GOL's First International Service Receives 83% Customer Approval

São Paulo, August 25, 2005 GOL Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes (NYSE: GOL and Bovespa: GOLL4), Brazil's low-fare, low-cost airline, announced the results of a survey of passengers flying the airline's Brazil-Argentina route. Eighty-three percent of Argentine passengers flying GOL said they were very satisfied or satisfied with the airline's services. The survey confirms GOL's success in the Argentine market after just eight months of operations: Buenos Aires was GOL's first international destination.

The results of the survey reveal high brand loyalty, as 92 percent of respondents said that they would fly on GOL again and 89 percent would recommend the airline to others. The survey also found that 62 percent of Argentines prefer to fly GOL. The survey was developed by Databrain Pesquisas Inteligentes, and was completed by 1,400 GOL passengers during their flight on the Brazil-Argentina route between April and July of this year. Fifty-six percent of respondents were Argentine and 40 percent were Brazilian; the remaining four percent were passengers from other countries.

Half of the passengers flying this route were leisure passengers, 30 percent were business travelers, and 11 percent were flying for other reasons. For 82 percent of the Argentine passengers, the flight between the two countries was their first experience with GOL and the majority of respondents, 89 percent, were motivated to try the airline because of its low fares. Fifteen percent of respondents were initially attracted to GOL because of its reputation for high quality service and the ease by which tickets can be purchased. The results of this survey prove that GOL's business model can also be successful in other South American countries and confirm that the region provides a prime opportunity for the expansion of the Company's operations, said Tarcisio Gargioni, vice president of GOL's Marketing and Services.

According to DAC (Departamento de Aviação Civil), July occupancy rates for the Argentine flights were at 85 percent and the average in the first seven months was 70 percent. GOL operates two daily flights from São Paulo to Buenos Aires.
