COMMON SHARES

Subscription Rights to Purchase up to Common Shares at $ per Share

We are distributing, at no charge, to holders of our common shares transferable subscription rights to purchase up to of our common shares. We refer to this offering as the rights offer. In the rights offer, you will receive subscription right for each full common share owned at 5:00 p.m., New York time, on , 2008, the record date.

Each subscription right will entitle you to purchase of our common shares at a subscription price of $ per full share, which we refer to as the basic subscription privilege. If you fully exercise your basic subscription privilege and other shareholders do not fully exercise their basic subscription privileges, you will be entitled to exercise an over-subscription privilege to purchase a portion of the unsubscribed common shares at the same subscription price of $ per full share, subject to proration and subject, further, to reduction by us in certain circumstances. The over-subscription privilege is also transferable.

To the extent you properly exercise your over-subscription privilege for an amount of shares that exceeds the number of the unsubscribed shares available to you, any excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

The subscription rights will expire if they are not exercised by 5:00 p.m., New York time, on , 2008, unless we extend the rights offer period. Our board of directors may cancel the rights offer at any time prior to the expiration of the rights offer for any reason. In the event the rights offer is cancelled, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

We have separately entered into standby purchase agreements with certain investors, pursuant to which, subject to conditions, these investors have severally agreed to acquire from us, at the same subscription price offered to shareholders, any common shares that are not subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges. We also have commitments to exercise rights from our directors and two existing shareholders who are not directors. The amount of standby commitments and commitments to exercise rights is $31 million, including the amount purchased by members of the Miller family in connection with their commitments to first exercise rights with respect to their current shareholdings.

YOU SHOULD CAREFULLY CONSIDER WHETHER TO EXERCISE YOUR SUBSCRIPTION RIGHTS PRIOR TO THE EXPIRATION OF THE RIGHTS OFFER. ALL EXERCISES OF SUBSCRIPTION RIGHTS ARE IRREVOCABLE. PURCHASE OF OUR COMMON SHARES INVOLVES A HIGH DEGREE

OF RISK. YOU SHOULD READ RISK FACTORS BEGINNING ON PAGE 14.

Our outstanding common shares currently are, and we expect that the common shares to be issued in the rights offer will be, listed for trading on the New York Stock Exchange (the NYSE) under the symbol IFC. The last sale price of our common shares on October 13, 2008 was $3.09.

This is not an underwritten offering. Our common shares are being offered directly by us without the services of an underwriter or selling agent. We have engaged Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated as our financial and marketing advisor in connection with the rights offer. Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated is not obligated to purchase any of the common shares that are being offered for sale.

We qualify any forward-looking statements entirely by these and the following cautionary factors:

Actual future results may differ materially from our forward-looking statements and we qualify all forward-looking statements by various risks and uncertainties we face, as well as the assumptions underlying the statements, including the following, cautionary factors: difficulties in raising capital through this rights offer and in completing a recapitalization through a possible exchange of trust preferred securities for common shares, including the failure of shareholders to approve measures that would facilitate the company's plans, the failure of a sufficient number of shareholders to participate in the rights offer or to exercise fully their rights, or the failure to satisfy the conditions that require the standby purchasers to exercise fully their subscription privileges; difficulty in obtaining the desired treatment for the home equity and commercial leasing restructuring transactions on our balance sheet; difficulty in further reducing the company's home equity assets, including a failure to obtain any necessary regulatory approvals or third-party consents, higher than anticipated costs in removing the home equity assets if we are able to successfully negotiate a transaction, or unanticipated regulatory constraints; potential deterioration or effects of general economic conditions, particularly in sectors relating to real estate and/or mortgage lending, small business lending, and franchise restaurants finance; fluctuations in housing prices; potential effects related to the company's decision to suspend the payment of dividends on its common, preferred and trust preferred securities; potential changes in direction, volatility and relative movement (basis risk) of interest rates, which may affect consumer demand for our products and the management and success of our interest rate risk management strategies; staffing fluctuations in response to product demand or the implementation of corporate strategies that affect our work force; the relative profitability of our lending and deposit operations; the valuation and management of our portfolios, including the use of external and internal modeling assumptions we embed in the valuation of those portfolios and short-term swings in the valuation of such portfolios; borrowers' refinancing opportunities, which may affect the prepayment assumptions used in our valuation estimates and which may affect loan demand; unanticipated deterioration in the credit quality or collectability of our loan and lease assets, including deterioration resulting from the effects of natural disasters; difficulties in accurately estimating any future repurchases of residential mortgage or other loans or leases due to alleged violations of representations and warranties we made marketing sales or securitizations; unanticipated deterioration or changes in estimates of the carrying value of our other assets, including securities; difficulties in delivering products to the secondary market as planned; difficulties in expanding our business and obtaining or retaining deposit or other funding sources as needed, including the loss of public fund deposits should our state-chartered bank subsidiary become less than well-capitalized, and other

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS RELATING TO THE RIGHTS OFFER

What is the rights offer?

We are distributing, at no charge, to holders of our common shares transferable subscription rights to purchase our common shares. You will receive _____ subscription right for each common share you owned as of 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008, the record date. The subscription rights will be evidenced by rights certificates. Each subscription right will entitle the holder to a basic subscription privilege and an over-subscription privilege.

What is the basic subscription privilege?

The basic subscription privilege of each subscription right gives our shareholders the opportunity to purchase _____ of our common shares at a subscription price of $ _____ per full share. We have granted to you, as a shareholder of record as of 5:00 p.m., New York time, on the record date, _____ subscription right for each common share you owned at that time. For example, if you owned 100 of our common shares as of 5:00 p.m., New York time, on the record date, you would receive _____ subscription rights and would have the right to purchase _____ common shares (rounded down to _____ shares, with the total subscription payment being adjusted accordingly, as discussed below) for $ _____ per full share (or a total payment of $ _____) with your basic subscription privilege. You may exercise the basic subscription privilege with respect to any number of shares subject to your subscription rights, or you may choose not to exercise any subscription rights at all.

If you hold your shares in the name of a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee who uses the services of the Depository Trust Company (DTC), DTC will issue _____ subscription right to the nominee for each common share you own at the record date. The basic subscription privilege of each subscription right can then be used to purchase _____ common shares for $ _____ per full share. As in the example above, if you owned 100 of our common shares on the record date, you would receive _____ subscription rights and would have the right to purchase _____ common shares (rounded down to shares, with the total subscription payment being adjusted accordingly, as discussed below) for $ _____ per full share (or a total payment of $ _____) with your basic subscription privilege.

Fractional common shares resulting from the exercise of the basic subscription privilege will be eliminated by rounding down to the nearest whole share, with the total subscription payment being adjusted accordingly. Any excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

What is the over-subscription privilege?

In the event that you purchase all of the common shares available to you pursuant to your basic subscription privilege, you may also choose to purchase any portion of our common shares that are not purchased by our other shareholders through the exercise of their basic subscription privileges. You should indicate on your rights certificate how many additional shares you would like to purchase pursuant to your over-subscription privilege. Limitations on the amount of common shares that may be subscribed for pursuant to your over-subscription privilege are described below under the heading _____ Are there any limits on the number of shares I may purchase in the rights offer or own as a result of the rights offer?

If sufficient common shares are available, we will seek to honor your over-subscription request in full. If, however, over-subscription requests exceed the number of common shares available, we will allocate the available common shares pro rata among the shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege in proportion to the number of common shares owned by such shareholder on the record date, relative to the number of shares owned on the record date by all shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege. If this pro rata allocation results in any shareholder receiving a greater number of common shares than the shareholder subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of the over-subscription privilege, then such shareholder will be allocated only that number of shares for which the shareholder oversubscribed, and the remaining common shares will be allocated among all other shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege on the same pro rata basis described above. The proration process will be repeated until all common shares have been allocated to the full extent of the over-subscription privileges exercised.

In order to properly exercise your over-subscription privilege, you must deliver the subscription payment related to your over-subscription privilege prior to the expiration of the rights offer. Because we will not know the total number of unsubscribed shares prior to the expiration of the rights offer, if you wish to maximize the number of shares you purchase pursuant to your over-subscription privilege, you will need to deliver payment in an amount equal to the sum of the subscription price and your own over-subscription amount (i.e., for the maximum number of common shares available to you, assuming you exercise all your subscription privileges and are allotted the full amount of your over-subscription. See The Rights Offer Over-Subscription Privilege.

Fractional common shares resulting from the exercise of the over-subscription privilege will be eliminated by rounding down to the nearest whole share, with the total subscription payment being adjusted accordingly. Any excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

Are there any limits on the number of shares I may purchase in the rights offer or own as a result of the rights offer?

We will not issue common shares pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, or to any shareholder or standby purchaser who, in our sole opinion, could be required to obtain prior clearance or approval from or submit a notice to any state or federal bank regulatory authority to acquire, own or control such shares if, as of _____, 2008, such clearance or approval has not been obtained and/or any applicable waiting period has not expired. If we elect not to issue shares in such a case, the unissued shares will become available to satisfy over-subscriptions by other shareholders pursuant to their subscription rights and will thereafter be available to standby purchasers.

What is the role of the standby purchasers in this offering?

In connection with the rights offer, we have separately entered into standby purchase agreements with Cummins Inc., William I. Miller (our chairman and chief executive officer), Catherine G. Miller, Elizabeth G. Miller and Henry B. Schacht (a former chief executive officer of Cummins Inc. and Lucent Inc.), pursuant to which these investors have severally agreed to acquire from us, at the same subscription price offered to shareholders, any common shares that are not subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, subject to a maximum amount set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement. The standby purchasers will purchase no more than $31 million of common shares in the aggregate, including the amount purchased by the Miller family in connection with their commitments to first exercise rights with respect to their current shareholdings. We and our financial advisor are continuing to seek additional standby commitments. See The Right Offer Standby Commitments.

William I. Miller, our chairman and chief executive officer and two of his sisters, Catherine G. Miller and Elizabeth G. Miller, have irrevocably committed to exercise basic subscription privileges on shares they own outright.

Are there any conditions to the standby commitments?

The standby purchases are subject to a number of conditions, including conditions relating to satisfactory approvals from our banking regulators. If any of the conditions is not satisfied, the standby purchasers will not be required to purchase any shares. In addition, Cummins Inc. is not required to purchase common shares if (i) the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions determine that our holding company and Irwin

Union Bank and Trust Company will not remain well-capitalized in light of foreseeable capital requirements and that our capital plan, including the rights offer, will not be satisfactory, (ii) it reasonably believes that it will be deemed to control (within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended) our holding company, (iii) our holding company has not taken all required actions to increase the size of our board by one director so a designee of Cummins Inc. may be elected or appointed to the board in the future if Cummins so proposes and (iv) consents and approvals required to be obtained from any governmental authority in connection with the purchase of shares pursuant to the standby commitment have not been obtained or all applicable waiting periods and appeal periods have not yet expired. In addition, Cummins Inc.'s commitment may be reduced such that it will not own more than 19.9% of our common shares upon closing of the rights offers. See The Rights Offer Standby Commitments and Plan of Distribution.

Are the standby purchasers receiving any compensation for the standby commitments?

No. The standby purchasers are not receiving compensation for their standby commitments.

What agreements do we have with the standby purchasers?

Each standby purchaser executed a non-disclosure agreement and accordingly gained access to certain nonpublic information about us and participated in discussions with our management. They performed a due diligence review of Irwin Financial Corporation and subsequently negotiated and executed standby purchase agreements.

How many shares will the standby purchasers own after the rights offer?

The number of shares that will be purchased by the standby purchasers can only be determined upon the completion of the rights offer. The number of shares will be determined by reference to a formula that provides that the standby purchasers will purchase all the common shares that could have been but were not subscribed for by the rights holders, up to a maximum number of shares set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement. The maximum number of shares that a standby purchaser will purchase may vary depending on the standby purchaser and cannot be determined until the completion of the rights offer. If the rights offer is fully subscribed, then the standby purchasers will not purchase any of our shares pursuant to their standby purchase agreements.

