to Joint Proxy Statement/ Prospectus dated September 10, 2008

PROPOSED MERGER YOUR VOTE IS VERY IMPORTANT

Dear Invitrogen and Applied Biosystems Stockholders:

On or about September 12, 2008, Invitrogen Corporation, or Invitrogen, and Applied Biosystems Inc., or ABI, mailed to you a joint proxy statement/prospectus dated September 10, 2008, relating to the special meeting of Invitrogen stockholders and the special meeting of Applied Biosystems stockholders to consider, among other things, proposals related to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended by Amendment No. 1 thereto, dated as of September 9, 2008, by and among Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition, LLC and ABI (formerly known as Applera Corporation).

We are providing you this supplement to the joint proxy statement/prospectus to describe an amendment to the merger agreement between Invitrogen and ABI that was entered into on October 15, 2008, and to provide you with updated information regarding the potential tax consequences of the merger. Stockholders are urged to read this supplement carefully together with the joint proxy statement/prospectus. The information contained in this supplement replaces and supersedes any inconsistent information set forth in the joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Invitrogen and ABI amended the merger agreement to, among other things, eliminate a condition to closing requiring that the parties receive certain opinions of their respective counsel as to the tax treatment of the transaction. Under the prior terms of the merger agreement, completion of the merger was conditioned on the receipt of an opinion from counsel to each of Invitrogen and ABI to the effect that the merger will be treated as a tax-free reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and that each of Invitrogen and ABI will be treated as a party to that reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. If the merger qualifies as a tax-free reorganization, then holders of Applied Biosystems stock may receive more favorable tax treatment on the stock consideration issued to them in the merger. Given the current trading price of Invitrogen's common stock, however, the parties determined that they currently would not be able to obtain the necessary opinions because of the value of the cash consideration to be received by Applied Biosystems stockholders as compared to the value of the stock consideration they will receive. Applicable tax regulations generally limit the percentage of the consideration that can be paid in cash if the transaction is to qualify as a tax-free reorganization. We believe the recent prices for Invitrogen common stock to be the result of overall unprecedented conditions in the stock market and the decline in stock prices generally as opposed to any factor specifically affecting Invitrogen.

The amendment to the merger agreement will allow Invitrogen and ABI to proceed with the merger even if the tax opinions cannot be obtained. That means that holders of Applied Biosystems stock may not be entitled to the potentially more favorable tax treatment of the stock consideration issued to them in the merger that would be available if the merger qualified as a tax-free reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. However, in general, if you are a U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock who realizes gain on the merger, if the amount of cash you receive in the merger is equal to or greater than the gain you realize in the merger—that is, the amount by which the sum of the amount of cash you receive and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the Invitrogen common stock you receive (including cash received in lieu of any fractional shares of Invitrogen common stock) exceeds your adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger—the amount of gain on the exchange that will be taxable to you should generally be the same regardless of whether the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. See Update to Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger in this supplement.

The merger agreement amendment also modified the structure of the merger in order to ensure that, if the merger does not qualify as a tax-free reorganization, the merger will not be taxable to ABI or Invitrogen, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group. This amendment is necessary so that the committed financing for the merger, together with available cash on hand, will be sufficient to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration and all related costs and expenses since the transaction was not expected to be taxable to ABI or Invitrogen. Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

Invitrogen and ABI remain committed to completing the transaction, which is expected to close in November 2008. Despite the upheaval in the financial and credit markets, the boards of directors of Invitrogen and ABI continue to believe the merger is in the best interests of each company's stockholders. The amendments to the merger agreement will help to reduce uncertainty that the merger will be completed and allow the transaction to go forward even in the midst of the unprecedented volatility currently being experienced in the securities markets and the current trading price of Invitrogen's common stock.

The Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders will be held on October 16, 2008 at ABI's headquarters, located at 301 Merritt 7, Main Avenue (old U.S. Route 7), Norwalk, Connecticut 06851, for the sole purpose of adjourning the meeting to 9:00 a.m., Eastern time, on October 28, 2008. ABI intends to adjourn its special meeting of stockholders in order to provide stockholders with additional time to consider the changes to the merger effectuated by Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement and to review the enclosed supplement to the joint proxy statement/prospectus.

The adjourned Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders will be held for the following purposes:

to consider and vote on a proposal to approve and adopt the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended, by and among Invitrogen Corporation, a Delaware corporation, Atom Acquisition, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen Corporation, Atom Acquisition Corporation, a Delaware corporation and an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, and Applied Biosystems Inc. (formerly known as Applera Corporation), as such agreement may be amended from time to time, and to approve the merger of Atom Acquisition Corporation with and into Applied Biosystems Inc.; and to vote upon an adjournment of the Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies if there are not sufficient votes for the foregoing proposal.

Invitrogen has postponed its special meeting of stockholders until October 28, 2008 in order to provide stockholders with additional time to consider the changes to the merger effectuated by Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement and to review the enclosed supplement to the joint proxy statement/prospectus.

The Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders will be held for the following purposes:

to consider and vote upon a proposal for the Invitrogen stockholders to approve the issuance of Invitrogen common stock to the stockholders of Applied Biosystems Inc. (formerly known as Applera Corporation) in the merger of Atom Acquisition Corporation, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, with and into Applied Biosystems Inc., as contemplated by the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended, by and among Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition, LLC, Atom Acquisition Corporation, and Applied Biosystems Inc., as such agreement may be amended from time to time; to consider and vote upon a proposed amendment to Invitrogen's restated certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000; and to consider and vote upon any adjournments of the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of any or all of the foregoing proposals.

