CAUTIONARY STATEMENT CONCERNING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

13

You should rely only on the information incorporated by reference or provided in this prospectus or any prospectus supplement. We have not authorized anyone else to provide you with different information. We are not making an offer of these securities in any state where the offer is not permitted. You should not assume that the information in this prospectus or any prospectus supplement is accurate as of any date other than the date on the front of the document.

HUFFY CORPORATION

Huffy Corporation was incorporated in 1928. Our business consists of two segments, "sporting goods" and "services to retailers." In the sporting goods segment, we design and market a wide variety of sporting goods products, including wheeled products, basketball backboards and accessories, golf equipment, snowboards, skis and various action sports equipment. In the services to retailers segment, we offer services nationally to retailers, including assembly and repair services for our own and others' products, as well as merchandising services.

RISK FACTORS

You should be aware that there are various risks associated with our business, which are described below. You should carefully consider these risk factors before you decide to purchase our common stock from the selling shareholder.

Continued losses could result in noncompliance with loan covenants or otherwise negatively affect our business.

We reported a net loss for the year ended December 31, 2001. We also reported a net loss for the year ended December 31, 2002, due to substantial expenses we accrued in connection with discontinued operations. Specifically, in late 2002 we agreed to settle certain wage/hour claims and litigation related to our period of ownership of Washington Inventory Service, a business we sold in November 2000. Our settlement obligation for these matters has reserved $7.7 million. In the first quarter of 2003 we were required to make an initial cash payment for this settlement of approximately $5 million. We also reported a normal seasonal loss for the first quarter of 2003. In order to have long-term debt with which to fund future growth opportunities, in March 2003 we established a secured $15 million term loan facility in addition to our existing $75 million secured revolving loan facility. In doing so, we agreed to certain additional financial covenants applicable to these credit facilities, including requirements that we have certain minimum levels of earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) on a quarterly basis, and that we maintain a specified ratio of EBITDA to fixed charges (consisting of interest expense, loan principal payments, tax payments and capital expenditures) on a monthly basis. If we experience continued losses, or even positive but insufficient levels of earnings, we could fall below the levels required by these loan covenants, resulting in a loan default.

Intense competition in the sporting goods industry could limit the growth of our sporting goods business and reduce its profitability.

A majority of our business consists of the design and marketing of sporting goods. These markets are highly competitive. We face competition in:

- designing and developing new products;
- obtaining licenses;
- improving existing products; and
- marketing and distribution.

Competition has in the past and may in the future force us to reduce the selling prices for our sporting goods which could adversely affect our operating results and financial condition.

Rapidly changing consumer preferences may adversely affect our business.

Our industries are subject to rapidly changing consumer preferences, high level of seasonality and competition and a constant need for creating and marketing new products. Demand for Huffy products and services are influenced by:

- cultural and demographic trends;
- marketing and advertising expenditures;
- popularity of certain themes;
- design and technological developments; and
- general economic conditions.

Because these factors can change rapidly, consumer demand and preference can also shift quickly. We may not always be able to respond to changes in consumer demand and preferences because of the significant amount of time and financial resources needed to bring new products to market. If we are unable to respond to such changes quickly, there could be an adverse impact on our businesses.

The loss of certain customers could adversely affect our business.

Certain of our customers account for a disproportionately large share of our net sales. In 2002, our ten largest customers accounted for approximately 80% of our net sales in the aggregate. If certain of these customers cease doing business with us, or significantly reduce the amount of their purchases from us, our business could be adversely affected. In particular, sales in the sporting goods segment to two customers, Kmart and Wal*Mart, are each in excess of 10% of our consolidated revenues for the year ended December 31, 2002, and the loss of one of these customers could have a material adverse effect on Huffly and its subsidiaries as a whole. In addition, we note that on January 22, 2002 Kmart filed for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. During the second quarter of 2003, Kmart emerged from bankruptcy. At this time we do not believe that Kmart will have any additional unfavorable impact on our sales volume or margin in the short term. Also, pressure to provide financial incentives to our customers or pressure to reduce prices or change the terms of sale of our products could adversely affect our business.

The loss of certain license agreements could adversely affect our business.

We market our products under a variety of trademarks, including some owned by third parties and covered by license agreements. Some license agreements require minimum guaranteed royalty payments regardless of the actual sales of the products licensed. In addition, our ability to retain sales could be adversely affected by the termination or non-renewal of a particular license.

Our current credit facilities restrict our ability to pay dividends.

We have not authorized the payment of dividends but will continue to assess whether we can and should pay dividends. The terms of our current credit facilities allow us to pay dividends on Huffly common stock only in certain circumstances. We are permitted by our lenders to pay dividends only if there are no defaults under the loan agreement and if certain financial conditions are met. The total amount of dividends paid in any fiscal year is also capped by the loan agreement.

General economic factors in the regions in which we operate could adversely affect our business.