Is the board of directors participating in the rights offer and has our board made a recommendation to our shareholders regarding the rights offer?

In addition to William I. Miller's commitment to exercise rights relating to shares he currently holds outright and his additional standby commitment, each of the company's directors has irrevocably committed to exercise rights received in the offering. Eight of the nine independent directors have made this election with respect to the full amount of his or her basic subscription privileges. Any such purchases will be made for investment purposes and not with a view to resale.

Although each of our directors is investing his or her own money in the rights offer, our board of directors is making no recommendation regarding your exercise of the subscription rights. Shareholders, including our directors, who exercise subscription rights risk investment loss on new money invested. We cannot assure you that the market price for our common shares will be above the subscription price or that anyone purchasing shares at the subscription price will be able to sell those shares in the future at the same price or a higher price. You are urged to make your decision based on your own assessment of our business and the rights offer. Please see Risk Factors for a discussion of some of the risks involved in investing in our common shares.

Why are we conducting the rights offer?

We are in the process of a strategic restructuring to refocus our holding company and its bank and thrift subsidiaries on serving small businesses and the communities in which we operate in order to return to profitability in the rapidly evolving U.S. banking industry. Raising our capital levels is an important component of our restructuring plan. We have decided to conduct a rights offer to enhance our capital and give existing shareholders the opportunity to limit ownership dilution. On October 10, 2008, our holding company and our state-chartered subsidiary bank Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, entered into a written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. On the same day, our federal savings bank subsidiary Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B., entered into a written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision. Both agreements, require, among other things, that our holding company and our bank subsidiaries prepare a capital plan that will ensure that our holding company and our bank subsidiaries maintain sufficient capital to comply with regulatory capital guidelines and to address the volume of our adversely affected assets, concentrations of credit, adequacy of our allowance for loan and lease losses, planned growth and anticipated levels of retained earnings. We believe that the rights offer will allow us to continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels that we have agreed upon with our bank regulators, accomplish the other objectives we and our bank regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities.

Are we pursuing other initiatives to improve our capital position?

We are considering undertaking an exchange offer whereby a portion of our trust preferred securities will be exchanged for our common shares concurrently with the completion of this rights offer. If the exchange offer is completed, the capital that is attributable to the trust preferred securities to be exchanged will be reclassified to Tier 1, instead of its current Tier 2 capital classification, thereby strengthening our capital levels. In addition, the exchange offer will reduce our continuing obligation to pay or accrue quarterly interest payments on the trust preferred securities that will be exchanged. At this time, we are unable to determine if, or how much of, the trust preferred securities will be exchanged for our common shares. See How many common shares will be outstanding after the rights offer?

How was the $ per full share subscription price for the rights offer determined?

Our board of directors will form a pricing committee to determine the subscription price. The pricing committee will consider a number of factors, including the price at which our shareholders might be willing to participate in the rights offer, historical and current trading prices for our common shares, the need for capital, and the desire to provide an opportunity to our shareholders to participate in the rights offer on a pro rata basis. In conjunction with its review of these factors, our board of directors is currently reviewing our history and prospects, including our past and present earnings, our prospects for future earnings, our current financial condition and regulatory status, and a range of discounts to market value represented by the subscription prices in various prior rights offers of public companies. The subscription price will not necessarily be related to our book value, net worth or any other established criteria of value and may or may not be considered the fair value of our common shares to be offered in the rights offer. The Company cannot give any assurance that our common shares will trade at or above the subscription price in any given time period.

Am I required to exercise all of the subscription rights I receive in the rights offer?

No. You may exercise any number of your subscription rights, or you may choose not to exercise any subscription rights. However, if you choose not to exercise your subscription rights in full, the relative percentage of our common shares that you own will decrease, and your voting and other rights will be diluted. In addition, if you do not exercise your basic subscription privilege in full, you will not be entitled to participate in the over-subscription privilege. See How many common shares will be outstanding after the rights offer?

How soon must I act to exercise my subscription rights?

The subscription rights may be exercised at any time beginning on the date of this prospectus and prior to the expiration of the rights offer, which is , 2008, at 5:00 p.m., New York time. If you elect to exercise any rights, the subscription agent must actually receive all required documents and payments from you prior to the expiration of the rights offer. Although we have the option of extending the expiration of the rights offer, we currently do not intend to do so.

Table of Contents

May I transfer my subscription rights?

Subscription rights may be purchased or sold through usual investment channels. There has, however, been no prior market for the subscription rights and no assurance can be given that a market will develop, or, if a market develops, that such market will remain available throughout the subscription period.

Orders to sell subscription rights must be received by the subscription agent at or prior to 11:00 a.m., New York City time, on _____, 2008. The subscription agent's obligation to execute orders is subject to its ability to find buyers. If the subscription rights cannot be sold by the subscription agent by 5:00 p.m., New York City time, on _____, 2008, they will be returned promptly by mail to the subscription rights holder. See The Rights Offer Transferability of Subscription Rights.

Will I be charged a fee if I transfer my subscription rights?

We will not charge any fees to you if you transfer your subscription rights. If you sell your subscription rights, however, you will be responsible for any commissions, taxes or brokers' fees arising from any such sale. If you sell your subscription rights through your broker or dealer, your sales proceeds will be the actual sales price of your subscription rights less any applicable brokers' commission, taxes or other fees. See The Rights Offer Transferability of Subscription Rights.

Are we requiring a minimum subscription to complete the rights offer?

There is no minimum subscription requirement in the rights offer. However, our board of directors reserves the right to cancel the rights offer for any reason, including if we do not receive aggregate subscriptions that we believe will satisfy the capital plans set forth in the written agreements with our bank regulators. See Why are we conducting the rights offer?

Are there any conditions to completing the rights offer?

Yes. Our shareholders as of October 6, 2008 must approve an amendment to our Restated Articles of Incorporation to increase the number of authorized common shares to 200,000,000. Our Restated Articles of Incorporation currently authorize us to issue 40,000,000 common shares, which is less than the sum of our current outstanding shares plus the number of shares we are offering for sale in the rights offer. At our special meeting of shareholders, which is scheduled to be held on November 3, 2008, we are submitting a proposal to shareholders to amend the Restated Articles of Incorporation to increase the authorized common shares.

Can our board of directors extend, cancel or amend the rights offer?

Yes. We have the option to extend the rights offer and the period for exercising your subscription rights, although we do not presently intend to do so. Our board of directors may cancel the rights offer at any time prior to the expiration of the rights offer for any reason. In the event that the rights offer is cancelled, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable. The board of directors reserves the right to amend or modify the terms of the rights offer.

What will happen if I choose not to exercise my subscription rights?

If you do not exercise any subscription rights, the number of our common shares you own will not change; however, due to the fact that shares will be purchased by other shareholders and the standby purchasers pursuant to their obligations under the standby purchase agreements, your percentage ownership of our company will be diluted after the completion of the rights offer.

In addition, we are contemplating offering the holders of a portion of our trust preferred securities the opportunity to exchange their trust preferred shares for common shares. If we complete this exchange offer concurrently with the common shareholder rights offer, additional common shares will be issued to the holders of the trust preferred shares. As a result of the exchange offer, the ownership interests and voting interests of all existing shareholders, even those that fully participate in the rights offer and the standby purchasers, will be substantially diluted. We cannot determine the amount of dilution at this time. See How many common shares will be outstanding after the rights offer?

How do I exercise my subscription rights? What forms and payment are required to purchase our common shares?

If you wish to participate in the rights offer, you must take the following steps:

deliver payment to the subscription agent using the methods outlined in this prospectus before 5:00 p.m., New York time, on , 2008; and deliver a properly completed rights certificate to the subscription agent before 5:00 p.m., New York time, on , 2008.

If you cannot deliver your rights certificate to the subscription agent prior to the expiration of the rights offer, you may follow the guaranteed delivery procedures described under The Rights Offer Guaranteed Delivery Procedures.

If you send a payment that is insufficient to purchase the number of shares you requested, or if the number of shares you requested is not specified in the forms, the payment received will be applied to exercise your subscription rights to the full extent possible based on the amount of the payment received, subject to the elimination of fractional shares.

What should I do if I want to participate in the rights offer, but my shares are held in the name of my broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee?

If you hold your common shares in the name of a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee, then your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee is the record holder of the shares you own. The record holder must exercise the subscription rights on your behalf for the common shares you wish to purchase.

If you wish to purchase our common shares through the rights offer, please promptly contact your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee as record holder of your shares. We will ask your record holder to notify you of the rights offer. You should complete and return to your record holder the form entitled Beneficial Owner Election Form. You should receive this form from your record holder with the other rights offer materials.

When will I receive my new shares?

If you purchase our common shares through the rights offer, you will receive your new shares as soon as practicable after the closing of the rights offer.

After I send in my payment and rights certificate, may I cancel my exercise of subscription rights?

No. All exercises of subscription rights are irrevocable, even if you later learn information that you consider to be unfavorable to the exercise of your subscription rights. You should not exercise your subscription rights unless you are certain that you wish to purchase our common shares at a subscription price of $ per full share.

How many common shares will be outstanding after the rights offer?

As of , 2008, of our common shares were issued and outstanding. Assuming no other transactions by us involving our common shares, and no options for our common shares are exercised, prior to the expiration of the rights offer, if the rights offer is fully subscribed through the exercise of the subscription rights and the standby purchasers acquire all of the common shares not purchased by the holders of subscription rights before the expiration of the rights offer, then an additional _____ of our common shares will be issued and outstanding after the closing of the rights offer, for a total of _____ common shares outstanding. As a result of the rights offer, the ownership interests and voting interests of the existing shareholders that do not fully exercise their subscription rights will be diluted.

Table of Contents

In addition, we are contemplating offering the holders of a portion of our trust preferred securities the opportunity to exchange their trust preferred shares for common shares. If we complete the trust preferred exchange offer concurrently with the common shareholder rights offer, additional common shares will be issued to holders of the trust preferred shares. As a result of the exchange offer, the ownership interests and voting interests of all existing shareholders, even those that fully participate in the rights offer and the standby purchasers, will be substantially diluted. We cannot determine the amount of dilution at this time.

How much money will the company receive from the rights offer?

We expect that the gross proceeds from the rights offer to be approximately $ million. We intend to use the proceeds of the rights offer for general corporate purposes including to (i) continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels that we have agreed upon with our bank regulators, (ii) accomplish the other objectives we and our bank regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and (iii) position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities.

Are there risks in exercising my subscription rights?

Yes. The exercise of your subscription rights involves risks. Exercising your subscription rights involves the purchase of additional common shares and should be considered as carefully as you would consider any other equity investment. Among other things, you should carefully consider the risks described under the headings Risk Factors in this prospectus and the documents incorporated by reference in this prospectus.

If the rights offer is not completed, will my subscription payment be refunded to me?

Yes. The subscription agent will hold all funds it receives in a segregated bank account until completion of the rights offer. If the rights offer is not completed, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable. If you own shares in street name, it may take longer for you to receive payment because the subscription agent will return payments through the record holder of your shares.

How do I exercise my subscription rights if I live outside the United States?

We will not mail this prospectus or the rights certificates to shareholders whose addresses are outside the United States or who have an army post office or foreign post office address. The subscription agent will hold the rights certificates for their account. To exercise subscription rights, our foreign shareholders must notify the subscription agent and timely follow the procedures described in Rights Offer Foreign Shareholders.

What fees or charges apply if I purchase the common shares?

We are not charging any fee or sales commission to issue subscription rights to you or to issue shares to you if you exercise your subscription rights. If you exercise your subscription rights through the record holder of your shares, you are responsible for paying any fees your record holder may charge you.

What are the material U.S. federal income tax consequences of exercising or selling my subscription rights?