This supplement does not change the proposals previously submitted for approval by Invitrogen and ABI in the joint proxy statement/prospectus, except to amend the description of the merger agreement and update certain disclosures related to the amendment. The Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders and the adjourned Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders will be held at the dates, times and locations set forth below. Whether or not you plan to attend your company's meeting, please take the time to submit your proxy or vote by telephone or the internet. If you previously submitted your proxy, or voted by telephone or the internet, your proxy or vote will continue to be valid, and you do not need to submit a new proxy or otherwise vote again unless you want to change your vote. If your shares of Invitrogen common stock or Applied Biosystems stock are held in an account with a bank, broker or other nominee, you must instruct your bank, broker or other nominee how to vote those shares if you have not already voted or if you wish to change your vote. A revised proxy card for holders of Applied Biosystems stock is enclosed.

For Invitrogen stockholders:

The board of directors of Invitrogen recommends that Invitrogen stockholders vote FOR the issuance of Invitrogen common stock in the merger, FOR the amendment to the Invitrogen restated certificate of incorporation, and FOR any adjournment of the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies.

We currently expect that the merger will be completed in November 2008 and we will issue a press release announcing the election deadline at least five business days prior to the closing date of the merger.

Attached to this letter is a supplement to the joint proxy statement/prospectus, or the supplement, containing additional and updated information about the amended merger agreement. UPDATE TO ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE MERGER AND SPECIAL MEETINGS OF STOCKHOLDERS OF INVITROGEN AND APPLIED BIOSYSTEMS

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to include the following disclosure in Questions and Answers about the Merger and Special Meetings of Stockholders of Invitrogen and Applied Biosystems :

The following section provides brief answers to some of the more likely questions raised in connection with the amendment to the merger agreement and the merger. This section is not intended to contain all of the information that is important to you. You are urged to read the entire supplement and joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully, including the information incorporated by reference into the joint proxy statement/prospectus and the annexes to the joint proxy statement/prospectus and this supplement.

Q: Why are you sending me this supplement?

A: We are sending you this supplement because on October 15, 2008, Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition, LLC, Atom Acquisition Corporation and ABI entered into Amendment No. 2 to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended by Amendment No. 1 thereto, dated as of September 9, 2008, by and among Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition LLC and Applied Biosystems (formerly known as Applera Corporation). This supplement provides information about Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement and related matters.

Q: What are the significant amendments to the original merger agreement?

A: Invitrogen and ABI amended the merger agreement to, among other things, eliminate a condition to closing requiring that the parties receive opinions of their respective counsel as to the tax treatment of the transaction. Under the prior terms of the merger agreement, completion of the merger was conditioned on the receipt of an opinion from counsel to each of Invitrogen and ABI to the effect that the merger will be treated as a tax-free reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and that each of Invitrogen and ABI will be treated as a party to that reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. If the merger qualifies as a tax-free reorganization, then holders of Applied Biosystems may receive more favorable tax treatment on the stock consideration issued to them in the merger. However, in general, if you are a U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock who realizes gain on the merger, if the amount of cash you receive in the merger is equal to or greater than the gain you realize in the merger that is, the amount by which the sum of the amount of cash you receive and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the Invitrogen common stock you receive (including cash received in lieu of any fractional shares of Invitrogen common stock) exceeds your adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger the amount of gain on the exchange that will be taxable to you should generally be the same regardless of whether the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. See Update to Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger.

The merger agreement amendment also modified the structure of the merger in order to ensure that, if the merger does not qualify as a tax-free reorganization, the merger will not be taxable to ABI or Invitrogen, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group. Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

Q: Why did Invitrogen and ABI amend the merger agreement?

A: Given the current trading price of Invitrogen's common stock, the parties determined that they currently would not be able to obtain the necessary opinions because of the value of the cash consideration to be received by Applied Biosystems stockholders as compared to the value of the stock consideration they will receive. Applicable tax regulations generally limit the percentage of the consideration that can be paid in cash if the transaction is to qualify as a tax-free reorganization. We believe the recent prices for Invitrogen common stock to be the result of overall unprecedented conditions in the stock market and the decline in stock prices generally as opposed to any factor specifically affecting Invitrogen. By amending the merger agreement to eliminate the condition that each party receives an opinion of its counsel to the effect that the merger will constitute a reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and each of Invitrogen and ABI will be treated as a party to that reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code, Invitrogen and ABI will be able to proceed with the merger even if these tax opinions cannot be obtained.

The amendment to the merger agreement to modify the structure of the merger will ensure that, if the merger does not qualify as a tax-free reorganization, the merger will not be taxable to ABI or Invitrogen, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group. This amendment is necessary so that the committed financing for the merger, together with available cash on hand, will be sufficient to pay the merger consideration and all related costs and expenses since the transaction was not expected to be taxable to ABI or Invitrogen.

Q: What are the tax consequences of the merger for U.S. holders of Applied Biosystems stock if the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code?

A: If the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, each U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock will recognize gain or loss with respect to each share of Applied Biosystems stock that it exchanges in the merger equal to the difference, if any, between (a) the sum of any cash received (including cash received in lieu of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received by such holder in the exchange and (b) such holder's tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged therefor. In such event, the U.S. holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Invitrogen common stock so received will equal their fair market value as of the effective time of the merger, and such holder's holding period for such shares will begin the day after the merger.

