Press Release November 12, 2012

LEUCADIA NATIONAL CORPORATION AND JEFFERIES GROUP, INC. TO MERGE

Strategic Combination, With Over $9 Billion in Shareholders' Equity, Supports Long-Term Value Creation

Leucadia, with its 35-year track record as one of the world's leading long-term investors, will continue to acquire and own businesses and investments that will leverage the knowledge base, opportunity flow and execution capabilities of both the Leucadia and Jefferies management teams and operating businesses. Leucadia's existing businesses and investments have strong inherent value-creation potential.

Jefferies will continue its over 50-year focus in investment banking and the capital markets, and continue to maintain a highly liquid, client-focused balance sheet. Jefferies has grown rapidly over the past two decades and is well-positioned to continue this growth with Leucadia's support. As a subsidiary of Leucadia, Jefferies will have greater balance sheet resilience and flexibility to guard against, and take advantage of, market dislocations and opportunities. Jefferies currently pays substantial Federal income taxes and thus its expected ongoing pre-tax earnings will materially accelerate utilization of Leucadia's net operating losses, creating incremental value for all shareholders.

Combined company will be well-positioned to capitalize on Leucadia's investment expertise and Jefferies' investment banking and capital markets platform, including opportunities for enhanced growth, diversification and profitability that are expected to result from the combined management structure and increased business interaction.

Press Release November 12, 2012 (continued)

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 12, 2012 Leucadia National Corporation (NYSE: LUK) and Jefferies Group, Inc. (NYSE: JEF) today announced that the Boards of Directors of both companies have approved a definitive merger agreement under which Jefferies shareholders (other than Leucadia, which currently owns approximately 28.6% of the Jefferies outstanding shares) will receive 0.81 of a share of Leucadia common stock for each share of Jefferies common stock they hold. This exchange is intended to be tax-free to Jefferies shareholders. The merger, which is expected to close during the first quarter of 2013, is subject to customary closing conditions, including approval to effect the merger by both Leucadia and Jefferies shareholders. In order to avert the possibility that the transaction would result in the application of tax law limitations to the use of certain of Leucadia's tax attributes, the merger agreement limits the amount of Leucadia shares that can be issued to certain persons that would otherwise become holders of 5% of the combined Leucadia's common shares by reason of the merger.

Concurrently with the execution of the merger agreement, Leucadia, Richard Handler, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of Jefferies, and Brian Friedman, Chairman of the Executive Committee of Jefferies and one of its Directors, have each agreed pursuant to separate voting agreements, among other things, to vote their respective shares in favor of the transaction; and Ian Cumming, Leucadia's Chief Executive Officer and Chairman, and Joseph Steinberg, Leucadia's President and one of its Directors, have each agreed pursuant to separate voting agreements, among other things, to vote their respective shares in favor of the transaction. These voting agreements represent approximately 18.3% and 31.5% of the outstanding shares of Leucadia and Jefferies, respectively.

Upon the closing of the merger, Mr. Handler will become the Chief Executive Officer of Leucadia, as well as one of its Directors, and also remain Jefferies' Chief Executive Officer and Chairman; Mr. Friedman will become Leucadia's President and one of its Directors, and also remain Chairman of the Executive Committee of Jefferies; and Mr. Steinberg will become Chairman of the Board of Leucadia and will continue to work full time as an executive of Leucadia. Mr. Cumming will retire as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Leucadia upon the closing of the transaction and remain a Leucadia Director. The other Leucadia officers will continue in their present positions. In addition, upon the closing of the transaction, the four independent members of the Board of Directors of Jefferies also will join the Leucadia Board of Directors; the size of the Leucadia Board of Directors will be increased to fourteen.

Leucadia will continue to operate in its current form, except that the merger agreement contemplates that Leucadia's Crimson Wine Group, with a book value of $197 million, will be spun out in a distribution that is intended to be tax-free to current Leucadia shareholders prior to the completion of the merger.

Jefferies, which will be the largest business of Leucadia, will continue to operate as a full-service global investment banking firm in its current form. Jefferies will retain a credit rating that is separate from Leucadia's. Jefferies' existing long-term debt will remain outstanding and Jefferies intends to remain an SEC reporting company, regularly filing annual, quarterly, and periodic financial reports.

Following the transaction, 35.3% of Leucadia's common stock will be owned by Jefferies' shareholders (excluding the Jefferies shares owned today by Leucadia and including Jefferies vested restricted stock units). Leucadia's Board of Directors has approved a new share repurchase program authorizing the repurchase from time to time of up to an aggregate of 25 million Leucadia common shares, inclusive of prior authorizations. Leucadia's Board also has indicated its intention to continue to pay dividends at the annual rate of $0.25 per common share, but on a quarterly basis following the merger.

