1. BUSINESS DESCRIPTION AND ORGANIZATION

Telecom Communications, Inc. (the "Company" or "Telecom") was incorporated on January 6, 1997 in the State of Indiana under the corporate name MAS Acquisition XXI Corp. Prior to December 21, 2000, the Company was a blank check company seeking a business combination with an unidentified business. On December 21, 2000, the Company acquired Telecom Communications of America, which was a sole proprietorship conducting business as a provider of long distance telephone carriers to individuals. The Company changed its name to Telecom Communications, Inc..

On September 30, 2003, Telecom consummated a Stock Purchase Agreement with Arran Services Limited ("Arran") and its sole shareholder (the "majority shareholder"), for the acquisition of all of the capital stock of Arran, a British Virgin Island corporation. In exchange for the capital interest, the majority shareholder and his designate received a total of 23.8 million shares of Telecom common stock, representing approximately 64% of the outstanding shares of Telecom. Thirdly, we are a content provider focus on entertainment related subjects. With a branded network of localized websites, targeting greater China and overseas Chinese, we provide an array of services to our users including region-focused online portals, mobile value-added services, online games, virtual ISP, classified listings, e-commerce and enterprise CRM solutions. In turn, we generate revenue through advertising, mobile value-added services, fee-based services, e-commerce, community and enterprise services. With 10 million registered users of channel partners in China at December 31, 2003, we believe that channel partners is the most recognized online brand in China and among Chinese communities world-wide.

IC Star one of our subsidiaries that our subsidiary, IC Star MMS Ltd., or ICStar (formerly known as Sino Super Ltd.), a network services company based in Hong Kong, began operations in December 1999 as an internet alliance concept focused on providing solutions to Chinese city local contents providers wishing to publish their news across China. In May 2000, ICStar launched our affiliate network, then called goongreen.org, offering Chinese-language local news, information and community features such as publishing services targeted at online users in China. In October 2002, ICStar expanded its affiliate network by partnering with Aixi Software Limited, a leading network Internet/Intranet development company with office in Guangzhou China and 6 distinct web sites targeting Chinese community users, education users and business users in China. In Jan 2003, we continued our network expansion and entertainment contents providing by acquisition stareastnet.com a leading entertainment and life information destination web site targeting Chinese users in greater China. Today, we operate ICStarMMS web sites in China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and North America to provide Chinese content and services that speak directly to the audience of each region, enriching the online experience of their users.

We will derive our revenues from network infrastructures services and content service sources. Network infrastructures services revenues are derived principally from community and construction projects arrangements under which we receive revenues mainly on a project basis, fixed payment from community and companies, or a combination of them. Content service revenues are derived primarily from mobile value-added services, community and companies network information services, fee based services, e-commerce and enterprise services. Mobile value-added services revenues mainly include services fees received from offering user-customized information subscription, My Star Friend interactive SMS, personal greetings, customized mobile phone screen decoration, personalized ring tones, mobile Fans club service and wireless games. Such services are charged on a monthly or per message basis. In order to recruit more subscribers and increase the market share, IC Star has launched a promotional campaign for a free subscription to members for three months. We intended to increase memberships and subscription fee revenue by the support of promotional campaign and advertisement. Fee based services revenues mainly include services fees received from offering information subscriptions on our web sites, online games, virtual ISP and paid network services. Enterprise services revenues mainly include services charges on opt-in SMS classified listings, call center and enterprise CRM solutions. On March 16, 2004, we acquired the remaining 20% of the capital stock of IC Star in order to have full control of the entity. Management has considered the strength of the strong background of IC Star MMS which had signed contracts with local Chinese SPs through its strategic partner. Moreover, the acquisition also included the legal ownership of a Chinese incorporated company named Huiyi Electric (Panyu) Limited Company ("Huiyi") which we think would allow our direct access into the Chinese market. The management of the company strongly believed that with Huiyi, our business in China would be effectively expanded.

Additionally, we had acquired a 60% interest of Panyu No.6 Construction Company Limited ("Panyu") located at Guangzhou, China. Panyu is an integrated construction company that has most of its construction project in the Guangzhou area. It provides general construction for the area from residential community, hospital, commercial and cultural building blocks as well as digital communities. About 50% of its integrated construction project is on network infrastructures which is mainly for communication through the setting up of broadband and fiber cable system over communities, LAN/WAN and Wi-Fi, Internet/intranet/TV and wireless data communications network infrastructure for all telecom communications and electrical appliances.

In April 2004, we sold our 60% ownership in Panyu No.6 Construction Company Limited to a third party investor for a consideration of approximately $2,580,000 in cash because of the unsatisfactory performance and unparallel business scope of the company as the company shifts its core business to wireless short/multimedia messaging services and telecom-related products. Part of the proceeds will be used to settle the loan due to one of the shareholders who provided the loan to acquire Panyu No. 6 Construction Company Limited.