However, in general, if you are a U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock who realizes gain on the merger, if the amount of cash you receive in the merger is equal to or greater than the gain you realize in the merger—that is, the amount by which the sum of the amount of cash you receive and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the Invitrogen common stock you receive (including cash received in lieu of any fractional shares of Invitrogen common stock) exceeds your adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger—the amount of gain on the exchange that will be taxable to you should generally be the same regardless of whether or not the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Please review carefully the information in this supplement under the caption "Update to Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger" for a description of the material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger. The tax consequences to you will depend on your own situation. Please consult your tax advisors for a full understanding of the tax consequences of the merger to you.

Q: What are the tax consequences of the merger for U.S. holders of Invitrogen common stock if the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code?

A: There are no consequences for U.S. holders of Invitrogen common stock if the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. Please review carefully the information under the caption "Update to Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger" for a description of the material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger.

Q: What is the effect of providing for the merger of a new entity, Atom Acquisition Corporation, with and into ABI?

A: The merger of Atom Acquisition Corporation with and into ABI will ensure that no gain will be recognized by ABI or Invitrogen as a result of the merger, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the Celera Separation.

Q: Do the board of directors of Invitrogen and the board of directors of ABI still support the merger?

A: Yes. The board of directors of Invitrogen recommends that Invitrogen stockholders vote at the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders to approve the issuance of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger agreement, as required by the listing requirements of NASDAQ, and to amend Invitrogen's restated certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000.

The board of directors of ABI recommends that Applied Biosystems stockholders vote at the Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders to adopt the merger agreement and approve any adjournments of the special meeting, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies.

UPDATE TO THE SUMMARY

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to include the following disclosure in Summary :

This update to the summary highlights important information about the proposed merger discussed in more detail elsewhere in this supplement and in the joint proxy statement/prospectus. This updated summary does not contain all of the information you should consider before voting on the issuance of shares of Invitrogen common stock, the amendment to the Invitrogen certificate of incorporation or the adoption of the amended merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby. To understand the merger more fully, you are urged to read carefully this entire supplement and Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this supplement, and the joint proxy statement/prospectus and all of its annexes before voting. The amended merger agreement is the legal document that governs the merger. In addition, Invitrogen and ABI encourage you to read the information incorporated by reference into the joint proxy statement/prospectus, which includes important information about Invitrogen and ABI that has been filed with the SEC.

The Companies

Atom Acquisition Corporation

Atom Acquisition Corporation, a Delaware corporation, is an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen. Atom Acquisition Corporation was formed exclusively for the purpose of effecting the merger.

The Merger

On June 11, 2008, Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition and ABI entered into the merger agreement described in the joint proxy statement/prospectus. The merger agreement was amended on September 9, 2008, and on October 15, 2008, and all references to the merger agreement in the joint proxy statement/prospectus and this supplement include the amendments thereto. Pursuant to the merger agreement, (1) Atom Acquisition Corporation, a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Atom Acquisition, LLC and an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, will merge into ABI, with ABI continuing as the surviving corporation and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Atom Acquisition, LLC and an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, and (2) immediately thereafter, ABI will merge into Atom Acquisition, LLC, with Atom Acquisition, LLC continuing as the surviving company and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen. Together, this is referred to as the merger. As a result of the merger, ABI will cease to exist, and its businesses will be owned by Invitrogen and Invitrogen will continue as a public company. Immediately following the merger, a newly formed corporation wholly-owned by Invitrogen will then merge with and into Invitrogen, with Invitrogen continuing as the surviving corporation for the sole purpose of changing the name of Invitrogen to Applied Biosystems, Inc. Invitrogen and ABI have attached Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement as Annex A to this supplement and encourage you to carefully read Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement along with the merger agreement and Amendment No. 1 to the merger agreement, which were attached as Annexes A and B, respectively, to the joint proxy statement/prospectus, in their entirety.

Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger

Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

If the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, each U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock will recognize gain or loss with respect to each share of Applied Biosystems stock that it exchanges in the merger equal to the difference, if any, between (1) the sum of any cash received (including cash received in lieu of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received by such holder in the exchange and (2) such holder's tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged therefor. In such event, the U.S. holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Invitrogen common stock so received will equal their fair market value as of the effective time of the merger, and such holder's holding period for such shares will begin the day after the merger.

There are no tax consequences for U.S. holders of Invitrogen common stock if the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Please review carefully the information under the caption "Update to Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger" for a description of the material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger. The tax consequences to you will depend on your own situation. Please consult your tax advisors for a full understanding of the tax consequences of the merger to you.

Approval of Invitrogen's Board of Directors

The board of directors of Invitrogen, or the Invitrogen Board, has unanimously approved and adopted the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by it and unanimously recommends that Invitrogen stockholders vote at the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders to approve the issuance of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger agreement, as required by the listing requirements of NASDAQ, and to amend Invitrogen's restated certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000. Approval of the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger agreement is a condition to the completion of the merger, and approval of the proposal to amend Invitrogen's restated certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares is a condition to completion of the merger and is necessary for Invitrogen to issue the shares of Invitrogen common stock in the merger. In addition, the Invitrogen board of directors unanimously recommends that Invitrogen stockholders vote to approve a proposal to grant authority to the proxyholders to vote to adjourn the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders in favor of any or all of the foregoing proposals. Approval of the proposal to adjourn the Invitrogen special meeting of stockholders, if necessary, is not a condition to the completion of the merger. As described under the heading "The Merger- Interests of Invitrogen's Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger" in the joint proxy statement/prospectus, some of Invitrogen's directors and executive officers may have interests in the merger that are different from, or in addition to, those of Invitrogen stockholders generally.