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, you should not recognize income or loss in connection with the receipt or exercise of subscription rights in the rights offer. If you sell your subscription rights, you should recognize capital gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes equal to the difference between the amount that you realize and your adjusted tax basis in your subscription right. For these purposes, your holding period in a subscription right will include your holding period in the common shares with respect to which the subscription right was distributed. Capital gain of a non-corporate U.S. holder, including individuals, that is recognized in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15% where the holder has a holding period greater than one year. The deductibility of net capital losses is subject to limitations. You should consult your tax advisor as to your particular tax consequences resulting from the rights offer. For a more detailed discussion, see Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations.

To whom should I send my forms and payment?

If your shares are held in the name of a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee, then you should send your subscription documents, rights certificate, notices of guaranteed delivery and subscription payment to that record holder. If you are the record holder, then you should send your subscription documents, rights certificate, notices of guaranteed delivery and subscription payment by hand delivery, first class mail or courier service to:

By Mail:
National City Bank

P.O. Box 859208

By Hand or Overnight Courier:
National City Bank
c/o The Colbent Corp.
161 Bay State Drive
Braintree, MA 02185-9208

You are solely responsible for completing delivery to the subscription agent of your subscription documents, rights certificate and payment. We urge you to allow sufficient time for delivery of your subscription materials to the subscription agent.

Whom should I contact if I have other questions?

If you have any questions about whether your completed rights certificate or payment has been received, you may call National City Shareholder Communications at 1-800-622-6757 or send an email to shareholder.inquiries@nationalcity.com.

Limitation on the Purchase of Shares	We will not issue common shares pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, or to any shareholder or standby purchaser who, in our sole opinion, could be required to obtain prior clearance or approval from or submit a notice to any state or federal bank regulatory authority to acquire, own or control such shares if, as of , 2008, such clearance or approval has not been obtained and/or any applicable waiting period has not expired.
Subscription Price	$ per full share, payable in cash. To be effective, any payment related to the exercise of a subscription right must clear prior to the expiration of the rights offer.

Standby Purchase Agreements	In connection with the rights offer, we have entered into standby purchase agreements pursuant to which the purchasers have severally agreed to acquire from us, at the same subscription price offered to shareholders, any common shares that are not subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, up to a maximum number of shares set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement. Please see "The Rights Offer Standby Commitments and Plan of Distribution" for further information about the Standby Purchase Agreements.
Standby Purchasers	Cummins Inc. ($25 million commitment) William I. Miller, Catherine G. Miller, Elizabeth G. Miller and Henry B. Schacht ($6 million aggregate commitment, including irrevocable commitments to exercise all rights received as shareholders) The commitment of each of the standby purchasers is subject to certain conditions that must be satisfied prior to completion of the rights offer. We and our financial advisor are continuing to seek additional standby commitments.
Personal Participation of Directors	Each director has made an irrevocable commitment to exercise his or her own basic subscription rights personally (and with respect to eight of nine independent directors, this commitment is for the full amount of his or her rights received). Our board of directors is making no recommendation regarding your exercise of the subscription rights. You are urged to make your decision based on your own assessment of our business and the rights offer. Please see "Risk Factors" for a discussion of some of the risks involved in investing in our common shares.
No Revocation	All exercises of subscription rights are irrevocable, even if you later learn information that you consider to be unfavorable to the exercise of your subscription rights. You should not exercise your subscription rights unless you are certain that you wish to purchase additional common shares at a subscription price of $ per full share.
Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Considerations	For U.S. federal income tax purposes, you should not recognize income or loss upon receipt or exercise of a subscription right. If you sell your subscription rights, you should recognize capital gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes equal to the difference between the amount that you realize and your adjusted tax basis in your subscription right. For these purposes, your holding period in a subscription right will include your holding period in the common shares with respect to which the subscription right was distributed. Capital gain of a non-corporate U.S. holder, including individuals, that is recognized in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15% where the holder has a holding period greater than one year. The

you of the receipt, exercise or lapse of the subscription rights in light of your particular circumstances.

Extension, Cancellation and Amendment We have the option to extend the rights offer and the period for exercising your subscription rights, although we do not presently intend to do so. Our board of directors may cancel the rights offer at any time prior to the expiration of the rights offer for any reason. In the event that the rights offer is cancelled, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable. We also reserve the right to amend or modify the terms of the rights offer.

Procedures for Exercising Rights To exercise your subscription rights, you must take the following steps:

If regular mail is used for this purpose, we recommend using registered mail, properly insured, with return receipt requested.

If you are a beneficial owner of shares that are registered in the name of a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee, or if you would rather an institution conduct the transaction on your behalf, you should instruct your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee or to exercise your subscription rights on your behalf and deliver all documents and payments before 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008.

Before purchasing the securities being offered, you should carefully consider the Risk Factors beginning on page 14.

RISK FACTORS

An investment in our securities involves a high degree of risk. You should carefully consider the risks described below, together with the other information included or incorporated by reference in this prospectus and the risks that we have highlighted in other sections of this prospectus, before making an investment decision. The risks described below are not the only risks we face. There could be risks and uncertainties not presently known to us or that we currently deem immaterial that also may impair our business operations. If any of the following risks actually occur, our business, results of operations and financial condition could suffer. In that event, the trading price of our common shares could decline, and you may lose all or part of your investment in our common shares. The risks discussed below include forward-looking statements, and our actual results may differ substantially from those discussed in these forward-looking statements.

Risks Related to the Rights Offer

The market price of our common shares is volatile and may decline before or after the subscription rights expire.

The market price of our common shares could be subject to wide fluctuations in response to numerous factors, some of which are beyond our control. These factors include, among other things, actual or anticipated variations in our costs of doing business, operating results and cash flow, the nature and content of our earnings releases and our competitors' earnings releases, changes in financial estimates by securities analysts, business conditions in our markets, the general state of the securities markets and the market for other financial stocks, changes in capital markets that affect the perceived or actual availability of capital to companies in our industry, and governmental legislation or regulation, as well as general economic and market conditions, such as continued downturns in our economy and recessions. Please see Risks Relating to the Capital and Credit Markets.

Once you exercise your subscription rights, you may not revoke them. We cannot assure you that the market price of our common shares will not decline after you elect to exercise your subscription rights. If you exercise your subscription rights and, afterwards, the public trading market price of our common shares decreases below the subscription price, you will have committed to buying our common shares at a price above the prevailing market price and could have an immediate unrealized loss. Our common shares are listed for trading on the NYSE under the ticker symbol IFC, and the last reported sales price of our common shares on the NYSE on October 13, 2008, was $3.09 per share. Moreover, we cannot assure you that following the exercise of your subscription rights you will be able to sell your common shares at a price equal to or greater than the subscription price. Until shares are delivered upon expiration of the rights offer, you will not be able to sell our common shares that you purchase in the rights offer.

Your ownership interest will be (i) diluted if you do not exercise your subscription rights and (ii) further diluted if we complete a potential exchange offer.

Assuming we sell the full offering amount, the rights offer will result in our issuance of approximately of our common shares. If you choose not to fully exercise your subscription rights prior to the expiration of the rights offer, your relative ownership interest in our common shares will be diluted.

If we proceed with the possible exchange offer, as described under The Rights Offer Concurrent Exchange Offers, in which current trust preferred security holders will receive common shares, your ownership will be diluted regardless of whether or not you participate in the rights offer.

The subscription rights are transferable but there has been no prior market for the subscription rights.

You may sell, transfer or assign your subscription rights. However, there has been no prior market or other means for you to have directly realized any value associated with the subscription rights and no assurance can be given that a market will develop, or, if a market develops, that such market will remain available throughout the subscription period.

The subscription price determined for the rights offer is not necessarily an indication of the fair value of our common shares.

Our board of directors will form a pricing committee to determine the subscription price. The pricing committee will consider a number of factors, including the price at which our shareholders might be willing to participate in the rights offer, historical and current trading prices for our common shares, the need for liquidity and capital, negotiations with the standby purchasers, and the desire to provide an opportunity to our shareholders to participate in the rights offer on a pro rata basis. In conjunction with its review of these factors, our board of directors is currently reviewing our history and prospects, including our past and present earnings, our prospects for future earnings, our current financial condition and regulatory status, and a range of discounts to market value represented by the subscription prices in various prior rights offers of public companies. The subscription price will not necessarily be related to our book value, net worth or any other established criteria of value and may or may not be considered the fair value of our common shares to be offered in the rights offer. You should not assume or expect that, after the rights offer, our common shares will trade at or above the subscription price. The company can give no assurance that our common shares will trade at or above the subscription price in any given time period.

Because our management will have broad discretion over the use of the net proceeds from the rights offer, you may not agree with how we use the proceeds, and we may not invest the proceeds successfully.

While we currently anticipate that we will use the net proceeds of the rights offer for general corporate purposes, including to (i) continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels that we have agreed upon with our bank regulators, (ii) accomplish the other objectives we and our bank regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and (iii) position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities. Our management will allocate portions of the proceeds for other purposes. Accordingly, you will be relying on the judgment of our management with regard to the use of the proceeds from the rights offer, and you will not have the opportunity, as part of your investment decision, to assess whether the proceeds are being used appropriately. It is possible that the proceeds will be invested in a way that does not yield a favorable, or any, return for us.

We may cancel the rights offer at any time prior to the expiration of the rights offer, and neither we nor the subscription agent will have any obligation to you except to return your exercise payments.

We may, in our sole discretion, decide not to continue with the rights offer or cancel the rights offer prior to the expiration of the rights offer. If the rights offer is cancelled, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest, as soon as practicable.

The standby purchase commitments are capped at certain values

The standby purchasers will purchase any common shares that are not subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, subject to a maximum amount set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement. Therefore, the maximum number of shares that a standby purchaser will purchase will vary depending on the standby purchaser and cannot be determined until the completion of the rights offer. However, in the aggregate the standby purchases will not exceed $31 million (and this amount may be reduced by conditions in our standby purchase agreements, as well as commitments to exercise directly by standby purchasers that are also shareholders).

The standby purchase commitments are subject to a number of conditions

The standby purchases are subject to conditions. If, in our opinion, any standby purchaser is required to obtain prior clearance or approval for the purchase of our common shares from any state or federal bank regulatory authority and if such approval or clearance has not been obtained by the completion of the rights offer, the standby purchaser is not required to purchase any shares. In addition, Cummins Inc. is not required to purchase common shares if (i) the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions determine that our holding company and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company will not remain well-capitalized in light of foreseeable capital requirements and that our capital plan, including the rights offer will not be satisfactory, (ii) it reasonably believes that it will be deemed to control (within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended) our holding company, (iii) our holding company has not taken all required actions to increase the size of our board by one director so a designee of Cummins Inc. may be elected to the board in the future if Cummins so proposes and (iv) consents and approvals required to be obtained from any governmental authority in connection with the purchase of shares pursuant to the standby commitment have not been obtained or all applicable waiting periods and appeal periods have not yet expired. In addition, Cummins Inc.'s commitment may be reduced such that it will not own more than 19.9% of our common shares upon closing of the rights offer. For further information on the standby commitments, see The Rights Offer and The Standby Commitments.

If you do not act promptly and follow the subscription instructions, your exercise of subscription rights will be rejected.

Shareholders that desire to purchase shares in the rights offer must act promptly to ensure that all required forms and payments are actually received by the subscription agent prior to the expiration of the rights offer at 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008. If you are a beneficial owner of shares, you must act promptly to ensure that your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee acts for you and that all required forms and payments are actually received by the subscription agent prior to the expiration of the rights offer. We are not responsible if your broker, dealer, custodian bank or nominee fails to ensure that all required forms and payments are actually received by the subscription agent prior to the expiration of the rights offer. If you fail to complete and sign the required subscription forms, send an incorrect payment amount or otherwise fail to follow the subscription procedures that apply to your exercise in the rights offer prior to the expiration of the rights offer, the subscription agent will reject your subscription or accept it only to the extent of the payment received. Neither we nor our subscription agent undertake to contact you concerning an incomplete or incorrect subscription form or payment, nor are we under any obligation to correct such forms or payment. We have the sole discretion to determine whether a subscription exercise properly complies with the subscription procedures.

