ANNOUNCEMENT

The board of directors (the “Board”) of CNOOC Limited (the “Company”) is pleased to announce that the Company proposes to form a 50%/50% joint venture with Bidas Energy Holdings Ltd (“BEH”) in Bidas Corporation (the “JVCo”) for a consideration of approximately US$3.1 billion (equivalent to approximately HKD24 billion, at the exchange rate of USD1 = HKD7.7587, being the exchange rate prevailing on 12 March 2010) in cash (the “Transaction”). BEH is an independent third party of the Company. In this connection, CNOOC International Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, entered into the relevant transaction documents with BEH on 13 March 2010. The JVCo is currently a wholly owned subsidiary of BEH and could have its name changed after completion of the Transaction. The Transaction will be funded from the internal resources of the Company.

Completion of the Transaction is subject to certain terms and conditions, including, among other things, all necessary governmental and regulatory approvals, permissions and consents in the People’s Republic of China having been obtained and certain events constituting material adverse change not having occurred prior to completion. The Transaction is expected to be completed in the first half of 2010.

Upon completion of the Transaction, the Company, through CNOOC International Limited, and BEH will each hold a 50% interest in the JVCo. A joint venture deed has been entered into between CNOOC International Limited, BEH and the JVCo, which allows the two shareholders to make management decisions in relation to the JVCo on a joint basis.

Information on the JVCo

The JVCo is a private company incorporated in the British Virgin Islands with a focus on oil and gas exploration and production. The JVCo, through its affiliates (including a 40% interest in Pan American Energy LLC), has exploration and production activities in Argentina, Bolivia and Chile. At the end of 2009, the JVCo had proven reserves of 636 million barrels of oil equivalent (“BOE”) and an average daily production of 92 thousand BOE.

Reasons for the Transaction

The Transaction is aligned with the Company’s growth strategy by expanding the Company’s reach into Latin America and establishes a foundation for future growth in the region and other countries. The JVCo has a world-class oil and gas asset portfolio with significant growth potential through future explorations. The JVCo’s strong management team has a proven track record of developing oil and gas resources in Latin America. In addition, on a proportionate basis, based on relevant 2009 statistics, it is expected that, upon completion of the Transaction, proven reserves and average daily production of the Company will be increased by 318 million BOE and 46 thousand BOE respectively.

Exhibit 99.2

CNOOC LIMITED

For Immediate Release

CNOOC Ltd. Established Joint Venture with Bridas Energy Holdings

(Hong Kong, March 14, 2010) CNOOC Limited (the “Company” or “CNOOC Ltd.”, NYSE: CEO, SEHK: 0883) announces today that the Company, proposes to form a 50%/50% joint venture with Bridas Energy Holdings Ltd (“BEH”) in Bidas Corporation (“Bridas” or the “JVCo”) for a consideration of approximately USD3.1 billion in cash. In this connection, CNOOC International Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, entered into the relevant transaction documents with BEH on 13 March 2010. The JVCo is currently a wholly owned subsidiary of BEH and could have its name changed after transaction completion. The transaction will be funded from the internal resources of the Company.

Completion of this transaction is conditional on, amongst others, necessary government and regulatory approvals of People’s Republic of China, and is expected to take place in the first half of 2010.

Upon completion of the transaction, the Company and BEH will each hold a 50% interest in Bidas, and will jointly make management decisions. Currently, Bidas, through its affiliates (including a 40% interest in Pan American Energy LLC) has oil and gas exploration and production activities in Argentina, Bolivia and Chile.

This transaction is aligned with the Company’s growth strategy by expanding its reach into Latin America and establishes a foundation for future growth in the region and other countries.

Based on relevant 2009 statistics and on a proportionate basis, it is expected that, upon completion of the transaction, proven reserves and average daily production of the Company will be increased by 318 million barrels of oil equivalent (“BOE”) and 46 thousand BOE respectively.

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Fu Chengyu said: “BEH is one of the foremost companies in Argentina and a pioneer in the oil and gas industry. This joint venture is aligned with our philosophy of seeking partnerships to expand our global footprints. I trust this investment will bring value to our shareholders both in short term and long run.”

Commenting on the joint venture, President, Mr. Yang Hua said: “Bridas, with a world-class oil and gas asset portfolio, is a very good beachhead for us to enter Latin America. Through this transaction, we’ll establish a fair presence in this region, which will further enable the Company’s production and reserve growth in the future.”