Approval of ABI's Board of Directors

The board of directors of ABI has approved the merger agreement, declared the merger agreement advisable, determined that the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by it are in the best interests of ABI and Applied Biosystems stockholders, and recommends that Applied Biosystems stockholders vote at the Applied Biosystems special meeting of stockholders to adopt the merger agreement and approve any adjournments of the special meeting, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies. See "The Merger Background of the Merger" in the joint proxy statement/prospectus. As described under the heading "The Merger Interests of ABI's Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger" in the joint proxy statement/prospectus, some of ABI's directors and executive officers may have interests in the merger that are different from, or in addition to, those of holders of Applied Biosystems stock generally.

Conditions to Completion of the Merger

A number of conditions to each party's obligation to complete the merger must be satisfied before the merger will be completed. These include among others:

the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger by Applied Biosystems stockholders and the approval by Invitrogen stockholders of (1) the issuance of Invitrogen common stock to Applied Biosystems stockholders in the merger, and (2) an amendment to the restated certificate of incorporation of Invitrogen to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000;

the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period and any extension of the waiting period under the HSR Act, the statutory waiting period under which expired at 11:59 p.m. on July 28, 2008, and the ECMR;

the absence of any legal prohibition having the effect of preventing or prohibiting completion of the merger which prohibition continues to be in effect;

the effectiveness, under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, of the registration statement of which the joint proxy statement/prospectus is a part and the absence of any stop order having been issued and remaining in effect;

the approval for listing on the NASDAQ Global Select Market of the shares of Invitrogen common stock issuable in the merger and to be reserved for issuance upon the exercise, vesting or payment under any ABI stock option that has been converted into the right to purchase such number of shares of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement;

the accuracy and correctness of the representations and warranties of the other party, subject to certain qualifications described in the merger agreement; and the other party having performed and complied with its covenants in the merger agreement in all material respects prior to the effective time of the merger, and the receipt of a certificate from an officer of the other party to that effect.

The financing commitments secured by Invitrogen stipulate that no waiver of the conditions to the performance of obligations under the merger agreement that is materially adverse to the lenders under those financing commitments can be made without the consent of those lenders. Notwithstanding those financing commitments, to the extent permitted by law, either Invitrogen or ABI may waive the conditions to the performance of its obligations under the merger agreement and complete the merger even though one or more of these conditions has not been met. Neither Invitrogen nor ABI can give any assurance that all of the conditions to the merger will be either satisfied or waived or that the merger will occur.

UPDATE TO RISK FACTORS

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to include the following disclosure in Risk Factors :

If the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, the receipt of Invitrogen common stock as consideration for the merger may be taxable to holders of Applied Biosystems stock.

If the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, each U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock will recognize gain or loss with respect to each share of Applied Biosystems stock that it exchanges in the merger equal to the difference, if any, between (1) the sum of any cash received (including cash received in lieu of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received by such holder in the exchange and (2) such holder's tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged for shares of Invitrogen common stock. In such event, the U.S. holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Invitrogen common stock so received will equal their fair market value as of the effective time of the merger, and such holder's holding period for such shares will begin the day after the merger. The merger may not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code depending on the trading price of Invitrogen common stock at the time of the merger. On June 10, 2008, the last trading day before the execution date of the merger agreement, Invitrogen common stock closed at $43.69 per share, as reported on NASDAQ. From June 12, 2008, the day of the announcement of the proposed merger, through September 5, 2008, the last date for which share price information was included in the joint proxy statement/prospectus, the trading price of Invitrogen common stock ranged from a closing high of $44.35 per share to a closing low of $36.73 per share. From September 8, 2008 through October 14, 2008, the trading price of Invitrogen Common stock ranged from a closing high of $41.53 per share to a closing low of $27.93 per share. We believe the recent prices for Invitrogen common stock to be the result of overall conditions in the stock market and the decline in stock prices generally as opposed to any factor specifically affecting Invitrogen.

CAUTIONARY STATEMENT CONCERNING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Statements contained in this supplement that are not historical facts may constitute forward-looking statements, including statements relating to timing of and satisfaction of conditions to the merger, whether any of the anticipated benefits of the merger will be realized, future revenues, future net income, future cash flows, financial forecasts, future competitive positioning and business synergies, future acquisition cost savings, future expectations that the merger will be accretive to GAAP and cash earnings per share, future market demand, future benefits to stockholders, future debt payments and future economic and industry conditions. You are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this supplement, or, in the case of documents incorporated by reference, as of the date of those documents. Invitrogen and ABI disclaim any intent or obligation to update any forward-looking statements contained herein.

UPDATE TO THE MERGER

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to include the following disclosure in The Merger :

General Description of the Merger

Prior to entering into the merger agreement with ABI, Invitrogen formed Atom Acquisition, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen. Atom Acquisition Corporation, a Delaware corporation and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Atom Acquisition, LLC and an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen was formed in connection with Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement. Pursuant to the merger agreement, Atom Acquisition Corporation will be merged with and into ABI, with ABI being the surviving corporation. Immediately thereafter, ABI will be merged with and into Atom Acquisition, LLC, and Atom Acquisition, LLC will be the surviving company and Invitrogen's direct wholly-owned subsidiary.

Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement eliminates the condition to the closing of the merger that DLA Piper LLP (US), counsel to Invitrogen, and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, counsel to ABI, deliver opinions, effective as of the date of closing, to Invitrogen and ABI, respectively, substantially to the effect that (1) the merger will be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and (2) Invitrogen and ABI will each be treated as a party to the reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

There can be no assurance that the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and therefore no assurance that the merger will not be taxable to holders of Applied Biosystems stock to the extent that they receive Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger.

Background of the Merger

On October 15, 2008, Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition, LLC, Atom Acquisition Corporation and ABI entered into Amendment No. 2 to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended by Amendment No. 1 thereto, dated as of September 9, 2008, to, among other things, (1) add Atom Acquisition Corporation, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, as a party to the merger agreement, (2) provide that at the time of the merger, Atom Acquisition Corporation will be merged with and into ABI, with ABI being the surviving corporation, and immediately thereafter, ABI will merge with and into Atom Acquisition, LLC, with Atom Acquisition, LLC being the surviving company, and (3) eliminate the condition to the parties' obligations to complete the merger that each party receive an opinion of its respective counsel to the effect that the merger will be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and Invitrogen and ABI will each be treated as a party to the reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. Given the current trading price of Invitrogen's common stock, the parties determined that they currently would not be able to obtain the necessary opinions because of the value of the cash consideration to be received by Applied Biosystems stockholders as compared to the value of the stock consideration they will receive. We believe the recent prices for Invitrogen common stock to be the result of overall unprecedented conditions in the stock market and the decline in stock prices generally as opposed to any factor specifically affecting Invitrogen. Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

UPDATE TO THE MERGER AGREEMENT

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to include the following disclosure in The Merger Agreement :

Structure of the Merger

The Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of June 11, 2008, as amended by Amendment No. 1 thereto, dated as of September 9, 2008, and Amendment No. 2 thereto, dated as of October 15, 2008, by and among Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition, LLC, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, Atom Acquisition Corporation, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen, and ABI, provides for the merger of Atom Acquisition Corporation into ABI, with ABI continuing as the surviving corporation and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Atom Acquisition, LLC and, immediately thereafter, the merger of ABI into Atom Acquisition, LLC, with Atom Acquisition, LLC continuing as the surviving company and a direct wholly-owned subsidiary of Invitrogen. Together, this is referred to as the merger. As a result of the merger, ABI will cease to exist, and its businesses will be owned by Invitrogen and Invitrogen will continue as a public company. At the time of the merger, Invitrogen will (1) form a Delaware corporation, all of the outstanding shares of capital stock of which will be owned by Invitrogen and (2) immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, merge such subsidiary with and into Invitrogen pursuant to Section 253 of the DGCL, with Invitrogen continuing as the surviving corporation, for the sole purpose of changing the name of Invitrogen to Applied Biosystems, Inc.

Conditions to Completion of the Merger

Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement eliminates the condition to the parties' obligation to complete the merger that Invitrogen receive an opinion from DLA Piper LLP (US), counsel to Invitrogen, and ABI receive an opinion from Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, counsel to ABI, effective as of the date of closing, substantially to the effect that (1) the merger will be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, and (2) Invitrogen and ABI will each be treated as a party to the reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

UPDATE TO MATERIAL U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGER

The joint proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to replace in its entirety the disclosure under Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger with the following:

Prior to Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement, the obligations of Invitrogen and ABI to complete the merger were contingent upon, among other things, the receipt of tax opinions from counsel for each of Invitrogen and ABI substantially to the effect that the merger will be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, or the Internal Revenue Code, and that each of Invitrogen and ABI will be treated as the party to a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code. As discussed in the Risk Factors section of the joint proxy statement/prospectus of ABI and Invitrogen to which this supplement relates, the market price of Invitrogen stock as of the effective time could fall to a level such that counsel to both Invitrogen and ABI would not be able to deliver the tax opinions that were, prior to Amendment No. 2 to the merger agreement, a condition to the closing of the merger because such counsel could determine that the merger does not clearly satisfy the continuity of interest requirement for a tax-free reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. We believe this to be the result of overall conditions in the stock market and the decline in stock prices generally as opposed to any factor specifically affecting Invitrogen. As a result of recent market conditions, Invitrogen and ABI have amended the merger agreement to eliminate this condition to the completion of the merger in order to permit the merger to be completed under circumstances where these tax opinions have not been obtained. We have revised the summary of certain material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger to include a summary of the tax consequences to holders of Applied Biosystems stock if the merger does not qualify as a tax-free reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

General

The following summarizes certain material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger. The following summary is not binding on the Internal Revenue Service. It is based upon the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations, rulings, and decisions thereunder in effect as of the date of this document, all of which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive effect, and to differing interpretations. This summary, to the extent it addresses the tax consequences to U.S. holders (as defined below) of Applied Biosystems stock, addresses only those stockholders who hold their shares of Applied Biosystems stock as a capital asset, and does not address all of the U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to particular Applied Biosystems stockholders in light of their individual circumstances, or to Applied Biosystems stockholders who are subject to special rules, such as:

financial institutions;

mutual funds, regulated investment companies or real estate investment trusts;

tax-exempt organizations;

persons whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar;

insurance companies;

dealers in securities or foreign currencies;

traders in securities who elect to apply a market-to-market method of accounting;

foreign holders (i.e., persons other than U.S. holders, as defined below);

persons who hold shares of Applied Biosystems stock as a hedge against currency risk or as part of a straddle, constructive sale or conversion transaction; or holders who acquired their shares of Applied Biosystems stock upon the exercise of warrants or employee stock options or otherwise as compensation or through a tax-qualified plan.