Our ability to use net operating loss carryforwards to offset future taxable income for U.S. federal income tax purposes may be limited by the rights offer and other aspects of our capital plan.

In general, the rules of section 382 of the Internal Revenue Code apply to limit a corporation's ability to utilize existing net operating loss (NOL) carryforwards once the corporation experiences an ownership change. Generally, an ownership change occurs when there is an increase in the stock ownership by one or more trackable shareholders of more than 50 percentage points over the lowest percentage ownership of such shareholder during a look back period (generally 36 months). Therefore, the rights offer or, if consummated and closed, the proposed exchange offer, could result in an ownership change. Section 382 allows post-change corporations to use pre-change NOLs, but limits the amount that may be used annually to a percentage of the equity value of the corporation immediately before the change of ownership. Therefore, we may be limited in our ability to use these NOL carryforwards to offset future tax liabilities and this may have an adverse effect on our results of operations.

The concurrent exchange offers might not close.

We are concurrently considering exchange offers as described under The Rights Offer and Concurrent Exchange Offers. Failure to consummate and close these exchange offers may mean that we do not have a capital plan that will be satisfactory to the regulators and could result in regulatory action or negatively affect our capital position and could result in an enforcement action.

Risks Related to the Common Shares

The price of our common shares may fluctuate significantly, and this may make it difficult for you to resell common shares owned by you at times or at prices you find attractive.

The price of our common shares on the NYSE constantly changes. We expect that the market price of our common shares will continue to fluctuate.

Our stock price may fluctuate as a result of a variety of factors, some of which are beyond our control. These factors include:

- quarterly variations in our operating results or the quality of our assets;
- operating results that vary from the expectations of management, securities analysts and investors;
- changes in expectations as to our future financial performance;
- announcements of innovations, new products, strategic developments, significant contracts, acquisitions and other material events by us or our competitors;
- the operating and securities price performance of other companies that investors believe are comparable to us;
- future sales of our equity or equity-related securities;
- our past and future dividend practice;
- our creditworthiness;
- interest rates;
- the credit, mortgage and housing markets, the markets for securities relating to mortgages or housing, and developments with respect to financial institutions generally;
- the market for similar securities; and
- economic, financial, geopolitical, regulatory, congressional or judicial events that affect us or the financial markets.

Accordingly, the common shares that an investor purchases, whether in this offering or in the secondary market, may trade at a price lower than that at which they were purchased.

In addition, in recent years, and especially in recent weeks, the stock market in general has experienced extreme price and volume fluctuations. This volatility has had a significant effect on the market price of securities issued by many companies and particularly those in the financial services and banking sector, including for reasons unrelated to their operating performance. These broad market fluctuations may adversely affect our stock price, notwithstanding our operating results.

There may be future sales or other dilution of our equity, which may adversely affect the market price of our common shares.

We are not restricted from issuing additional common shares, including any securities that are convertible into or exchangeable for, or that represent the right to receive, common shares, as well as any common shares that may be issued pursuant to our shareholder rights plan. The market price of our common shares could decline as a result of sales of our common shares made after this offering or the perception that such sales could occur. It could also decline if we issue additional common shares in connection with a potential exchange of a portion of our trust preferred shares for our common shares. At this time, we are unable to determine whether we will complete an exchange offer or the number of shares that we will issue in connection with any exchange offer.

You may not receive dividends on the common shares.

Holders of our common shares are only entitled to receive such dividends as our board of directors may declare out of funds legally available for such payments. On March 3, 2008, we announced that our board of directors voted to suspend payment of dividends on our common, preferred and trust preferred securities. In addition, as a result of the written agreement that we and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company entered into on October 10, 2008, with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, we are not permitted to (1) declare or pay any dividend, or (2) make any distributions of interest or principal on subordinated debentures or trust preferred securities, without the prior written approval of these regulators. As a result we cannot declare a dividend on our common shares. Although we can seek to obtain a waiver of this prohibition, there is no certainty that the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions will grant such a waiver. Therefore, we may not be able to resume payments of dividends in the future.

The issuance of additional series of our preferred shares could adversely affect holders of our common shares which may negatively impact your investment.

Our board of directors is authorized to issue additional classes or series of preferred shares without any action on the part of the shareholders. The board of directors also has the power without shareholder approval, to set the terms of any such classes or series of preferred shares that may be issued, including voting rights, dividend rights, and preferences over our common shares with respect to dividends or upon our dissolution, winding-up and liquidation and other terms. If we issue additional preferred shares in the future that have a preference over our common shares with respect to the payment of dividends or upon our liquidation, dissolution, or winding up, or if we issue preferred shares with voting rights that dilute the voting power of our common shares, the rights of holders of our common shares or the market price of our common shares could be adversely affected.

We have regulatory restrictions on our ability to receive dividends from bank subsidiaries.

Our ability to pay dividends in the future depends on our ability to dividend from our state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, to our holding company, for which prior approval from our regulators and additional action by our board of directors will be necessary. As a result of the written agreement that we and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company entered into on October 10, 2008, with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, is not permitted to (1) declare or pay any dividend, or (2) make any distributions of interest or principal on subordinated debentures or trust preferred securities, without the prior written approval of these regulators. As a result, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company cannot declare a dividend to us. Although Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company can seek to obtain a waiver of this prohibition, there is no certainty that the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions will grant such a waiver.

Current levels of market volatility are unprecedented.

The capital and credit markets have been experiencing volatility and disruption for more than 12 months. In recent weeks, the volatility and disruption has reached unprecedented levels. In some cases, the markets have produced downward pressure on stock prices and credit capacity for certain issuers without regard to those issuers' underlying financial strength. If the current levels of market disruption and volatility continue or worsen, there can be no assurance that we will not experience further adverse effects, which may be material, on our ability to access capital and on our results of operations.

Our shareholder rights plan, provisions in our restated articles of incorporation, our by-laws, and Indiana law may delay or prevent an acquisition of us by a third party.

Our board of directors has implemented a shareholder rights plan which, combined with Indiana law, and absent further action by our board, contains provisions which have certain anti-takeover effects. While the purpose of these plans is to strengthen the negotiating position of the board in the event of a hostile takeover attempt, the overall effects of the plan may be to render more difficult or discourage a merger, tender offer or proxy contest, the assumption of control by a holder of a larger block of our shares and the removal of incumbent directors and key management. If triggered, the rights will cause substantial dilution to a person or group that attempts to acquire us without approval of our board of directors, and under certain circumstances, the rights beneficially owned by the person or group may become void. The plan also may have the effect of limiting the participation of certain shareholders in transactions such as mergers or tender offers whether or not such transactions are favored by incumbent directors and key management. This could discourage proxy contests and may make it more difficult for you and other shareholders to elect your own representatives as directors and take other corporate actions.

Our by-laws do not permit cumulative voting of shareholders in the election of directors, allowing the holders of a majority of our outstanding shares to control the election of all our directors. We have a staggered board, which means that only one-third of our board can be replaced by shareholders at any annual meeting. Directors may not be removed by shareholders. Our by-laws also provide that only our board of directors, and not our shareholders, may adopt, alter, amend and repeal our by-laws.

Indiana law provides several limitations that may discourage potential acquirers from purchasing our common shares. In particular, Indiana law prohibits business combinations with a person who acquires 10% or more of our common shares during the five-year period after the acquisition of 10% by that person or entity, unless the acquirer receives prior approval for the acquisition of the shares or business combination from our board of directors.

These and other provisions of Indiana law and our governing documents are intended to provide the board of directors with the negotiating leverage to achieve a more favorable outcome for our shareholders in the event of an offer for the company. However, there is no assurance that these same anti-takeover provisions could not have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a transaction or a change in control that might be in the best interest of our shareholders.

Risks Related to the Capital and Credit Markets

The current economic environment poses significant challenges for us and could adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

We are operating in a challenging and uncertain economic environment, including generally uncertain national conditions and local conditions in our markets. Financial institutions continue to be affected by sharp declines in the real estate market and constrained financial markets. While we are taking steps to decrease and limit our exposure to residential mortgage loans, home equity loans and lines of credit, and construction and land loans, we nonetheless retain direct exposure to the residential and commercial real estate markets, and we are affected by these events. Our commercial banking line of business has a substantial portfolio of construction and land development loans. Continued declines in real estate values, home sales volumes and financial stress on borrowers as a result of the uncertain economic environment, including job losses, could have an adverse effect on our borrowers or their customers, which could adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. The overall deterioration in economic conditions, the decline in our financial performance over the last two years, and the reduction in capital ratios at June 30, 2008 have subjected us to increased regulatory scrutiny in the current environment. In addition, a possible national economic recession or further deterioration in local economic conditions in our markets could drive losses beyond that which is provided for in our allowance for loan losses and result in the following other consequences: loan delinquencies, problem assets and foreclosures may increase; demand for our products and services may decline; deposits may decrease, which would adversely impact our liquidity position; and collateral for our loans, especially real estate, may decline in value, in turn reducing customers' borrowing power, and reducing the value of assets and collateral associated with our existing loans.

The U.S. government's plan to purchase large amounts of illiquid, mortgage-backed and other securities from financial institutions may not be effective and/or it may not be available to us.

In response to the financial crises affecting the banking system and financial markets and the going concern threats to the ability of investment banks and other financial institutions, the U.S. Congress adopted the new Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 (EESA). The primary feature of the EESA is the establishment of a troubled asset relief program (TARP), under which the U.S. Treasury Department will purchase up to $700 billion of troubled assets, including mortgage-backed and other securities, from financial institutions for the purpose of stabilizing the financial markets. There can be no assurance as to what impact it will have on the financial markets, including the extreme levels of volatility currently being experienced. The failure of the U.S. government to execute this program expeditiously could have a material adverse effect on the financial markets, which in turn could materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. Since the rules and guidelines of the TARP have not yet been published, we are unable to assess whether any of our assets will qualify for the program or, if they do, whether participation in the program would be beneficial to us.

Risks Related to Our Business

We may be adversely affected by a general deterioration in economic conditions.

The risks associated with our business become more acute in periods of a slowing economy or slow growth such as we experienced in the latter half of 2007 and which has continued into 2008. Economic declines may be accompanied by a decrease in demand for consumer and commercial credit and declining real estate and other asset values. The credit quality of commercial loans and leases where the activities of the borrower or vendor are related to housing and other real estate markets may decline in periods of stress in these industries. Delinquencies, foreclosures and losses generally increase during economic slowdowns or periods of slow growth. We expect that our servicing costs and credit losses will increase during periods of economic slowdown or slow growth such as the one we are presently experiencing.

Although we are in the process of exiting our home equity line of business, we continue to have exposure to losses so long as we hold a portfolio of loans. As such, a material decline in real estate values may reduce the ability of borrowers to use home equity to support borrowings and could increase the loan-to-value ratios of loans we have previously made, thereby weakening collateral coverage and increasing the possibility of a loss in the event of a default. A decline in real estate values could also materially lower runoff in our existing portfolio, effectively extending the average life of the loans in the portfolio (and therefore prolonging the period we are exposed to losses).

We may be adversely affected by interest rate changes.

We and our subsidiaries are subject to interest rate risk. Changes in interest rates will affect the value of loans, deposits and other interest-sensitive assets and liabilities on our balance sheet. Our income may be at risk because changes in interest rates also affect our net interest margin and the value of assets and derivatives that we sell from time to time or that are subject to either mark-to-market accounting or lower-of-cost-or-market accounting, such as loans held for sale, mortgage servicing rights and derivatives instruments.