These economic factors include:

interest rates and inflation;

the impact of an economic recession;

consumer credit availability;

consumer debt levels;

tax rates and tax policy;

unemployment trends; and

other matters that influence consumer confidence and spending.

Increasing volatility in financial markets may cause the above factors to change with an even greater degree of frequency and magnitude.

Disruptions or instability in the international economy could negatively affect our business.

We use manufacturing facilities in several foreign countries. These facilities, and our ability to locate and qualify other foreign manufacturers, could be affected by political, economic or legal disruptions affecting trade with such countries including, but not limited to the following:

terrorist acts and the continuing war on terrorism;

exposure to foreign currency fluctuations and devaluation caused by either general economic forces or government intervention;

restrictions imposed by domestic export laws and regulations and foreign import laws and regulations;

import/export quotas and taxes or tariffs;

the inherent instability associated with political and economic events beyond our control, including the status of the relationship between the United States and China; and the general difficulty of administering a business organization at long distances across national borders.

Anti-takeover provisions in our organizational documents and Ohio law may prevent our shareholders from realizing a premium return.

Anti-takeover provisions in our articles of incorporation, code of regulations and our shareholder rights plan, as well as under Ohio law, may deter unfriendly offers or other efforts to obtain control over Huffy. This could make Huffy less attractive to a potential acquirer and deprive our shareholders of the opportunity to sell their common stock at a premium price.

THE OFFERING

Huffy Corporation plans to contribute up to 1,100,000 shares of its common stock to the Huffy Corporation Retirement Plan in partial satisfaction of our anticipated future funding obligations to the plan, in lieu of possible future cash contributions. Under the terms of the plan and applicable requirements of federal law, we may contribute common stock to the plan having a value of up to 10% of the total value of all other plan assets at the time of the contribution. The exact number of shares to be contributed will therefore depend upon the market value of our common stock at the time of the contribution and the total value of all other plan assets at the time of the contribution.

The plan's assets are required by law to be managed in the best interest of participants in the plan and their beneficiaries. The Huffy Corporate Benefits Advisory Committee, a committee of officers and management-level employees which is responsible for overseeing the Retirement Plan, plans to retain an independent registered investment advisor, Victory Capital Management, Inc., to manage, in its discretion, the plan's disposition of the shares.

The agreement with the investment manager contemplates that such sales will be complete within 18 months of the date we contribute the shares to the plan.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We will not receive any proceeds from the sale of shares of our common stock by the selling shareholder. We will pay the expenses of registering the shares of common stock offered by this prospectus, which we estimate will be about $28,000.

SELLING SHAREHOLDER

The Huffy Corporation Retirement Plan Trust is the trust formed to hold the assets of our defined benefit pension plan known as the Huffy Corporation Retirement Plan. The plan and the trust are intended to be tax-qualified within the meaning of Sections 401(a) and 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. The trust is funded by Huffy Corporation contributions held for the sole benefit of plan participants and beneficiaries, and to pay proper expenses of plan administration.

As of June 11, 2003, the trust did not yet own any shares of our common stock. Assuming all the 1,100,000 shares in this offering were contributed to the trust, the trust would own approximately 6.98% of the outstanding shares of our common stock.

The disposition of the shares contributed to the trust will be managed by an independent investment manager designated in accordance with procedures established by the Huffy Corporate Benefits Advisory Committee. The investment manager is responsible in its sole judgment and discretion for making any decision to sell from time to time any of or all the shares under its control, subject to the terms of investment management arrangements with the manager which contemplate that the disposition of the shares will be completed within 18 months of the date they are contributed to the plan.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

The selling shareholder, acting on the advice of its independent investment manager, may, from time to time, dispose of the shares being sold under this prospectus in one or more transactions, which may involve:

- ordinary brokerage transactions and transactions in which the broker solicits purchasers;
- sales on the New York Stock Exchange, or any other principal market on which our shares trade at the time of sale, including directly with market makers acting as principal;
- privately-negotiated transactions, which include direct sales to purchasers and sales effected through agents;
- a block trade in which the broker or dealer will attempt to sell the shares as agent but may position and resell a portion of the block as principal to facilitate the transaction;
- purchases by a broker or dealer as principal and resale by that broker or dealer for its own account;
- an exchange distribution in accordance with the rules of that exchange or transactions in the over-the-counter market;
- transactions otherwise than in the over-the-counter market;
- the writing of put or call options on the securities;
- short sales of the shares and transactions covering short sales;

the pledge of the security for any loan or obligation, including pledges to brokers or dealers who may, from time to time, themselves sell or transfer the securities or their interest in such securities; the transfer of the securities by the selling shareholder to its shareholders or affiliates; or a combination of any of the above.

The sale price pursuant to this prospectus may be:

a fixed price;

the market price prevailing at the time of sale;

a price related to such prevailing market price;

a negotiated price; or

any other price the selling shareholder may determine, including sales below the market price.

