MARKET ANNOUNCEMENT

On December 16th, Sadia hosted a lunch for representatives of the Brazilian press, with the presence of the company's president, Walter Fontana Filho and a number of directors. The topics discussed ranged from exports to capital expenditures, Christmas 2004 sales, Sadia's 2004 results and the outlook for 2005. The salient points were as follows:

- 2004 was a very good year for Sadia. Gross operating revenues amounted to R$5.3 billion through September, not at all far from the R$5.9 billion for the entire year of 2003;
- Gross revenues for the full year 2004 should end up 20% higher than for 2003;
- Exports were one of the high points of 2004. Sadia expects to export R$3.3 billion this year, more than US$1 billion and equivalent to slightly over 50% of total gross revenue for the year. Gross export revenues had already reached R$2.7 billion by September;
- This year, Sadia established its position as a member of the select group of the ten largest exporters in the country. In October, Sadia was in 8th place in the ranking of largest exporters released by Secex and in 7th place by net overseas sales. On a year-to-date basis, it is in 10th place;
- Expectations are that this will be the best Xmas sales season of the past three years. Sales revenues are projected to increase 10% over the 2003 Xmas season;
- Capital expenditures totaled R$220 million during the year, well in excess of the originally budgeted R$150 million. R$30 million was spent on the new Ponta Grossa (PR) Distribution Center, inaugurated in early December, while the rest went on plant maintenance and an updating of the company's ERP system;
- EBITDA is projected to exceed R$800 million for the year;
- Sadia hired 5,000 new employees during 2004, bringing the total to over 39,000 employees by year-end. Brazil's Melhores&Maiores guide, edited by Exame magazine, ranks Sadia as Brazil's fifth largest employer, after Petrobras, Carrefour, the Pão de Açúcar Group and the Post Office;
- Sadia launched a total of 52 new products on the domestic market this year;
- This year also marked the 60th anniversary of the founding of Sadia. Its "Sadia – 60 years" campaign received innumerable awards, including the “Grand Prix do Voto Popular” from About magazine, the “Marketing Best” award from Fundação Getúlio Vargas and the “Destaque no Marketing” from the Brazilian Marketing and Business Association.

Perspectives for 2005

- Sadia has revised its 2005 capital expenditures plan upwards from R$350 million to R$500 million, of which R$185.3 million to be spent on the Uberlândia (MG) plant capacity expansion, as recently announced. The remainder will be invested on expanding production lines on the other existing plants. All those investments should generate another 4,000 jobs;
- These investments should will be funded by BNDES and Sadia´s own resources;
- With the Brazilian economy entering a phase of moderate but sustained growth, Sadia expects domestic sales to grow at the same pace as in 2004;
- The outlook for exports is also positive. Export sales volume growth should post of between 10% and 12% over 2004 is projected. Russia is expected to reconsider its embargo on Brazilian meat products and the agreements with China and South Korea on sanitary standards offer new trade opportunities.