In addition, tax consequences under state, local and foreign laws and U.S. federal laws other than U.S. federal income tax laws are not addressed.

Applied Biosystems stockholders are urged to consult their tax advisors as to the specific tax consequences to them of the merger, including the applicability and effect of U.S. federal, state, local and foreign income and other tax laws in their particular circumstances.

For purposes of this discussion, a U.S. holder means a beneficial owner of Applied Biosystems stock who is:

an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States;

a corporation (or other entity taxable as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes) created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States or any State or the District of Columbia;

an estate the income of which is includible in gross income for U.S. federal income tax purposes regardless of its source; or a trust if (1) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust or (2) the trust has a valid election in effect under the applicable U.S. Treasury regulations to be treated as a U.S. person for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

If a business entity classified as a partnership for U.S. federal tax purposes (a partnership) holds Applied Biosystems stock, the tax treatment of a partner will generally depend upon the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. Partners of partnerships holding Applied Biosystems stock should consult their own tax advisers.

Certain Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger

It is no longer a condition to the closing of the merger that DLA Piper LLP (US) and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP deliver opinions, effective as of the date of closing, to Invitrogen and ABI, respectively, substantially to the effect that (1) the merger will be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and (2) that each of Invitrogen and ABI will be treated as the party to a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Each of ABI and Invitrogen has received an opinion from its respective counsel to the effect that, based on the law in effect and the facts existing as of the date of the opinions, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the previously completed separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

Any tax opinion is based on representations made by Invitrogen and ABI, including factual representations and certifications contained in officers' certificates to be delivered at closing by Invitrogen and ABI, and assumes that these representations are true, correct and complete, without regard to any knowledge limitation. Furthermore, any tax opinion is subject to assumptions, limitations and qualifications. Any such opinions also are based on the assumptions that the merger will be consummated in the manner contemplated by, and in accordance with the provisions of, the merger agreement, as amended, and that the merger will be effective under the laws of the State of Delaware. Any such opinions further assume that the parties have complied with and, if applicable, will continue to comply with, the covenants contained in the merger agreement. If any of these representations or assumptions are inconsistent with the actual facts, the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the merger could be adversely affected. An opinion of counsel represents counsel's best legal judgment and is not binding on the Internal Revenue Service or any court. No ruling has been, or will be, sought from the Internal Revenue Service as to the tax consequences of the merger.

Tax Consequences of the Merger for U.S. Holders if the Merger Does Qualify as a Reorganization Within the Meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code

If the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, the merger will have the following U.S. federal income tax consequences to Applied Biosystems stockholders:

Applied Biosystems Stockholders Receiving Only Invitrogen Common Stock. No gain or loss will be recognized by an Applied Biosystems stockholder as a result of the surrender of shares of Applied Biosystems stock in exchange for shares of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger, if such holder receives no cash pursuant to the merger, except as discussed below with respect to cash received instead of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock. The aggregate tax basis of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received in the merger (including any fractional shares of Invitrogen common stock deemed received) will be the same as the aggregate tax basis of the shares of Applied Biosystems stock surrendered in exchange for the Invitrogen common stock. The holding period of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received (including any fractional share of Invitrogen common stock deemed received) will include the holding period of shares of Applied Biosystems stock surrendered in exchange for the Invitrogen common stock.

Applied Biosystems Stockholders Receiving Only Cash. An Applied Biosystems stockholder that does not receive any shares of Invitrogen common stock pursuant to the merger will generally recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount of cash received and the holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger. Such gain or loss will generally be a capital gain or loss, and will generally be a long-term capital gain or loss to the extent that, at the effective time of the merger, the holder has a holding period in such Applied Biosystems stock of more than one year. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Applied Biosystems Stockholders Receiving Both Cash and Invitrogen Common Stock. If an Applied Biosystems stockholder receives both Invitrogen common stock and cash (other than cash received instead of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) pursuant to the merger, that holder will generally recognize gain equal to the lesser of (1) the amount of cash received (excluding cash received instead of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) and (2) the amount by which the sum of the amount of cash received and the value (as of the effective time of the merger) of the Invitrogen common stock received exceeds the holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger. This gain will generally be capital gain unless the holder's exchange of Applied Biosystems stock for cash and Invitrogen common stock has the effect of the distribution of a dividend.

In general, the determination as to whether the receipt of cash has the effect of a distribution of a dividend depends upon whether and to what extent the transactions related to the merger will be deemed to reduce a holder's percentage ownership of Invitrogen immediately following the merger. In making a determination as to whether or not the receipt of cash has the effect of a distribution of a dividend, certain constructive ownership rules must be taken into account. For purposes of this determination, a holder will be treated as if it first exchanged all of its Applied Biosystems stock solely for Invitrogen common stock, and then a portion of the Invitrogen stock so received was immediately redeemed by Invitrogen for the cash (excluding cash received instead of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) that the holder actually received in the merger. The Internal Revenue Service has indicated that a reduction in the interest of a minority stockholder that owns a small number of shares in a publicly traded and widely held corporation and that exercises no control over corporate affairs would result in capital gain (as opposed to dividend) treatment.