Reductions in interest rates expose us to write-downs in the carrying value of the mortgage servicing and other servicing assets we hold on our balance sheet. Some of these assets are recorded at the lower of their cost or market value and a valuation allowance is recorded for any impairment. Decreasing interest rates often lead to increased prepayments in the underlying loans, which requires that we write down the carrying value of these servicing assets. The change in value of these assets, if improperly hedged or mismanaged, could adversely affect our operating results in the period in which the impairment occurs.

Our lines of business mainly depend on earnings derived from net interest income. Net interest income is the difference between interest earned on loans and investments and the interest expense paid on other borrowings, including deposits at our banks and other funding liabilities we have. Our interest income and interest expense are affected by general economic conditions and by the policies of regulatory authorities, including the monetary policies of the Federal Reserve that cause our funding costs and yields on new or variable rate assets to change.

Although we take measures intended to manage the risks of operating in changing interest rate environments, we cannot eliminate interest rate sensitivity. Our goal is to ensure that interest rate sensitivity does not exceed prudent levels as determined by our board of directors in certain policies. Our risk management techniques include modeling interest rate scenarios, using financial hedging instruments, and match-funding certain loan assets. There are costs and risks associated with our risk management techniques, and these could be substantial.

Finally, to reduce the effect interest rates have on our businesses, we periodically invest in derivatives and other interest-sensitive instruments. While our intent in purchasing these instruments is to reduce our overall interest rate sensitivity, the performance of these instruments can, at times, cause volatility in our results either due to factors such as basis risk between the derivatives and the hedged item, timing of accounting recognition differences or other such factors.

Our operations may be adversely affected if we are unable to secure adequate funding; our use of wholesale funding sources exposes us to potential liquidity risk.

As a result of our restructuring, including our prior discontinuation of our mortgage banking line of business, we have had to seek alternative funding sources to contribute to our other lines of business, which sources in some cases are more expensive than those previously used.

Due to the sale of mortgage servicing rights and the loss of escrow deposits associated with those servicing rights, we have increased our reliance on wholesale funding, such as Federal Home Loan Bank borrowings, public funds, and brokered deposits in recent quarters. Because wholesale funding sources are affected by general capital market conditions, the availability of funding from wholesale lenders may be dependent on the confidence these investors have in commercial banking, franchise finance, and consumer finance businesses. While we have processes in place to monitor and mitigate these funding risks, the continued availability to us of these funding sources is uncertain, and we could be adversely impacted if our business segments become disfavored by wholesale lenders or large depositors. As a result of the written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision, Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. (which holds approximately 13% of our total assets) is no longer permitted to accept brokered deposits unless it receives the prior approval of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Although we have applied for approval, there is no guarantee that it will be obtained. Moreover, even if such an approval is granted, the written agreement would still impose limitations on Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B.'s freedom to set rates for brokered deposits. Our state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, which is regulated by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, does not have any regulatory restrictions on the issuance of brokered deposits.

Brokered deposits may be difficult for us to retain or replace at attractive rates as they mature. Our financial flexibility could be severely constrained if we are unable to renew our wholesale funding or if adequate financing is not available in the future at acceptable rates of interest. We may not have sufficient liquidity to continue to fund new loans or lease originations, and we may need to liquidate loans or other assets unexpectedly in order to repay obligations as they mature.

Historically, we financed or sold the majority of our second mortgage loan originations into the secondary market through the use of securitizations. This market closed to all participants in the middle of 2007. We expect it to remain closed indefinitely. We are no longer producing these loans.

If there were an acceleration of the recording of losses on our home equity portfolio from our current expectations, it could have a material adverse effect on our results of operations and capital position.

As announced in July 2008, we agreed to securitize approximately $275 million of home equity whole loans. The securitization is treated as a financing and, as such, the loans remain on our balance sheet. These loans, together with the $1 billion of residual home equity loans that currently remain on our balance sheet, as well as an additional remaining portfolio of $40 million of home equity whole loans, will be run-off over time. We believe our remaining exposure, including other costs associated with a simultaneous exit of the segment, is less than $250 million (pre-tax). We will evaluate the performance of the loans on a regular basis. A number of factors, including, but not limited to, changes in regulatory or accounting interpretations, changes to our accounting policy, or contractual triggers, could cause us to accelerate the recognition of losses in a single period or a small number of successive periods. If that were to occur, it may have a material adverse affect on our results of operations and capital position for such periods.

We have credit risk inherent in our asset portfolios.

In our businesses, some borrowers may not repay loans that we make to them. As all financial institutions do, we maintain an allowance for loan and lease losses and other reserves to absorb the level of losses that we think is probable in our portfolios. However, our allowance for loan and lease losses may not be sufficient to cover the loan and lease losses that we actually may incur. While we maintain a reserve at a level management believes is adequate, our charge-offs could exceed these reserves. If we experience defaults by borrowers in any of our businesses to a greater extent than anticipated, our earnings could be negatively impacted.

We review the adequacy of these reserves and the underlying estimates on a periodic basis and we make adjustments to the reserves when required. However, there is still no assurance that our actual losses will not exceed our estimates and negatively impact our earnings. As part of our written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, we and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company agreed to review and revise as necessary our allowance for loan and lease losses methodology to assure compliance with relevant supervisory guidance and to develop an acceptable program for the maintenance of an adequate allowance for loan and lease losses going forward.

We hold in our portfolio a significant number of construction, land and home equity loans, which may pose more credit risk than other types of mortgage loans.

We have limited offering construction and land loans to an exception basis and have ceased offering loans and lines of credit in the home equity line of business. In light of current economic conditions, these types of loans are considered more risky than other types of mortgage loans. Due to the disruptions in credit and housing markets, many of the developers to whom we lend experienced a dramatic decline in sales of new homes from their projects. As a result of this unprecedented market disruption, a material amount of our land and construction portfolio has or may become non-performing as developers are unable to build and sell homes in volumes large enough for orderly repayment of loans. In addition, as home values decline, borrowers are increasingly defaulting on home equity lines of credit in the portfolio of these loans that we hold in run-off mode.

We believe we have established adequate reserves on our financial statements to cover the credit risk of these loan portfolios. However, there can be no assurance that losses will not exceed our reserves, and ultimately result in a material level of charge-offs, which could adversely impact our results of operations, liquidity and capital.

We may be required to repurchase mortgage loans that we previously sold because of the credit risk inherent in those loans.

We retain limited credit exposure from the sale of mortgage loans. When we sell mortgage loans, we make standard representations and warranties to the transferee regarding the loans. These representations and warranties do not assure against credit risk associated with the transferred loans, but if individual mortgage loans are found not to have fully complied with the associated representations and warranties we have made to a transferee, we may be required to repurchase the loans from the transferee or we may make payments in lieu of curing alleged breaches of these representations and warranties. Given the significant delinquencies in higher combined-loan-to-value or loan-to-value products, we expect that claims for repurchases pursuant to contractual representation and warranties will increase. While we have established reserves for what we consider as probable and reasonably estimable losses, there can be no assurance that losses will not ultimately exceed our reserves and materially impact on our business, financial condition and future results of our operations.

Certain of our consumer mortgage products were not sold by many financial institutions.

In the past, we originated high loan-to-value home equity loans not offered by many financial institutions. For this reason, the performance of some of our financial assets may be less predictable than those of other lenders. We may not have adequate experience in a variety of economic environments to predict accurately the losses from our remaining portfolios of these products.

We rely heavily on our management team and key personnel, and the unexpected loss of key managers and personnel, or significant changes in senior management, may affect our operations adversely.

Our overall financial performance depends heavily on the performance of key managers and personnel. Our past success was influenced strongly by our ability to attract and to retain senior management that is experienced in the niches within banking for which they are responsible. If we are not able to retain these key managers and personnel, we may not be able to run our operations as effectively.

Our ability to retain executive officers and the current management teams of each of our lines of business and our holding company continues to be important to implement our strategies successfully. In our written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, we agreed to engage an independent consultant to assess the bank's management and to take steps by December 9, 2008, to address the independent consultant's findings, including hiring additional or replacement officers, if necessary. This process was commenced prior to the signing of the written agreement. It is possible that these findings could result in significant changes in our senior management team. If we are required to hire new members of management, the restrictions that the written agreements place on our ability to enter into and make payments pursuant to severance agreements may make it difficult to attract persons of high quality to fill these positions.

Our future success depends on our ability to compete effectively in a highly competitive financial services industry.

The financial services industry, including commercial banking and franchise finance, is highly competitive. We and our operating subsidiaries encounter strong competition for deposits, loans and other financial services in all of the market areas in our lines of business. Our principal competitors include other commercial banks, savings banks, savings and loan associations, mutual funds, money market funds, finance companies, trust companies, insurers, leasing companies, credit unions, mortgage companies, real estate investment trusts (REITs), private issuers of debt obligations, and suppliers of other investment alternatives, such as securities firms. Many of our non-bank competitors are not subject to the same degree of regulation as we and our subsidiaries are and have advantages over us in providing certain services. Many of our competitors are significantly larger than we are and have greater access to capital and other resources, lower operating costs, and lower cost of funds. Also, our ability to compete effectively in our lines of business is dependent on our ability to adapt successfully to technological changes within the banking and financial services industry.

Our business may be affected adversely by the highly regulated environment in which we operate.

We and our subsidiaries are subject to extensive federal and state regulation and supervision. Our failure to comply with these requirements can lead to, among other remedies, administrative enforcement actions, termination or suspension of our licenses, rights of rescission for borrowers, and class action lawsuits. Legislation and regulations have had, may continue to have or may have significant impact on the financial services industry. Legislative or regulatory changes could make regulatory compliance more difficult or expensive for us, causing us to change or limit some of our consumer loan products or the way we operate our different lines of business. Future changes could affect the profitability of some or all of our lines of business.

Our state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, entered into a memorandum of understanding, which was considered an informal agreement, with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago as of March 1, 2007 to enhance the consumer compliance function and compliance oversight programs of Irwin Union Bank and Trust and its subsidiaries. Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company agreed to and did provide quarterly written progress reports to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago with respect to these matters, through the required period ending September 30, 2007. We developed and implemented compliance plans to address the issues raised by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The memorandum of understanding was lifted in September 2008.

On October 10, 2008, we entered into written agreements with our regulators. Our holding company and our state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, entered into a written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. Our federal savings bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B., entered into a written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision. The failure to comply with the terms of these written agreements could result in significant enforcement actions against us of increasing severity, up to and including a regulatory takeover of one or both of our bank subsidiaries.

The written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions requires, among other things, that we submit a capital plan that will ensure our holding company and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company maintain sufficient capital to comply with regulatory capital guidelines and to address the volume of our adversely affected assets, concentration of credit, adequacy of our allowance for loan and lease losses, planned growth and anticipated levels of retains earnings. The written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision requires, among other things, that Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. maintain a Tier 1 capital ratio of at least 9% and a Total Risk-Based Capital Ratio of at least 11%.

As a result of the written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, we and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company are not permitted to (1) declare or pay any dividend without the prior approval of these regulators Federal Reserve and Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, or (2) make any distributions of interest or principal on subordinated debentures or trust preferred securities, unless we obtain the prior written approval of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. There is no certainty that we will resume payments of dividends in the future.

In addition, like other registrants, we are subject to the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. Failure to have in place adequate programs and procedures could cause us to have gaps in our internal control environment, putting the our holding company and its shareholders at risk of loss.

These and other potential changes in government regulation or policies could increase our costs of doing business and could adversely affect our operations and the manner in which we conduct our business.

A deterioration in our regulatory capital position could adversely affect us.

The banking industry, in general, is heavily regulated, and we and our subsidiaries are extensively regulated under state and federal law. Regulations of the Federal Reserve, the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, the Office of Thrift Supervision and the Federal Deposit Corporation that apply to us specify minimum capital ratio requirements that must be maintained by bank holding companies, banks and thrifts to be considered a well-capitalized institution. In addition, these regulators reserve the right to reclassify institutions that meet these standards into a lower capital category (i.e., less than well-capitalized) at their own discretion based on safety and soundness considerations. As of June 30, 2008, our holding company, Irwin Financial Corporation, and its state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, met the applicable regulatory standard of a well-capitalized institution under the relevant capital regulations that apply to them. As a result of the written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision, our federal savings bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B., is considered adequately capitalized, although we presently expect to continue to have capital levels above those agreed to in the written agreement applicable to the savings bank. As a result, the savings bank, which holds approximately 13% of our total assets is no longer permitted to accept brokered deposits unless it receives the prior approval of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Although we have applied for approval, there is no guarantee that it will be obtained. Our other banking subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, a state chartered bank regulated by the

Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, does not have any regulatory restrictions on the issuance of brokered deposits

Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B could be assessed higher premiums by the Federal Deposit Insurance Fund and required to pay its regulators increased assessment and application fees. In addition, if Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company were no longer considered well-capitalized, it would also be subject to these higher fees, and it might lose access to public funds in the state of Indiana, which could adversely affect our liquidity and results of operations. Moreover, if we were considered an undercapitalized institution, we could be subject to certain prompt corrective action requirements, regulatory controls and restrictions, which become more extensive as an institution becomes more severely undercapitalized. If such actions were to be taken, it could adversely affect our business and we may have more limited access to the capital markets.

The soundness of other financial institutions could adversely affect us.

Financial services institutions are interrelated as a result of trading, clearing, counterparty, or other relationships. We have exposure to many different industries and counterparties, and we routinely execute transactions with counterparties in the financial services industry, including brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, mutual and hedge funds, and other institutional clients. Many of these transactions expose us to credit risk in the event of default by our counterparty or client. In addition, our credit risk may be exacerbated when the collateral held by us cannot be realized or is liquidated at prices not sufficient to recover the full amount of the loan or derivative exposure due us. There is no assurance that any such losses would not materially and adversely affect our results of operations or earnings.

We are the defendant in class actions and other lawsuits that could subject us to material liability.

Our subsidiaries have been named as defendants in lawsuits that allege we violated state and federal laws in the course of making loans and leases. Among the allegations are that we charged impermissible and excessive rates and fees and participated in fraudulent financing. Some of these cases either seek or have attained class action status, which generally involves a large number of plaintiffs and could result in potentially increased amounts of loss. We have not established reserves for all of these lawsuits due to either lack of probability of loss or inability to accurately estimate potential loss. If decided against us, the lawsuits have the potential to affect us materially.

Our business may be affected adversely by Internet fraud.

We are inherently exposed to many types of operational risk, including those caused by the use of computer, internet and telecommunications systems. These may manifest themselves in the form of fraud by employees, by customers, other outside entities targeting us and/or our customers that use our internet banking, electronic banking or some other form of our telecommunications systems. Given the growing level of use of electronic, internet-based, and networked systems to conduct business directly or indirectly with our clients, certain fraud losses may not be avoidable regardless of the preventative and detection systems in place.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We expect that the net proceeds from the rights offer will be approximately $ million. We intend to use the proceeds of the rights offer for general corporate purposes, to (i) continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels that we have agreed upon with our bank regulators, (ii) accomplish the other objectives we and our bank regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and (iii) position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities.

THE CORPORATION

We are a bank holding company headquartered in Columbus, Indiana. We seek to create competitive advantage within the banking industry by serving small businesses with lending, leasing, deposit, and advisory services, as well as consumers in the neighborhoods surrounding our bank branches. Our strategic objective is to create value through well-controlled, profitable growth by attracting, retaining and developing exceptional management teams at our lines of business and the holding company who focus on (i) building strong relationships with customers by meeting their needs, (ii) being cost-efficient in the delivery of our services, and (iii) having effective risk management systems.

We focus primarily on the extension of credit to small businesses and consumers as well as providing the ongoing servicing of those customer accounts. As a result of the restructuring transactions that we announced in July 2008, we streamlined our lines of business to focus on commercial banking and franchise finance. We also service a portfolio of home equity loans originated under a previous strategy that are in run-off mode.

Our business model is based on funding the activities of our commercial banking and franchise finance primarily through deposits gathered through our bank branches and borrowings from the Federal Home Loan Bank, although we are pursuing ways to diversify our funding sources. We operate two depository institution subsidiaries – Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, a commercial bank that was organized in 1871, and Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B., a federal savings bank that was organized in 2000. We formed the holding company in 1972. Other direct and indirect major subsidiaries include Irwin Franchise Capital Corporation, our franchise finance subsidiary and Irwin Home Equity Corporation, a consumer home equity servicing company.

In commercial banking, we choose markets based on our assessment of their attractiveness – their long-term growth potential, customer demographics, and competitive trends and opportunities – and our ability to attract a seasoned team of exceptional bankers with deep experience in that market. We focus on small businesses because our understanding of these customers – needs and our ability to meet those needs creates added value that permits us not to have to compete primarily on price. We also provide a full line of banking services to consumers in the communities and neighborhoods served by our bank branch locations.

Our franchise finance line of business also focuses on small businesses – the owners and operators of leading quick service and casual dining restaurant concepts in the U.S. We have our own direct sales force that establishes relationships with seasoned multi-unit franchise operators by offering service and responsiveness that is superior to the competition (primarily GE Capital, the dominant lender in the franchise business). These multi-unit operators often seek to diversify their financing sources. We believe we have built a good brand as an alternative to GE Capital in this business. In post-closing surveys, 93% of our customers said Irwin Franchise Capital Corporation delivered on its promises and 99% said they would do business with Irwin again.

The combination of commercial banking and franchise finance allows us to diversify our revenues, credit risk, and application of capital across borrower types and across geographic regions. Such diversification is a key part of our risk management. Within commercial banking, our customers have different growth and risk profiles in the Midwest and Western U.S. These markets perform differently due to differences in local economies, affecting both the demand for and the credit quality of our loans. Our franchise finance customers are well diversified across the entire country and among leading franchise concepts.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

The severe stress that is being experienced in credit, housing and financial markets has resulted in an extremely challenging environment for our holding company and our bank subsidiaries. We have experienced substantial losses in recent quarters and, although our holding company has stayed above regulatory well-capitalized levels, these capital levels have dropped below our own internal capital targets. We have long held that our strategy needs to evolve in response to changes in environmental conditions, and therefore we have taken steps to change our strategy to fit the environment in which we operate today and will operate in the future.

On July 25, 2008, we announced a restructuring through a series of transactions to refocus on small business and local community banking. The transactions included the exit from the small ticket leasing business in the U.S. and Canada, along with the sale of substantially all of the portfolio of loans and leases associated with these businesses. In addition, other agreements have been executed in connection with the restructuring that were designed to enable us to exit the home equity business, although one such transaction, structured to remove residual home equity exposure from our balance sheet, has recently been rescinded due to the acquiror's inability to obtain required third party consents. We believe the completed transactions noted above were critical to lowering the risk inherent in our loan portfolios, protecting our franchise in the current and future environments, and better positioning our company for a return to profitability.

On October 10, 2008, our holding company and Irwin Union Bank and Trust (the bank) entered into a written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. On the same day, Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. (the savings bank), entered into a supervisory agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision.

Our holding company and our state-chartered bank subsidiary, Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, which holds approximately $4.4 billion or 87% of our total assets, are subject to the written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. This agreement provides that the holding company and the bank must:

submit a plan to strengthen board oversight of the management and operations of the holding company and the bank;

(1) by November 10, 2008, submit a report prepared by an independent consultant regarding the consultant's assessment of the bank's management and (2) by December 10, 2008, take steps to address the independent consultant's findings, including hiring additional or replacement officers, if necessary;

by November 9, 2008, submit a (1) written liquidity and funds management plan designed to improve management of our holding company's and our bank's liquidity positions and funds management practices and (2) joint contingency plan that identifies available sources of liquidity and includes adverse scenario planning;

by November 9, 2008, submit a capital plan that will ensure our holding company and our bank maintain sufficient capital to comply with regulatory capital guidelines and to address the volume of our adversely affected assets, concentration of credit, adequacy of our allowance for loan and lease losses, planned growth and anticipated levels of retained earnings;

within 30 days from the receipt of any regulatory report of examination, charge off all assets classified loss unless otherwise approved by the Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial

by January 9, 2009 (1) review and revise as necessary our allowance for loan and lease losses methodology to assure compliance with relevant supervisory guidance and (2) submit a written program for the maintenance of an adequate allowance for loan and lease losses; and by December 10, 2008, submit a three-year strategic plan and a 2009 plan and budget for our holding company, on a consolidated basis, and our bank.

As a result of this written agreement, our holding company and our bank are not permitted to (1) declare or pay any dividend without the prior approval of the Federal Reserve and Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, or (2) make any distributions of interest or principal on subordinated debentures or trust preferred securities without the prior approval of the Federal Reserve and Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. In addition, our holding company and our non-bank subsidiaries are not permitted to incur, increase, or guarantee any debt without the prior written approval of the Federal Reserve, and our holding company is not permitted to purchase or redeem any of its common shares.

We believe that we have already met the majority of the obligations under this written agreement and will be able to comply with each of the other requirements in the written agreement, and that doing so does not impose any material changes on our business in light of the steps we have been taking to restructure and reorganize our businesses. The failure to comply with the terms of the written agreement could result in significant enforcement actions against us of increasing severity, up to and including a regulatory takeover of our state-chartered bank.

Irwin Union Bank F.S.B., our federal savings bank subsidiary, holds approximately $655 million or 13% of our total assets. It (but not the holding company or Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company) is subject to a written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision which provides the following:

the savings bank must maintain a Tier 1 capital ratio of at least 9% and a Total Risk-Based Capital Ratio of at least 11% and the savings bank is not permitted to accept brokered deposits unless it receives the prior approval of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;

the savings bank must submit for review and approval or non-objection by the Office of Thrift Supervision a revised business plan that (1) defines strategies for preserving and enhancing the savings bank's capital within its risk profile, (2) defines limits on high-risk lending activities, (3) identifies strategies designed to improve and sustain the savings bank's earnings, and (4) identifies strategies to stress-test and adjust earnings forecasts based on continuing operating results, economic conditions and the credit quality of our loan portfolio;

the savings bank will not be permitted to increase its current levels of construction loans or land loans without the prior approval of the Office of Thrift Supervision;

by October 31, 2008, the savings bank must be restructured so that it operates on a completely independent basis from our bank. The savings bank must hire (1) a full time President and Chief Executive Officer, Chief Credit Officer and Chief Financial Officer and (2) at least two additional independent directors who are not management officials of our holding company or our bank;

the savings bank is not permitted to increase its total assets during any quarter in excess of an amount equal to the net interest credited on deposit liabilities during the quarter without the prior approval of the Office of Thrift Supervision;

the savings bank is not permitted to make employment agreements with severance provisions, golden parachute payments, and certain prohibited indemnification payments. In addition, the savings bank is not permitted to enter into, renew or revise any contractual arrangement related to compensation or benefits with any director or senior executive officer of the savings bank until the Office of Thrift Supervision has approved or provided its non-objection to any such agreement;

the savings bank is not permitted to enter into, renew or revise any third-party contracts for services outside the normal course of business until the Office of Thrift Supervision has approved or provided its non-objection to any such agreement; and the savings bank is not permitted to engage in transactions with any affiliate or subsidiary without the prior approval of the Office of Thrift Supervision.

As described above, the written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision requires Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. to maintain a Tier 1 capital ratio of at least 9% and a Total Risk-Based Capital Ratio of at least 11%. Under applicable regulations, because the written agreement requires Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. to maintain a specific capital level, it is classified as adequately capitalized, which is less than well-capitalized, even though Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B. holds a higher level of capital than the regulatory definition of well-capitalized and currently satisfies the capital requirements set forth in the written agreement.