Our primary mission is to develop real estate in China by taking advantage of China's strong economic growth, which we believe, based on management's past experience, will result in an increasing need for top quality office space and high-end residential luxury homes. Currently, we plan to complete the development of our existing land with residential homes and commercial space for sale. Our primary investment objective is to realize capital appreciation from the sale of the properties within three to five years after such properties have been developed or purchased. Our secondary investment objective is to generate cash from the properties by the leasing of commercial space; in particular, ground level retail space. Once a project is completed and fully operational, we intend to sell our interest in such project, thereby generating funds for further development projects.

In November 2003, we sold our 80% ownership in Superb Quality Limited to a third party investor for a consideration of $200,000 in cash. StarEastNet.com business model has not been profitable in the past several years and Management believes it will not help the company in the long run, as the company shifts its core business to wireless short/multimedia messaging services. As a result of the sale of Superb Quality Limited and its subsidiary StarEastNet Limited, the Company recorded a $55,695 gain from the sale in the quarter ended December 31, 2003. In connection with this sale the Company is due $3,128,340 in the form of a loan receivable that was originally owed to the Company by the sold subsidiary. The purchaser has agreed to assume the liability and will make payments of approximately $136,000 per month beginning in May 2004. The payments will continue for 23 months. If the purchaser fails to make payments for six consecutive months the purchaser must return the shares of the subsidiary to the Company. Due to the uncertainty regarding the collection of the note, the Company will recognize the payments of the receivable as gain on the sale of subsidiary as the payments are received. Therefore, no gain was recognized during the quarter ended December 31, 2003 with respect to this note.

We have been targeting users of mobile devices such as mobile phone, internet and PDA's and have been working together with other local Chinese companies to develop telecommunication value-added service application software and system integration for commercial, industrial, cultural and educational usage. Recently, management has paid attention to the weighting of popularity on the 2G mobile platform shifting to 2.5G mobile platform. The 2.5G platform is more advanced than the 2G platform as multimedia message services (MMS) will be used. We will also try to expand our capacity to establish strategic partners who is well experience in software and mobile-related products in order to diversify our business in future. In fact, a co-operative contract was signed with Panyu No. 6 Construction Limited that would allow our company to sub-contract the network infrastructure construction work for telecommunication electrical appliances. To enrich our sources of content supply for the wireless communication, the company had signed a contract with StarEastNet Limited to supply entertainment news and database of celebrities. Recently, a letter of intent was signed with Jing Ying Services Limited, a company delivers integrated e- procurement, management, and payroll solutions to individuals and company. The Jing Ying Services Framework is a proprietary technology that provides a set of services commonly required for distributed enterprise systems, such as Workflow, Persistence and Authorization. Jing Ying operates one of the largest talent marketplaces on the email system with over 600,000 registered mobile phone users. Jing Ying's clients include 500 SME over greater China. The management believed TCOM would capitalize on Jing Ying's client relationship and would create cross selling opportunity.

BUSINESS PARTNERSHIP DEVELOPMENTS

In March 2004, we signed a joint venture agreement with Energy Producers Inc. (NASDAQ-OTCBB:EGPI) for the purposes of expanding its marine and commercial sales and brokerage divisions in Mainland China. The joint venture agreement between EGPI and TCOM calls for the formation of a separate company with $1,000,000 of initial capitalization to be invested equally by TCOM and EGPI. This newly formed company will then utilize EGPI's marine sales business model and TCOM's contacts within China to interface in both the private leisure and commercial marine sales markets bringing Chinese built vessels to the global markets while supplying Chinese demand for western vessels. The biggest barrier to trade has always been language and culture. This joint venture is specifically tasked with creating a solid marketing and sales conduit for the marine sector both in to and out of China.

In October and November 2003, we entered into agreements to form strategic partnership with, through our business partner Aixi Software Limited Guangzhou China :

21CN.com a wholly-owned subsidiary of China Telecom Corporation Limited, 21cn.com is the largest Internet portal provider in Southern China region and No. 4 Internet Portal provider behind SOHU.com, SINA.com, and Netease.com in China.

Newpalm (China) Information Technology Company, Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of Hongkong.com (HK:08006). Chinadotcom (Nasdaq:China) is holding 81.37% of Hongkong.com (HK:08006).

SHANGHAI LINKTONE

Founded in October 1999, Linktone has emerged as an acknowledged leader in China's fast-growing wireless services sector. CRITICAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A summary of significant accounting policies is included in Note 1 to the audited consolidated financial statements included herein. Management believes that the application of these policies on a consistent basis enables the Company to provide useful and reliable financial information about the company's operating results and financial condition.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results may differ from those estimates.

