John W. Rowe, Exelon CEO, and E. James Ferland, PSEG CEO, Announce Operating Structure for Exelon Electric & Gas Upon Close of Merger

CHICAGO and NEWARK (July 12, 2005) John W. Rowe, Exelon Corporation (NYSE: EXC) chairman, president and CEO, and E. James Ferland, Public Service Enterprise Group Incorporated (NYSE: PEG) chairman, president and CEO, announce the operating structure for the combined company, Exelon Electric & Gas, effective upon completion of the merger. This is the present plan for the combined company and is subject to change as the close of the merger approaches.

Once the merger is complete, the board of directors of the combined company is expected to elect Rowe, 60, to president and CEO, and Ferland, 63, to non-executive chairman of the board until his planned retirement in the spring of 2007.

I am pleased that both Exelon and PSEG officers have agreed to assume the positions assigned, said Rowe. This is an organization that will provide opportunities to the best people in both companies. I am gratified that Exelon's greater strengths in nuclear operations have been recognized, as have PSE&G's better numbers in delivery.

John and I agreed at the outset that the new company would reflect the strengths of both organizations. This will be a very effective management team, said Ferland. I am especially pleased that this organization maintains the character and identity of the PSE&G management as we have promised our regulators and our unions. This is a merger that will create opportunities for good people.

Upon completion of the merger, the board of directors of Exelon Electric & Gas is expected to announce the following senior leadership appointments, as outlined in the attached chart:

Frank M. Clark, 59, currently executive vice president and chief of staff, Exelon and president, ComEd, will continue as executive vice president and chief of staff for Exelon Electric & Gas and will become chairman, ComEd.

Ralph Izzo, 47, currently president and chief operating officer, PSE&G, will become executive vice president, Exelon Electric & Gas and president, Exelon Energy Delivery.

Ian P. McLean, 56, currently executive vice president, Exelon and president, Exelon Power Team, will continue in these roles for Exelon Electric & Gas and Exelon Power Team.

Randall E. Mehrberg, 49, currently executive vice president, general counsel and chief integration officer, Exelon, will become executive vice president, chief administrative officer and chief legal officer, Exelon Electric & Gas.

Elizabeth A. Moler, 56, currently executive vice president, government and environmental affairs and public policy, Exelon, will continue in that role for Exelon Electric & Gas.

Thomas M. O Flynn, 45, currently executive vice president and chief financial officer, PSEG, will become executive vice president, generation finance and business planning, Exelon Generation.

R. Edwin Selover, 59, currently senior vice president and general counsel, PSEG, PSE&G and PSEG Services Corporation, will become executive vice president, governance, Exelon Electric & Gas.

S. Gary Snodgrass, 54, currently executive vice president and chief human resources officer, Exelon, will continue in that role for Exelon Electric & Gas.

John F. Young, 48, currently executive vice president, finance and markets, Exelon, will become executive vice president, finance and holdings, Exelon Electric & Gas.

The following additional senior leadership appointments are anticipated upon close of the merger:

Christopher M. Crane, 46, currently senior vice president, Exelon, president and chief nuclear officer, Exelon Nuclear, and president and chief executive officer, AmerGen, will become president and chief nuclear officer, Exelon Nuclear.

Katherine K. Combs, 54, currently vice president, corporate secretary and deputy general counsel, Exelon, will become corporate secretary, Exelon Electric & Gas.

John T. Costello, 56, currently senior vice president, operations, Exelon Energy Delivery, will become president, ComEd.

Robert J. Dougherty, Jr., 53, currently president and chief operating officer, PSEG Energy Holdings L.L.C. and president, PSEG Global L.L.C., will become president, Exelon Holdings.

Ruth Ann M. Gillis, 50, currently senior vice president, Exelon and executive vice president, ComEd, will become president, Exelon Services Company, which includes oversight of Information Technology and Supply.

John T. Hooker, 56, currently senior vice president, real estate and property management, and West external affairs, Exelon Energy Delivery, will become senior vice president, state legislative and governmental affairs (Illinois), Exelon Electric & Gas.

Ralph A. LaRossa, 42, currently vice president, Electric Delivery, PSE&G, will become president, PSE&G.

J. Barry Mitchell, 57, currently senior vice president, chief financial officer and treasurer, Exelon, will become chief financial officer, Exelon Electric & Gas.

Denis P. O Brien, 45, currently president, PECO Energy, will continue in this role.

Mark A. Schiavoni, 49, currently senior vice president, Exelon Generation and president, Exelon Power, will become president, Exelon Power.

William A. VonHoene, Jr., 51, currently senior vice president, Exelon Business Services Company and deputy general counsel, Exelon, will become general counsel, Exelon Electric & Gas.

David W. Woods, 47, currently senior vice president, governmental and public affairs, Exelon, will continue in that role for Exelon Electric & Gas.

The combination of Jack Skolds, Chris Crane, Ralph Izzo and Mark Schiavoni will give us a truly remarkable operating leadership team. Jim and I believe that we have designed the kind of powerful and committed leadership group that a company of this stature requires, said Rowe.

Future organizational and personnel announcements will be made as they are determined.

As previously announced, Exelon Electric & Gas corporate headquarters, Exelon Services Company and Exelon Energy Delivery will be based in Chicago. Exelon Generation and Exelon Holdings will be based in Newark, and Exelon Nuclear and Exelon Power Team will be based in Kennett Square, Pa.