In addition, the selling shareholder may also sell the shares in private transactions or under Rule 144, rather than pursuant to this prospectus. The selling shareholder shall have the sole and absolute discretion not to accept any purchase offer or make any sale of shares if it deems the purchase price to be unsatisfactory at any particular time.

Market makers acting as principals, or brokers or dealers acting as agents for the selling shareholder or their customers, may receive compensation in the form of discounts, concessions or commissions from the selling shareholder and/or the purchasers of shares for whom such brokers or dealers may act as agents or to whom they may sell as principal or both, which compensation as to a particular broker or dealer might be in excess of customary commissions.

Market makers and block purchasers purchasing the shares will do so for their own account and at their own risk. It is possible that the selling shareholder will attempt to sell the shares in block transactions to market makers or other purchasers at a price per share which may be below the then current market price. In effecting sales, brokers or dealers may arrange for other brokers or dealers to participate. The selling shareholder cannot ensure that all or any of the shares offered pursuant to this prospectus will, in fact, be sold by the selling shareholder or that the selling shareholder will not sell, gift or otherwise transfer any shares by any other means not described in this prospectus.

Any brokers, dealers or agents may be deemed to be underwriters within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 in connection with the sale of the shares offered pursuant to this prospectus. Accordingly, any discounts, concessions or commissions such broker, dealer or agent receives may be deemed to be underwriting compensation under the Securities Act of 1933. To our knowledge, there are currently no plans, arrangements or agreements between the selling shareholder and any broker, dealer or agent regarding the sale of shares by the selling shareholder pursuant to this prospectus, and there is no assurance that any such plans, arrangements or agreements will be entered into. If the selling shareholder enters into such a material plan, arrangement or agreement (other than for ordinary and customary trading fees, discounts, concessions or commissions) with a broker, dealer or agent, acting as principal, a prospectus supplement pursuant to Rule 424(b) under the Securities Act of 1933 or a post-effective amendment to the registration statement, if required, will be filed and distributed, disclosing, in addition to those items previously mentioned:

- the name of such broker, dealer or agent;
- the number of shares involved;
- the price at which such shares are to be sold;
- the commissions paid or discounts or concessions allowed to such broker, dealer or agent where applicable; and
- other facts material to the transaction.

In order to comply with securities laws of certain jurisdictions, if applicable, the shares may be sold in these jurisdictions only through registered or licensed brokers or dealers. In addition, in certain jurisdictions, the shares may not be sold unless the shares have been registered or qualified for sale in these jurisdictions, or an exemption from registration or qualification is available and complied with. The selling shareholder and any other persons participating in the sales of the shares pursuant to this prospectus may be subject to applicable provisions of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the rules and regulations under such Act, including, without limitation, Regulation M. In general, Regulation M prohibits any person connected with a distribution of our shares from directly or indirectly bidding for, or purchasing for any account in which it has a beneficial interest, any of our shares. We have advised the selling shareholder that the anti-manipulation rules under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 may apply to sales of shares in the market and to the activities of the selling shareholder and any of its affiliates. The selling shareholder has advised us that, during the time that the selling shareholder may be engaged in sales of shares registered under this prospectus, it will comply with Regulation M under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

The selling shareholder will pay any underwriters' fees, commissions or discounts associated with its sale of the shares pursuant to this prospectus. However, we are contractually obligated to pay all costs and expenses of registration. We have also agreed to indemnify the selling shareholder and its officers, directors, affiliates and partners, and each person who controls the selling shareholder against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act of 1933, or if such indemnity is unavailable, to contribute to payments the selling shareholder or such persons may be required to make in respect of such liabilities.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

For several years our debt financing consisted of a $75 million revolving debt facility provided by Congress Financial Corporation (Central) directly and as agent for another lender. Our ability to borrow funds for operating purposes under this facility is based on our levels of inventory and outstanding accounts receivable at any given time, as is typical with revolving loans. From time to time we have requested and received additional short-term borrowing authority under our revolving loan facility with Congress Financial to cover seasonal working capital needs. Most recently, in May 2003 we obtained a $5 million increase for a 60-day period. In March 2003 we established a $15 million term loan in order to have some long-term debt with which to fund future growth opportunities and which would not be subject to our normal seasonal fluctuations in inventory and accounts receivable.

The term loan was funded by an additional lender, Ableco Finance LLC, for which Congress Financial also serves as agent and is secured by a first priority lien on our trademarks and patents. The term loan bears interest at a variable rate of seven percentage points over the prime rate of JP MorganChase Bank, N.A., subject to a minimum rate of 10.75%. In establishing the term loan facility as part of our overall debt facility, we agreed to certain additional financial covenants applicable to all of our debt, including requirements that we have certain minimum levels of earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") on a quarterly basis, and that we maintain a specified ratio of EBITDA to fixed charges (consisting of interest expense, loan principal payments, tax payments and capital expenditures) on a monthly basis.

We also consider on an ongoing basis alternative capital financing structures, including possible placements of equity securities and other hybrid financing instruments, as well as alternative senior and subordinated debt arrangements.