Mr. Cumming observed: Joe and I have been partners for 34 years. He will be Chairman of the Board of the combined enterprise. His role as Chairman of the Board, along with other Leucadia and Jefferies Directors, will ensure continuity and propel our continued success. Rich and Brian managing the company will bring to fruition the abundant and profitable opportunities that will be realized by this merger. My relationship with Rich and Brian, both as advisors and, more recently, as business partners and Jefferies Directors, showed me they can manage Leucadia profitably long into the future. Their ability to manage and grow Jefferies through the elongated financial bubble, successfully navigate the crises that followed where others could not, and protect the firm from the attacks based on false information exactly one year ago with deftness and grace, should comfort all!

Mr. Steinberg stated: I am absolutely thrilled that Rich and Brian will be joining me as we move forward with our combined company. Ian and I have enjoyed working together for 34 years. He invited me into Leucadia and to be his partner. I am forever grateful for that opportunity. Our partnership produced great returns for shareholders and we have had a lot of fun. I expect that Rich and Brian will continue on the same track and intend to help in every way.

Mr. Handler stated: Having known Joe and Ian for over two decades, this transaction represents the realization of a personal dream for me. Brian and I look forward to leading Leucadia, while continuing to serve as the hands-on management of Jefferies, which will become Leucadia's largest operating company. This merger will allow us to continue to create long-term value for all of our clients, shareholders, employee-partners and bondholders. I am honored with the trust and confidence Ian and Joe are demonstrating by allowing us to carry on their life's work.

Mr. Friedman said: This merger will allow us to operate from a position of even greater strength, take advantage of opportunities that arise in and around the business of Jefferies, and continue Leucadia's longstanding practice of smart value acquisitions and investments. Our substantial combined equity base, ample liquidity and long-term focus will all support meaningful long-term value creation for Leucadia and Jefferies shareholders. We also view with great enthusiasm the opportunity to work with Leucadia management, who have been instrumental in helping Ian and Joe achieve Leucadia's exceptional track record, as well as the management teams of each of the companies in which Leucadia is invested.

Leucadia Jefferies

Leucadia Jefferies merger creates a unique combination

Leucadia will be in the business of merchant investing and owning Jefferies, an investment banking firm

Jefferies will continue its over 50-year focus in the capital markets and maintain a highly liquid balance sheet

Future acquisitions and investments will leverage the knowledge base, opportunity flow and execution capabilities of Leucadia and Jefferies management team and businesses

Merger Considerations

A merger of Leucadia and Jefferies should generate significant value for shareholders

Jefferies has grown rapidly over the past two decades and is well-positioned to continue this growth with Leucadia's support

Jefferies' capabilities, personnel, financial position and client momentum have never been stronger

Investments over the past five years in additional capabilities and personnel provide ongoing operating leverage

Significant market share is available as competitors confront regulatory, operational and market pressures

As a subsidiary of Leucadia, Jefferies will have greater balance sheet resilience and flexibility to guard against, and take advantage of, market dislocations and other opportunities

Leucadia's existing businesses have inherent value creation potential

National Beef has a best-in-class management team, first quartile assets, margin-enhancing value-added programs and a strong presence in export markets that position it to capitalize on global protein trends

Inmet is a high-quality company with a strong portfolio of current and future mining projects

Garcadia, Berkadia and Premier produce stable cash flows and strong returns

Significant realizable enterprise value and cash-flow generation from Conwed and Idaho Timber

Jefferies' recurring pre-tax earnings will materially accelerate NOL utilization, creating incremental value for all shareholders

Earnings of Jefferies, National Beef, Berkadia and other holdings will convert the Leucadia deferred tax asset into cash

A number of the portfolio companies are platforms that we believe will provide attractive opportunities to deploy additional capital over time

Jefferies management will lead the combined company; merger facilitates Leucadia's management succession, while preserving significant employee and strategic continuity

Leucadia Investments

Following the merger, new acquisitions and investments will leverage the knowledge base, opportunity flow and execution capabilities of Leucadia and Jefferies management team and operating businesses

Leucadia's investment and operating team will continue to source and analyze investment opportunities that leverage the broader Leucadia platform

Core operating team (Joe Steinberg, Justin Wheeler, Tom Mara and Joe Orlando) will remain with Leucadia post-merger

Jefferies' investment banking and trading platforms periodically originate investment opportunities that offer the opportunity to earn outsized returns over the medium horizon

Leucadia will leverage Jefferies' 700 investment bankers across 8 industry verticals in offices worldwide, as well as Jefferies' research and trading platforms

For example, Leucadia's investment in Fortescue emanated from a Jefferies introduction

Opportunistic intermediate term (six months to two+ years) marketable securities investments emanating from Jefferies' trading flow and market knowledge (such as recent investment in Knight Capital)

Leucadia may make strategic investments in business opportunities that are complementary and synergistic to Jefferies' platform but, by their nature, require longer-term commitments

Merger will enhance both Leucadia and Jefferies liquidity, scale and overall financial strength