We believe that we will we have already met the majority of the obligations under this written agreement and will be able to comply with each of the requirements in these agreements and that doing so does not impose any material changes on our business in light of the steps we have been taking to restructure and reorganize our businesses. The failure to comply with the terms of the written agreement could result in significant enforcement actions against us including a regulatory takeover of our savings bank.

An important part of our strategy to maintain liquidity and satisfy all our regulators capital requirements has been active balance sheet management. Reflecting our completed sales of nearly $650 million of small ticket leasing assets, our balance sheet has been reduced over 10% in the third quarter to provide more flexibility in this difficult environment.

We are conducting the rights offer to enhance our capital in a manner that satisfies the capital plan requirements in the written agreements, while giving existing shareholders the opportunity to limit ownership dilution. We believe that the rights offer, in combination with the proposed exchange offer for a portion of our trust preferred securities for common shares, will enable us continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels we agreed upon with our regulators, accomplish the other objectives we and our regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities.

In the event that you purchase all of the common shares available to you pursuant to your basic subscription privilege, you may also choose to purchase a portion of our common shares that are not purchased by other shareholders through the exercise of their basic subscription privileges. If sufficient common shares are available, we will seek to honor the over-subscription requests in full. If, however, over-subscription requests exceed the number of common shares available, we will allocate the available common shares pro rata among the shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege in proportion to the number of common shares owned by such shareholder on the record date, relative to the number of shares owned on the record date by all shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege. If this pro rata allocation results in any shareholder receiving a greater number of common shares than the shareholder subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of the over-subscription privilege, then such shareholder will be allocated only that number of shares for which the shareholder oversubscribed, and the remaining common shares will be allocated among all other shareholders exercising the over-subscription privilege on the same pro rata basis described above. The proration process will be repeated until all common shares have been allocated to the full extent of the over-subscription privileges exercised.

In order to properly exercise your over-subscription privilege, you must deliver the subscription payment related to your over-subscription privilege prior to the expiration of the rights offer. Because we will not know the total number of unsubscribed shares prior to the expiration of the rights offer, if you wish to maximize the number of shares you purchase pursuant to your over-subscription privilege, you will need to deliver payment in an amount equal to the sum of the aggregate subscription price and your own over-subscription amount (i.e., for the maximum number of common shares available to you, assuming you exercise all your subscription privileges and are allotted the full amount of your oversubscription).

We can provide no assurances that you will actually be entitled to purchase the number of shares issuable upon the exercise of your over-subscription privilege in full at the expiration of the rights offer. We will not be able to satisfy your exercise of the over-subscription privilege if all of our shareholders exercise their basic subscription privileges in full, and we will only honor an over-subscription privilege to the extent a sufficient amount of our common shares are available following the exercise of subscription rights under the basic subscription privileges. In addition, limitations on the amount of common shares that may be subscribed for pursuant to the over-subscription privilege are described below under the heading Regulatory Limitations.

To the extent the aggregate subscription price of the maximum number of unsubscribed shares available to you pursuant to the over-subscription privilege is less than the amount you actually paid in connection with the exercise of the over-subscription privilege, you will be allocated only the number of unsubscribed shares available to you, and any excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

To the extent the amount you actually paid in connection with the exercise of the over-subscription privilege is less than the aggregate subscription price of the maximum number of unsubscribed shares available to you pursuant to the over-subscription privilege, you will be allocated the number of unsubscribed shares for which you actually paid in connection with the over-subscription privilege.

Fractional common shares resulting from the exercise of the over-subscription privilege will be eliminated by rounding down to the nearest whole share, with the total subscription payment being adjusted accordingly. Any excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

We will deliver certificates representing shares or credit your account at your record holder with shares of our common stock purchased with the over-subscription privilege as soon as practicable after the expiration of the rights offer.

Reasons for the Rights Offer

We are in the process of a strategic restructuring to refocus our holding company and its bank and thrift subsidiaries on serving small businesses and the communities in which we operate in order to return to profitability in the rapidly evolving U.S. banking industry. Raising our capital levels is an important component of our restructuring plan. We have decided to conduct a rights offer to enhance our capital and give existing shareholders the opportunity to limit ownership dilution. On October 10, 2008, our holding company and our state-chartered subsidiary bank Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, entered into a written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. On the same day, our federal savings bank subsidiary Irwin Union Bank, F.S.B., entered into a written agreement with the Office of Thrift Supervision. Both agreements, require, among other things, that our holding company and our bank subsidiaries prepare a capital plan that will ensure that our holding company and our bank subsidiaries maintain sufficient capital to comply with regulatory capital guidelines and to address the volume of our adversely affected assets, concentrations of credit, adequacy of our allowance for loan and lease losses, planned growth and anticipated levels of retained earnings. We believe that the rights offer will allow us to continue to maintain our capital ratios above the levels that we have agreed upon with our bank regulators, accomplish the other objectives we and our bank regulators have set forth in the written agreements, and position our holding company and bank subsidiaries to return to profitability and respond to future business and financing needs and opportunities.

Standby Commitments

In connection with the rights offer, we have separately entered into standby purchase agreements with Cummins Inc., William I. Miller (our chairman and chief executive officer), Catherine G. Miller, Elizabeth G. Miller, and Henry B. Schacht (a former chief executive officer of Cummins Inc. and Lucent Inc.), pursuant to which these investors have severally agreed to acquire from us, at the same subscription price offered to shareholders, any common shares that are not subscribed for pursuant to the exercise of basic subscription privileges or over-subscription privileges, subject to a maximum amount set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement.

The maximum number of shares that a standby purchaser will purchase may vary depending on the standby purchaser and cannot be determined until the completion of the rights offer. For William I. Miller, Catherine G. Miller and Elizabeth G. Miller, their standby commitments are in addition to the rights that they have committed to exercise with respect to their direct shareholdings. The standby commitments and commitments to exercise rights, not including those of our independent directors that are described below, include a commitment by Cummins Inc. to purchase up to $25 million, subject to certain limitations on total ownership. The remaining standby purchasers have committed to purchase up to $6 million of common shares in the aggregate, including the amount purchased by members of the Miller family in connection with their commitments to first exercise rights with respect to their shares held outright. We and our financial advisor are continuing to seek additional standby commitments.

The standby purchases are subject to a number of conditions, including conditions relating to satisfactory approvals from our banking regulators. If any of the conditions is not satisfied, the standby purchasers will not be required to purchase any shares. In addition, Cummins Inc. is not required to purchase common shares if (i) the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions determine that our holding company and Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company will not remain well-capitalized in light of foreseeable capital requirements and that our capital plan, including the rights offer, will not be satisfactory, (ii) it reasonably believes that it will be deemed to control (within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended) our holding company, (iii) our holding company has not taken all required actions to increase the size of our board by one director so a designee of Cummins Inc. may be elected or appointed to the board in the future if Cummins so proposes and (iv) consents and approvals required to be obtained from any governmental authority in connection with the purchase of shares pursuant to the standby commitment have not been obtained or all applicable waiting periods and appeal periods have not yet expired. In addition, Cummins Inc.'s commitment may be reduced such that it will not own more than 19.9% of our common shares upon closing of the rights offer.

Each standby purchaser executed a non-disclosure agreement and accordingly gained access to certain nonpublic information about us and participated in discussions with our management. Each standby purchaser performed a due diligence review of Irwin Financial Corporation and subsequently negotiated and executed standby purchase agreements. In addition, given the size of its standby commitment of $25 million, Cummins Inc. executed a lock-up agreement pursuant to which it agreed not to transfer or dispose of the common shares purchased pursuant to the standby commitments, including by means of any hedging or short sale transactions for a period of time. Cummins Inc. is free to sell shares, subject to applicable securities laws, (i) with respect to 25% of any shares it purchases, 60 days after the closing date of the rights offer, (ii) with respect to 50% of any shares it purchases, 120 days after the closing date of the rights offer, (iii) with respect to 75% of any shares it purchases, 180 days after the closing date of the rights offer and (iv) with respect to the remainder of any shares it purchases, 240 days after the closing date of the rights offer.

The number of common shares that will be purchased by the standby purchasers can only be determined upon the completion of the rights offer. The number of shares will be determined by reference to a formula that provides that the standby purchasers will purchase all the common shares that could have been but were not subscribed for by the rights holders, up to a maximum number of shares set forth in each investor's standby purchase agreement. The maximum number of shares that a standby purchaser will purchase may vary depending on the standby purchaser and cannot be determined until the completion of the rights offer. If the rights offer is fully subscribed, then the standby purchasers will not purchase any of our shares pursuant to their standby purchase agreements.

William I. Miller currently sits on the board of directors of Cummins Inc. and has agreed to resign from that position if Cummins exercises its standby commitment in full or in part.

Directors Participation

Each of our directors has irrevocably committed to exercise rights in the offering. Eight of the nine independent directors have made this election with respect to the full amount of his or her basic subscription privileges. Any such purchases will be made for investment purposes and not with a view to resale.

Table of Contents

Although each of our directors is investing his or her own money in the rights offer, our board of directors is making no recommendation regarding your exercise of the subscription rights. You are urged to make your decision based on your own assessment of our business and the rights offer. Please see Risk Factors for a discussion of some of the risks involved in investing in our common shares.

The Possible Exchange Offers

We are also considering a series of exchange offers pursuant to which a to-be-determined amount of our common shares would be issued in exchange for a to-be-determined amount of trust preferred securities that have been issued by various Delaware statutory trusts that hold, as their sole assets, junior subordinated debentures issued by us. If the transactions are commenced, then we would offer selected holders of trust preferred securities the right to exchange their trust preferred securities for common shares at an exchange ratio to be negotiated between us and the party to each exchange transaction.

We and our state-chartered bank and savings bank subsidiaries are subject to measurement on three ratios to determine the sufficiency of our capital. Two of these ratios are based on Tier 1 or core capital and the third is based on total capital (the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital). Under the Federal Reserve's risk-based capital requirements to which our holding company is subject as a bank holding company, Tier 1 capital, or core capital, consists of, among other things, common shareholders' equity, and subject to certain limitations, trust preferred securities. Tier 2 capital, or supplementary capital, consists of, among other things, and to the extent not included in Tier 1 capital, trust preferred securities. The possible exchange offers would restructure these elements of our holding company's capital to increase the amount of capital that can be treated as Tier 1 capital. In addition, in light of the Federal Reserve's revised capital regulations that take effect in March of 2009 and that limit the amount of trust preferred securities that may be included in Tier 2 capital to 50 percent of Tier 1 capital, the possible exchange offers would also increase the amount of capital that otherwise would be able to be treated as Tier 2 capital at that time. Finally, an exchange offer will reduce our continuing obligation to pay or accrue quarterly interest payments on the trust preferred securities that will be exchanged.

Effect of Rights Offer on Existing Shareholders

The ownership interests and voting interests of the existing shareholders that do not fully exercise their subscription rights will be diluted. See Questions and Answers Related to the Rights Offer How many common shares will be outstanding after the rights offer.

Method of Exercising Subscription Rights

The exercise of subscription rights is irrevocable and may not be cancelled or modified. You may exercise your subscription rights as follows:

Subscription by Registered Holders

You may exercise your subscription rights by properly completing and executing the rights certificate together with any required signature guarantees and forwarding it, together with your full subscription payment, to the subscription agent at the address set forth below under Subscription Agent, prior to the expiration of the rights offer.

Subscription by DTC Participants

We expect that the exercise of your subscription rights may be made through the facilities of DTC. If your subscription rights are held of record through DTC, you may exercise your subscription rights by instructing DTC, or having your broker instruct DTC, to transfer your subscription rights from your account to the account of the subscription agent, together with certification as to the aggregate number of subscription rights you are exercising and the number of common shares you are subscribing for under your basic subscription privilege and your over-subscription privilege, if any, and your full subscription payment.

