Agenda

What are we doing?

Why did we do it?

What does it all mean?

What's next?

How do I keep up?

Who's that guy?

What are we doing?

NATCO is being acquired by Cameron in a stock-for-stock transaction.

Our shareholders will get 1.185 shares of Cameron for each of their shares:

Today's equivalent value of about $38.45 share

Represents a 42% premium over average last 10 days trading.

Closing
of
the transaction
is expected
during the third
quarter,
subject
to
requisite approvals.

NATCO's
organization will become part of Cameron's DPS Group which includes Petreco
and will include their subsea processing initiative.

Why did we do it?

In combination, we will create a premier provider of process solutions, technologies and aftermarket services worldwide.

We can achieve significant synergies by:

Leveraging infrastructure/organization

Eliminating public company costs

Expanding our product offerings

Investing further in R&D and new product development.

The combination maximizes value for shareholders over time.

We share the same core values.

What does it mean?

Recognition of hard work/success.

Short-term uncertainty.

Focus, patience and receptivity to change required.

Assurance that people are fairly treated.

New opportunities for continuing employees.

What's next?

Regulatory process and shareholder vote.

Joint transitional teams to address:

Synergies (only as permitted by regulation)

Optimal organizational design

Pre-planning of post-closing integration

Developing a cohesive branding strategy.

Getting better acquainted with each other.

Running the business, doing our jobs!

How do I keep up?

Communication is the antidote to uncertainty.

Caution: What we can say, and when, is subject to legal constraints and ongoing business considerations.

Regular communication updates:

Q&A

Forward-Looking Statements

Information set forth in this document may contain forward-looking statements, which involve a number of risks and uncertainties. NATCO cautions readers that any forward-looking information is not a guarantee of future performance and that actual results could differ materially

from those contained
in
the forward-looking
information.

Such
forward-looking statements
include,
but
are not limited
to,
statements
about
the benefits
of
the
business
combination
transaction
involving

Cameron and NATCO, including future financial and operating results, the new company's plans, objectives, expectations and intentions and other statements that are not historical facts.

The following additional factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements:

the ability
to satisfy
the closing
conditions
the
transaction,
including
obtaining regulatory approvals
for

transaction and the approval of the merger agreement by the NATCO stockholders; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully; the risk that the cost savings and any other synergies from the transaction may not be fully realized or may take longer to realize than expected; disruption from the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers; the impact of other acquisitions that Cameron or NATCO have made or may make before the transaction; competition and its effect on pricing; and exploration and development spending by E&P operators.
