On May 15, 2008, Steven S. Myers issued the following press release:

SM&A S FEAR MONGERING AIMED AT INTIMIDATING AND DISTRACTING SHAREHOLDERS AND EMPLOYEES FROM KEY ISSUES OF PROXY CONTEST: LOSS OF SHAREHOLDER VALUE AND DEFICIENT BOARD OVERSIGHT

-Comments On Recent Proxy Advisory Firm Reports-

Newport Beach, California, May 15, 2008 Steven S. Myers, founder, retired chairman and chief executive officer of SM&A (NASDAQ:WINS), today stated that the recent conclusions expressed by ISS RiskMetrics and certain other proxy advisory firms regarding nominees for the SM&A Board of Directors fail to recognize that the Myers slate of director nominees would enhance the expertise of the SM&A board.

Mr. Myers said, In the last week, SM&A s current management team has focused on using scare tactics to intimidate shareholders and employees and diverting their attention from the key issues of this contest: the severe loss of shareholder value and the lack of corporate governance, transparency and accountability under the current board.

ISS RiskMetrics in its report clearly confers and states that:

We believe that the dissident shareholder has made a valid case for a change and greater management oversight given the sustainable poor performance of the company.

The ISS RiskMetrics Report also makes clear the following:

the stock price has seen a significant decline in recent past under the current board supervision, which suggests that some change may be needed at the company.

we note that the company s stock price has suffered under the new management despite improved financial performance.

The ISS RiskMetrics report is critical, as we were in our press release of May 8th, of the modified credit agreement entered into by SM&A with City National bank on May 1st.

Their report highlights: We have concerns with regard to the Event of Default provision included in the aforementioned credit agreement [which] would hinder shareholders ability to affect board changes at the company.

Edgar Filing: SM&A - Form DFAN14A

We have some concerns with regard to the company's decision with respect to the new loan agreement. We believe sound corporate governance suggests that shareholders should have the ultimate ability to determine the future of their investment. Removal of directors should not be tied to the risk of default under financing transactions. We share the dissident concerns with regard to the independent management oversight.

All of this points to poor board governance, questionable decision making and inadequate representation of shareholder interests on the current board.

Mr. Myers added, "Because of inadequate board oversight, the current management team has ignored the key issue of poor stock price performance. They have instead intimidated shareholders by claiming that they are irreplaceable, and that without their continued tenure the company would collapse. This is ridiculous.

The Myers slate of director nominees—Steven S. Myers, Albert S. Nagy, Kenneth Colbaugh and Redge Bendheim—will assure shareholders of the best qualified board to grow SM&A's business leadership and in turn maximize shareholder value. The Myers nominees own in the aggregate almost 17% of SM&A's outstanding common shares, compared to less than 2% owned by the current board. The Myers nominees' interests are fully aligned with the economic interests of all SM&A shareholders. The Myers nominees offer SM&A and its shareholders extensive industry and financial expertise developed through years of experience in working with SM&A. This is in sharp contrast to the less than extensive company, industry and financial backgrounds of the present board.

The Myers director nominees' priority is to grow SM&A's business leadership and to achieve enhanced shareholder value. We are committed to: 1) providing better financial oversight to ensure reasonably accurate guidance; 2) correcting accounting methodology to remedy the negative impact of the accounting process employed by SM&A related to the PPI acquisition; 3) improving fiscal strategy to more effectively deploy available cash; and 4) reversing the recent attrition of critical talent.

We urge all shareholders to vote the GOLD PROXY CARD TODAY for the Myers director nominees.

Proxy Material from Steven S. Myers has already been distributed to all shareholders including a GOLD PROXY CARD. Mr. Myers urges all shareholders to vote only the GOLD PROXY CARD. If you have any questions, or need assistance with voting, please contact:
