Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure

On November 22, 2005, we issued a news release announcing that our subsidiary, Cascadia Energy Corp. has completed its preliminary geological review of a 365,000 acreage block in southwestern Washington and selected 100,000 of the most prospective acres for continued exploratory evaluation. Cascadia also retains a two year right of first refusal on the balance of this acreage.

Based upon the geological interpretation of this initial 100,000 acreage block and the surrounding area, Cascadia decided to aggressively pursue additional acreage at the November competitive lease auction held in Olympia, Washington. The approximate 15,000 acres that was acquired from the State of Washington Trust lies directly adjacent or contiguous to Cascadia's 100,000 acre block. These properties include potential for both natural gas from coal and conventional natural gas opportunities.

Cascadia and its 40% partner, St. Helens Energy LLC, are coordinating a plan to review the property and consider other sites.