Further, capital gains treatment should be available to any U.S. holder who receives both cash and Invitrogen common stock in the merger if the percentage of Invitrogen common stock actually and constructively owned by such U.S. holder immediately after the merger is less than 80% of the percentage of Invitrogen common stock which such U.S. holder would have owned (actually and constructively) were such U.S. holder to have received solely Invitrogen common stock in the merger. A holder is urged to consult its tax advisers about the possibility that all or a portion of any cash received in exchange for Applied Biosystems stock will be treated as a dividend. The capital gain recognized generally will be long-term capital gain to the extent that, at the effective time of the merger, the holder has a holding period in Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger of more than one year.

The aggregate tax basis of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received in the merger (including any fractional share of Invitrogen common stock deemed received) to a holder receiving cash in the merger that was not treated as a dividend will be the same as the aggregate tax basis of the shares of Applied Biosystems stock surrendered in exchange therefor in the merger, increased by the amount of capital gain recognized (excluding gain recognized with respect to cash received instead of fractional shares) and reduced by the amount of cash received (excluding cash received instead of fractional shares). The holding period of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received (including any fractional share of Invitrogen common stock deemed received) will include the holding period of shares of Applied Biosystems stock surrendered in exchange for the Invitrogen common stock. If a holder's tax basis in shares of Applied Biosystems stock exceeds the sum of the amount of cash received and the value of the Invitrogen common stock received in exchange for the shares of Applied Biosystems stock, such a holder will not recognize loss.

Applied Biosystems Stockholders Receiving Cash Instead of a Fractional Share. Applied Biosystems stockholders who receive cash instead of fractional shares of Invitrogen common stock will be treated as having received the fractional shares in the merger and then as having exchanged the fractional shares for cash. These holders will generally recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between the tax basis allocable to the fractional shares and the amount of cash received. The gain or loss generally will be capital gain or loss and long-term capital gain or loss if the Applied Biosystems stock exchanged has been held for more than one year at the effective time of the merger. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Tax Consequences of the Merger for U.S. Holders if the Merger Does Not Qualify as a Reorganization Within the Meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code

If the merger does not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, each U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock will recognize gain or loss with respect to each share of Applied Biosystems stock that it exchanges in the merger equal to the difference, if any, between (1) the sum of any cash received (including cash received in lieu of a fractional share of Invitrogen common stock) and the fair market value, as of the effective time of the merger, of the shares of Invitrogen common stock received by such holder in the exchange and (2) such holder's tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged therefor. In such event, the U.S. holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Invitrogen common stock so received will equal their fair market value as of the effective time of the merger, and such holder's holding period for such shares will begin the day after the merger.

In general, in the case of a U.S. holder of Applied Biosystems stock who realizes gain on the merger, if the amount of cash received by such a U.S. holder in the merger is equal to or greater than that U.S. holder's gain realized in the merger (i.e., the amount by which the sum of the amount of cash received and the value (as of the effective time of the merger) of the Invitrogen common stock received exceeds the U.S. holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Applied Biosystems stock exchanged in the merger), the U.S. federal income tax consequences to such U.S. holder should generally be the same regardless of whether the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Tax Consequences of the Merger to ABI and Invitrogen

Except with respect to the effect, if any, of the merger on the separation of ABI's Celera business group, the merger will not result in the recognition of gain or loss to ABI or Invitrogen.

Applied Biosystems Stockholders Exercising Appraisal Rights

A U.S. holder who exercises appraisal rights under Delaware law and receives cash in exchange for its Applied Biosystems stock will generally recognize capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the cash received by such holder (other than any cash received that is treated as actual or imputed interest, which will be taxable as ordinary income) and such holder's tax basis in the Applied Biosystems stock exchanged therefor.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Cash payments received in the merger by a U.S. holder may, under certain circumstances, be subject to information reporting and backup withholding at a rate of 28% of the cash payable to the holder, unless the holder provides proof of an applicable exemption, furnishes its taxpayer identification number (in the case of individuals, their social security number) and otherwise complies with all applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. Any amounts withheld from payments to a U.S. holder under the backup withholding rules are not additional tax and will be allowed as a refund or credit against the U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, provided the required information is timely furnished to the Internal Revenue Service.

The foregoing discussion is not intended to be legal or tax advice to any particular Applied Biosystems stockholder. Tax matters regarding the merger are very complicated, and the tax consequences of the merger to any particular Applied Biosystems stockholder will depend on that stockholder's particular situation. Applied Biosystems stockholders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the specific tax consequences of the merger, including tax return reporting requirements, the applicability of federal, state, local and non-U.S. tax laws and the effect of any proposed change in the tax laws to them.

(b) Neither the Company nor Parent shall, nor shall they permit any of their respective Subsidiaries to, take or cause to be taken any action (including agreeing to any transaction or entering into any agreement), except with respect to the Celera Separation, that would result in the Merger and the Second Merger failing, as an integrated transaction, to qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code; or take or cause to take any action that would prevent the merger of Merger Sub into Company from qualifying as a qualified stock purchase within the meaning of Section 338(d)(3) of the Code in the event that the Merger and the Second Merger, taken together, do not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code.

(c) Parent and the Company shall use their commercially reasonable efforts, and shall cause their respective Subsidiaries to use all commercially reasonable efforts, to cause (i) the Merger and the Second Merger, as an integrated transaction, to qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code and (ii) the merger of Merger Sub into Company to qualify as a qualified stock purchase within the meaning of Section 338(d)(3) of the Code in the event that the Merger and the Second Merger, taken together, do not qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code, including providing the representations, covenants and certificates referred to in Sections 5.5(d)(iii) and 6.1(g) of this Agreement.

