchase include the capital equipment, physical assets, and real estate? This purchase is structured as a stock for stock merger and accordingly will include the facilities, capital equipment, physical assets, intellectual property and intangible assets of MSL as well the assumption of all of MSL's liabilities.

7. Will there be greater growth opportunities with the combined companies? The combined organization has the potential to provide enhanced opportunities to our employees for personal and professional growth.

8. What changes now? Nothing. We have entered into an agreement and we ll be working with CLS over the coming months to make the various regulatory filings and schedule an MSL stockholders meeting.

9. What happens next? MSL and Celestica will continue to operate as separate companies up to the closing of the transaction. All of us will need to continue to focus on serving our customers and delivering on our current commitments. Although it is difficult to predict when all legal, regulatory and shareholder approvals will occur, we expect that the transaction will close sometime between mid-December and the end of January.

10. What happens to MSL stock options and to the Employee Stock Purchase Plan(ESPP)? When the transaction closes, all of the outstanding MSL stock options will become vested to the extent provided in the applicable option plan and will be converted into stock options for subordinate voting shares of Celestica using the same share exchange ratio as is applicable to the MSL common stock: .375 Celestica subordinated voting shares for each share of MSL common stock. The share exchange ratio will be adjusted, if necessary, to ensure that the value of the consideration received for each MSL common share (based on the 20 trading day volume weighted average NYSE closing price of the subordinate voting shares of Celestica determined on the third business day prior to the completion of the transaction) will be not less than US$6.00 and not more than US$7.25.

As of the closing date, the current offering period will end and the ESPP will be terminated. Participants will receive the number of MSL shares of common stock for the shortened offering period as of the last business day prior to such termination date, calculated in accordance with the terms of the ESPP.

Key closing messages:

1. We're very excited about the new possibilities this presents to the new combined company for greater customer service, capability, footprint, career opportunities and leadership in the EMS industry.

2. Until the transaction closes we will continue running our business in the ordinary course. For all of us it means we should conduct business as usual focusing on delivering results, serving customers and meeting our plans.

3. Our customers are crucial and we expect seamless execution in serving, supporting and fulfilling our customer needs.

4. We feel the new capability, expanded footprint, potential for career development opportunities, supply chain leverage and our combined strengths will further position us to create a new level of opportunity for our customers, employees and shareholders.

5. We will provide more specific details on the process over the next several weeks. If you have any questions please see your supervisor or manager.
