Forward-Looking Statements

The statements in this communication regarding future events, occurrences, circumstances, activities, performance, outcomes and results are forward-looking statements. Although these statements reflect the current views, assumptions and expectations of Crestwood's management, the matters addressed herein are subject to numerous risks and uncertainties which could cause actual activities, performance, outcomes and results to differ materially from those indicated. Such forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements about the benefits that may result from the merger and statements about the future financial and operating results, objectives, expectations and intentions and other statements that are not historical facts. Factors that could result in such differences or otherwise materially affect Crestwood's financial condition, results of operations and cash flows include, without limitation, the possibility that expected cost reductions will not be realized, or will not be realized within the expected timeframe; fluctuations in crude oil, natural gas and NGL prices (including, without limitation, lower commodity prices for sustained periods of time); the extent and success of drilling efforts, as well as the extent and quality of natural gas and crude oil volumes produced within proximity of Crestwood assets; failure or delays by customers in achieving expected production in their oil and gas projects; competitive conditions in the industry and their impact on our ability to connect supplies to Crestwood gathering, processing and transportation assets or systems; actions or inactions taken or non-performance by third parties, including suppliers, contractors, operators, processors, transporters and customers; the ability of Crestwood to consummate acquisitions, successfully integrate the acquired businesses, realize any cost savings and other synergies from any acquisition; changes in the availability and cost of capital; operating hazards, natural disasters, weather-related delays, casualty losses and other matters beyond Crestwood's control; timely receipt of necessary government approvals and permits, the ability of Crestwood to control the costs of construction, including costs of materials, labor and right-of-way and other factors that may impact Crestwood's ability to complete projects within budget and on schedule; the effects of existing and future laws and governmental regulations, including environmental and climate change requirements; the effects of existing and future litigation; and risks related to the substantial indebtedness, of either company, as well as other factors disclosed in Crestwood's filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. You should read filings made by Crestwood with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, including Annual Reports on Form 10-K and the most recent Quarterly Reports and Current Reports for a more extensive list of factors that could affect results. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, which reflect management's view only as of the date made. Crestwood does not assume any obligation to update these forward-looking statements.

Dear Crestwood Employees,

I am pleased to announce to you that Crestwood Equity and Crestwood Midstream Partners LP today executed a definitive agreement to merge the two partnerships and simplify Crestwood's corporate structure into a single publicly traded-partnership. The merger of Crestwood Equity and Crestwood Midstream, or simplification as we call it, is a bold step to reduce our cost of capital, streamline our corporate structure and make Crestwood competitive again for acquisitions and organic expansions leading to much more visible distribution growth in the future.

Over the last year, management and the Boards of Directors have evaluated a number of strategic alternatives to improve our competitive position in the marketplace and unlock the true value of our asset portfolio. By combining our partnerships and simplifying the corporate structure, we are better able to acquire more assets, to expand our existing assets, to capture more business in a very competitive market and to create more value for our investors, which should result in higher unit prices.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, Crestwood Midstream unitholders will receive 2.75 common units of Crestwood Equity in exchange for each Crestwood Midstream unit owned. This implies a 17% premium to Crestwood Midstream's closing price as of May 5, 2015. In this transaction there will be no change of control. First Reserve remains our General Partner and is not selling its units in this transaction. As a result, any unvested Crestwood Midstream units you may own will remain on their current vesting schedule, but will be converted to unvested Crestwood Equity units at the 2.75x exchange ratio. The transaction is expected to close in the third quarter 2015, subject to a CMLP unitholder vote and normal regulatory approvals.

In the new partnership structure, Crestwood Midstream will be merged into a newly formed subsidiary of Crestwood Equity and the NGL assets at Crestwood Equity will be contributed to Crestwood Midstream. We will continue to use both names, all assets will continue to be operated by the same employees and there is no change in company policies, compensation practices or benefits.

Through all market cycles, particularly during periods of challenging commodity price cycles like we are currently experiencing, cost of capital, which is the current yield on our units and the cost of debt, is critical to our ability to acquire new assets and expand our existing assets. This simplification results in an immediate and definitive cost of capital improvement that allows the partnership to be more competitive for future growth opportunities.

As previously announced, through Project Adapt, we have been focused on identifying cost savings and realigning our cost structure to match the current market conditions. You have seen some of the changes we have made in the field, but we've also had to take a hard look at Crestwood's financial structure. Through the consolidation of our two public partnerships, and the elimination of duplicate public partnership costs, we estimate another $5 million of incremental cost savings can be achieved and added to the $25 million to $30 million run-rate savings identified as a part of Project Adapt.

I want to acknowledge the great work you have done in the first quarter delivering exceptional results while lowering costs. This merger will be positive for all of us, employees, management, directors, and investors in both Crestwood Midstream and Crestwood Equity. We will continue to keep you informed as we progress through the merger process. This is an exciting time for us and I am confident the simplification transaction will best position Crestwood to enjoy continued success now and well into the future.

Best Regards,

Bob Phillips