Section 22. Amendment to Section 5.5(d)(iii). Section 5.5(d)(iii) of the Merger Agreement is hereby deleted and replaced in its entirety with the following:

(iii) (A) cooperate with each other in obtaining a written opinion (each such opinion, a Tax Opinion) of its respective legal counsel, Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, in the case of the Company, and DLA Piper LLP (US), in the case of Parent (each such counsel, Tax Counsel), dated as of the Effective Time, to the effect that, on the basis of facts, representations, assumptions and qualifications set forth in such opinion, the Merger and the Second Merger, taken together, will be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code and Parent and the Company each will be treated as a party to the reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Code; and (B), cooperate with each other in obtaining a written opinion of its respective legal counsel (each such opinion, a Company Tax Opinion), dated as of the Effective Time, to the effect that, on the basis of facts, representations, assumptions and qualifications set forth in such opinion, except with respect to the effect, if any, of the Merger and the Second Merger on the Celera Separation, neither the Merger nor the Second Merger will result in the recognition of gain or loss to the Company or Parent for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In the event that Tax Counsel cannot conclude that the Merger and the Second Merger, taken together, will be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code, the Company and Parent shall cooperate with each other in obtaining a Tax Opinion of its respective Tax Counsel, dated as of the Effective Time, to the effect that, on the basis of facts, representations, assumptions and qualifications set forth in such opinion, the Merger and the Second Merger, taken together, should be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code and, if they are so treated, Parent and the Company each will be treated as a party to the reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Code. In each case, each of the Company, Parent, Merger Sub and Acquisition Sub shall cooperate with each Tax Counsel and shall deliver to each Tax Counsel for purposes of each Tax Opinion and each Company Tax Opinion customary representations and covenants, including those contained in certificates of the Company, Parent, Merger Sub and others, reasonably satisfactory in form and substance to each Tax Counsel. For the avoidance of doubt, it shall not be a condition to any party's obligation to consummate the transactions contemplated by this Agreement that any Tax Opinion or Company Tax Opinion specified in this Section 5.2(b) has been obtained by either the Company or Parent.

Section 23. Amendment to Section 5.12. Section 5.12 of the Merger Agreement is hereby deleted and replaced in its entirety with the following:

Section 5.12 Indemnification and Insurance.

(a) Parent, Merger Sub and Acquisition Sub agree that all rights to exculpation and indemnification, including rights to the advancement of expenses, for acts or omissions occurring at or prior to the Effective Time, whether asserted or claimed prior to, at or after the Effective Time (including any matters arising in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement), now existing in favor of the current or former directors, officers or employees, as the case may be (the Indemnified Parties), of the Company or its Subsidiaries as provided in their respective certificate of incorporation or by-laws or in any agreement shall survive the Merger and shall continue in full force and effect for a period of six (6) years from and after the Effective Time. For a period of six (6) years from and after the Effective Time, Parent, the Surviving Corporation and the Surviving Company shall (i) maintain in effect (A) the current provisions regarding indemnification of and the advancement of expenses to officers and directors contained in the Company Organizational Documents (or comparable organizational documents) of each of the Company and its Subsidiaries and (B) any indemnification agreements of the Company and its Subsidiaries with any of their respective directors, officers and employees existing as on the date hereof, and (ii) jointly and severally indemnify the Indemnified Parties to the fullest extent permitted by applicable Law. For purposes of the foregoing: (i) in the event any claim is asserted within the six-year period during which Parent, the Surviving Corporation and the Surviving Company are required to maintain the indemnification arrangements of the Company and its Subsidiaries, all such rights in respect of any such claim shall continue until disposition thereof; and (ii) any determination required to be made with respect to whether an Indemnified Party's conduct complies with the standards set forth under the DGCL, the Company Organizational Documents (or the organizational documents of the Surviving Corporation or the Surviving Company) or any such agreement, as the case may be, for purposes of the allowance of indemnification or advancement of expenses, shall be made by independent legal counsel selected by such Indemnified Party and reasonably acceptable to Parent. For a period of six (6) years from and after the Effective Time, the Surviving Corporation or the Surviving Company shall either cause to be maintained in effect the current policies of directors' and officers' liability insurance and fiduciary liability insurance maintained by the Company or its Subsidiaries or provide substitute policies or purchase a tail policy, in either case, of at least the same coverage and amounts containing terms and conditions which are, in the aggregate, no less advantageous to the insured with respect to claims arising from facts or events that occurred on or before the Effective Time, except that in no event shall the Surviving Corporation or the Surviving Company be required to pay with respect to such insurance policies in respect of any one policy year more than 250% of the annual premium paid by the Company for such insurance for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2008 (the Maximum Amount), and if the Surviving Corporation or Surviving Company is unable to obtain the insurance required by this Section 5.12 it shall obtain as much comparable insurance as possible for an annual premium equal to the Maximum Amount.

(b) The provisions of this Section 5.12 are intended to be for the benefit of, and shall be enforceable by, each of the Indemnified Parties and their heirs and legal representatives.

(c) The rights of the Indemnified Parties and their heirs and legal representatives under this Section 5.12 shall be in addition to any rights such Indemnified Parties may have under the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of the Company or any of its Subsidiaries, or under any other applicable Laws.

(d) In the event that either Parent, the Surviving Corporation or the Surviving Company or any of their respective successors or assigns (A) consolidates with or merges into any other persons, or (B) transfers 50% or more of its properties or assets to any person, then and in each case, proper provision shall be made so the applicable successors and assigns or transferees assume the obligations set forth in this Section 5.12.