We account for stock options issued to employees in accordance with the provisions of Accounting Principles Board ("APB") Opinion No. 25, "Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees," and related interpretations. As such, compensation cost is measured on the date of grant as the excess of the current market price of the underlying stock over the exercise price. Such compensation amounts, if any, are amortized over the respective vesting periods of the option grant. We adopted the disclosure provisions of SFAS No. 123, "Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation" and SFAS 148, "Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation -Transition and Disclosure", which permits entities to provide pro forma net income (loss) and pro forma earnings (loss) per share disclosures for employee stock option grants as if the fair-valued based method defined in SFAS No. 123 had been applied. We account for stock options and stock issued to non-employees for goods or services in accordance with the fair value method of SFAS 123.

Revenues are recognized on the percentage-of-completion method for certain of these contracts, measured by the percentage of costs incurred to date to estimated total costs for each contract. This method is used because management considers costs incurred to be the best available measure of progress on these contracts. Revenues are recognized on the completed-contract method for certain other contracts. Contracts to manage, supervise, or coordinate the construction activity of others are recognized only to the extent of the fee revenue. The Company recognizes revenue from wireless services when services are performed.

We act as a consultant to various contractors and performs administrative services for a fixed percentage of the total contract price. Fees are recognized as services are performed. Consulting revenue is included in net revenues on the statements of operations for the six months ended March 31, 2004.

OPERATING RISK

Currently, the Company's revenues are primarily derived from the construction of network infrastructure for residential, industrial and cultural and commercial building blocks to customers as well as telecom-related services in the Peoples Republic of China (PRC). The Company hopes to expand its operations to countries outside the PRC, however, such expansion has not been commenced and there are no assurances that the Company will be able to achieve such an expansion successfully. Therefore, a downturn or stagnation in the economic environment of the PRC could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial condition.

(a) Products risk

In addition to competing with other construction companies, the Company could have to compete with larger US companies who have greater funds available for expansion, marketing, research and development and the ability to attract more qualified personnel if access is allowed into the PRC market. If US companies do gain access to the PRC markets, they may be able to offer products at a lower price. There can be no assurance that the Company will remain competitive should this occur.

(b) Exchange risk

The Company can not guarantee that the current exchange rate will remain steady, therefore there is a possibility that the Company could post the same amount of profit for two comparable periods and because of a fluctuating exchange rate actually post higher or lower profit depending on exchange rate of the Chinese (RMB) or the Hong Kong Dollar (HK$) converted to US dollars on that date. The exchange rate could fluctuate depending on changes in the political and economic environments without notice.

(c) Political risk

Currently, PRC is in a period of growth and is openly promoting business development in order to bring more business into PRC. Additionally PRC allows a Chinese corporation to be owned by a United States corporation. If the laws or regulations are changed by the PRC government, the Company's ability to operate the PRC subsidiaries could be affected.

(d) Our future performance is dependent on its ability to retain key personnel

Our performance is substantially dependent on the performance of our senior management. In particular, the Company's success depends on the continued effort of our Senior Management to maintain all contact with our Chinese subsidiaries. The Company's inability to retain Senior Management could have a material adverse effect on our prospects, businesses, Chinese operations, financial conditions

ITEM 3. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

Our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer (collectively, the "Certifying Officers") are responsible for establishing and maintaining disclosure controls and procedures for us. Based upon such officers' evaluation of these controls and procedures as of a date within 45 days of the filing of this Quarterly Report, and subject to the limitations noted hereinafter, the Certifying Officers have concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures are effective to ensure that information required to be disclosed by us in this Quarterly Report is accumulated and communicated to management, including our principal executive officers as appropriate, to allow timely decisions regarding such required disclosure.

The Certifying Officers have also indicated that there were no significant changes in our internal controls or other factors that could significantly affect such controls subsequent to the date of their evaluation.

[Our management, including each of the Certifying Officers, does not expect that our disclosure controls or our internal controls will prevent all error and fraud. A control system, no matter how well conceived and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that the objectives of the control system are met. In addition, the design of a control system must reflect the fact that there are resource constraints, and the benefits of controls must be considered relative to their costs. Because of the inherent limitations in all control systems, no evaluation of controls can provide absolute assurance that all control issues and instances of fraud, if any, within a company have been detected. These inherent limitations include the realities that judgments in decision-making can be faulty, and that breakdowns can occur because of simple error or mistake. Additionally, controls can be circumvented by the individual acts of some persons, by collusion of two or more people or by management override of the control. The design of any systems of controls also is based in part upon certain assumptions about the likelihood of future events, and their can be no assurance that any design will succeed in achieving its stated goals under all potential future conditions. Over time, control may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate. Because of these inherent limitations in a cost-effective control system, misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected.]