Subscription by Beneficial Owners

If you are a beneficial owner of our common shares that are registered in the name of a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee, or if you hold certificates for our common shares and would prefer to have an institution conduct the transaction relating to the subscription rights on your behalf, you should instruct your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee or institution to exercise your subscription rights and deliver all documents and payment on your behalf prior to 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008, which is the expiration of the rights offer. Your subscription rights will not be considered exercised unless the subscription agent receives from you, your broker, dealer, custodian bank, or other nominee or institution, as the case may be, all of the required documents and your full subscription payment prior to 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008.

Payment Method

Payments must be made in full in U.S. currency by:

- check or bank draft payable to the subscription agent, drawn upon a U.S. bank;
- postal, telegraphic or express money order payable to the subscription agent; or
- wire transfer of immediately available funds to accounts maintained by the subscription agent.

Payment received after the expiration of the rights offer will not be honored, and the subscription agent will return your payment to you, without interest, as soon as practicable. The subscription agent will be deemed to receive payment upon:

- clearance of any uncertified check deposited by the subscription agent;
- receipt by the subscription agent of any certified check or bank draft, drawn upon a U.S. bank;
- receipt by the subscription agent of any postal, telegraphic or express money order; or
- receipt of collected funds in the subscription agent's account.

If you elect to exercise your subscription rights, we urge you to consider using a certified or cashier's check, money order or wire transfer of funds to ensure that the subscription agent receives your funds prior to the expiration of the rights offer. If you send an uncertified check, payment will not be deemed to have been received by the subscription agent until the check has cleared. If you send a certified check or bank draft, drawn upon a U.S. bank, a postal, telegraphic or express money order or wire or transfer funds directly to the subscription agent's account, payment will be deemed to have been received by the subscription agent immediately upon receipt of such instruments or wire transfer.

Any personal check used to pay for our common shares must clear the appropriate financial institutions prior to 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008, which is the expiration of the rights offer. The clearinghouse may require five or more business days. Accordingly, holders that wish to pay the subscription price by means of an uncertified personal check are urged to make payment sufficiently in advance of the expiration of the rights offer to ensure such payment is received and clears by such date.

You should read the instruction letter accompanying the rights certificate carefully and strictly follow it. DO NOT SEND RIGHTS CERTIFICATES OR PAYMENTS DIRECTLY TO IRWIN. Except as described below under Guaranteed Delivery Procedures, we will not consider your subscription received until the subscription agent has received delivery of a properly completed and duly executed rights certificate and payment of the full subscription amount. The risk of delivery of all documents and payments is borne by you or your nominee, not by the subscription agent or us.

The method of delivery of rights certificates and payment of the subscription amount to the subscription agent will be at the risk of the holders of subscription rights. If sent by mail, we recommend that you send those certificates and payments by overnight courier or by registered mail, properly insured, with return receipt requested, and that a sufficient number of days be allowed to ensure delivery to the subscription agent and clearance of payment prior to the expiration of the rights offer.

Table of Contents

Unless a rights certificate provides that the common shares are to be delivered to the record holder of such rights or such certificate is submitted for the account of a bank or a broker, signatures on such rights certificate must be guaranteed by an eligible guarantor institution, as such term is defined in Rule 17Ad-15 of the Exchange Act, subject to any standards and procedures adopted by the subscription agent.

Missing or Incomplete Subscription Information

If you do not indicate the number of subscription rights being exercised, or the subscription agent does not receive the full subscription payment for the number of subscription rights that you indicate are being exercised, then you will be deemed to have exercised the maximum number of subscription rights that may be exercised with the aggregate subscription payment you delivered to the subscription agent. If the subscription agent does not apply your full subscription payment to your purchase of our common shares, any excess subscription payment received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest, as soon as practicable.

Expiration Date and Amendments

The subscription period, during which you may exercise your subscription rights, expires at 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008, which is the expiration of the rights offer. If you do not exercise your subscription rights prior to that time, your subscription rights will expire and will no longer be exercisable. We will not be required to issue common shares to you if the subscription agent receives your rights certificate or your subscription payment after that time, regardless of when the rights certificate and subscription payment were sent, unless you send the documents in compliance with the guaranteed delivery procedures described below. We have the option to extend the rights offer and the period for exercising your subscription rights, although we do not presently intend to do so. We may extend the expiration of the rights offer by giving oral or written notice to the subscription agent prior to the expiration of the rights offer. If we elect to extend the expiration of the rights offer, we will issue a press release announcing such extension no later than 9:00 a.m., New York time, on the next business day after the most recently announced expiration of the rights offer. We reserve the right to amend or modify the terms of the rights offer.

Subscription Price

Our board of directors will form a pricing committee to determine the subscription price. The pricing committee will consider a number of factors, including the price at which our shareholders might be willing to participate in the rights offer, historical and current trading prices for our common shares, the need for liquidity and capital, negotiations with the standby purchasers, and the desire to provide an opportunity to our shareholders to participate in the rights offer on a pro rata basis. In conjunction with its review of these factors, our board of directors is currently reviewing our history and prospects, including our past and present earnings, our prospects for future earnings, our current financial condition and regulatory status, and a range of discounts to market value represented by the subscription prices in various prior rights offers of public companies. The subscription price will not necessarily be related to our book value, net worth or any other established criteria of value and may or may not be considered the fair value of our common shares to be offered in the rights offer. You should not assume or expect that, after the rights offer, our common shares will trade at or above the subscription price.

We cannot assure you that the market price of our common shares will not decline during or after the rights offer. We also cannot assure you that you will be able to sell common shares purchased during the rights offer at a price equal to or greater than the subscription price. We urge you to obtain a current quote for our common shares before exercising your subscription rights.

Conditions, Withdrawal and Termination

We reserve the right to withdraw the rights offer prior to the expiration of the rights offer for any reason. We may terminate the rights offer, in whole or in part, if at any time before completion of the rights offer there is any judgment, order, decree, injunction, statute, law or regulation entered, enacted, amended or held to be applicable to the rights offer that in the sole judgment of the independent members of our board of directors would or might make the rights offer or its completion, whether in whole or in part, illegal or otherwise restrict or prohibit completion of the rights offer. We may waive any of these conditions and choose to proceed with the rights offer even if one or more of these events occur. If we terminate the rights offer, in whole or in part, all affected subscription rights will expire without value, and all excess subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable. If we cancel the rights offer, we will issue a press release notifying shareholders of the cancellation, and all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest or penalty, as soon as practicable.

Notice to Nominees

If you are a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee holder that holds our common shares for the account of others on the record date, you should notify the beneficial owners of the shares for whom you are the nominee of the rights offer as soon as possible to learn their intentions with respect to exercising their subscription rights. You should obtain instructions from the beneficial owner, as set forth in the instructions we have provided to you for your distribution to beneficial owners. If the beneficial owner so instructs, you should complete the appropriate rights certificate and submit it to the subscription agent with the proper subscription payment. If you hold our common shares for the account(s) of more than one beneficial owner, you may exercise the number of subscription rights to which all beneficial owners in the aggregate otherwise would have been entitled had they been direct holders of our common shares on the record date, provided that you, as a nominee record holder, make a proper showing to the subscription agent by submitting the form entitled Nominee Holder Certification, which is provided with your rights offer materials. If you did not receive this form, you should contact the subscription agent to request a copy.

Beneficial Owners

If you are a beneficial owner of our common shares or will receive your subscription rights through a broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee, we will ask your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee to notify you of the rights offer. If you wish to exercise your subscription rights, you will need to have your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee act for you. If you hold certificates for our common shares directly and would prefer to have your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee act for you, you should contact your nominee and request it to effect the transactions for you. To indicate your decision with respect to your subscription rights, you should complete and return to your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee the form entitled Beneficial Owner Election Form. You should receive this form from your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee with the other rights offer materials. If you wish to obtain a separate subscription rights certificate, you should contact the nominee as soon as possible and request that a separate subscription rights certificate be issued to you. You should contact your broker, dealer, custodian bank or other nominee if you do not receive this form, but you believe you are entitled to participate in the rights offer. Transferability of Subscription Rights

Subscription rights may be purchased or sold through usual investment channels. There has, however, been no prior market for the subscription rights and no assurance can be given that a market will develop, or, if a market develops, that such market will remain available throughout the subscription period.

The subscription rights evidenced by a single rights certificate may be transferred in whole by endorsing the rights certificate for transfer in accordance with the accompanying instructions. A portion of the subscription rights evidenced by a single rights certificate (but not a fractional rights certificate) may be transferred by delivering to the subscription agent a rights certificate properly endorsed for transfer, with instructions to register that portion of the subscription right indicated therein in the name of the transferee and to issue a new rights certificate to the transferee evidencing the transferred subscription right. In that event, a new rights certificate evidencing the balance of the subscription rights will be issued to the holder of the subscription rights or, if the holder so instructs, to an additional transferee, or will be sold by the subscription agent in the manner described below upon appropriate instruction from the subscription rights holder.

The subscription rights evidenced by a rights certificate may be sold, in whole or in part, through the subscription agent by delivering to the subscription agent the rights certificate properly executed for sale by the subscription agent. If only a portion of the subscription rights evidenced by a single rights certificate are to be sold by the subscription agent, that rights certificate must be accompanied by instructions setting forth the action to be taken with respect to the subscription rights that are not to be sold. Promptly following sale, the subscription agent will send the subscription rights holder a check for the proceeds from the sale of any subscription rights sold, less any applicable brokerage commissions, taxes and other direct expenses of sale. A subscription rights holder for which the subscription agent sells subscription rights on any given day will receive for each of its subscription rights the net weighted average sale price of all subscription rights sold on that day by the subscription agent. The net weighted average sale price will be calculated by dividing the total proceeds from all sales realized by the subscription agent on the day of sale by the total number of subscription rights sold by the subscription agent on that day and then subtracting a pro rata portion of any applicable brokerage commissions, taxes and other expenses. No assurance, however, can be given that a market will develop for the subscription rights or that the subscription agent will be able to sell any subscription rights. Subscription rights offered pursuant to the over-subscription privilege may not be transferred. The Company will pay the fees charged by the subscription agent for effecting such sales. Orders to sell subscription rights must be received by the subscription agent at or prior to 11:00 a.m., New York time, on _____, 2008. The subscription agent's obligation to execute orders is subject to its ability to find buyers. If the subscription rights cannot be sold by the subscription agent by 5:00 p.m., New York time, on _____, 2008, they will be returned promptly by mail to the subscription rights holder.

Holders wishing to transfer all or a portion of their subscription rights (but not fractional subscription rights) should allow a sufficient amount of time prior to the expiration of the rights offer for (i) the transfer instructions to be received and processed by the subscription agent, (ii) new rights certificates to be issued and transmitted to the transferee or transferees with respect to transferred subscription rights, and to the transferor with respect to retained subscription rights, if any, and (iii) the subscription rights evidenced by the new rights certificates to be exercised or sold by the recipients thereof. Such amount of time could range from two to ten business days, depending upon the method by which delivery of the rights certificates and payment is made and the number of transactions which the subscription rights holder instructs the subscription agent to effect. Neither the company nor the subscription agent shall have any liability to a transferee or transferor of subscription rights if rights certificates are not received in time for exercise or sale prior to the expiration of the rights offer.

A new rights certificate will be issued to a submitting subscription rights holder upon the partial exercise or sale of subscription rights only if the subscription agent receives a properly endorsed rights certificate no later than 5:00 p.m.,

New York time, on the fifth business day prior to the expiration of the rights offer. After such time and date, no new rights certificates will be issued. Accordingly, after such time and date a subscription rights holder exercising less than all of its subscription rights will lose the power to sell or exercise its remaining subscription rights. A new rights certificate will be sent by first class mail to the submitting subscription rights holder if the subscription agent receives the properly completed rights certificate by 5:00 p.m., New York time, on the fifth business day before the expiration of the rights offer. Unless the submitting subscription rights holder makes other arrangements with the subscription agent, a new rights certificate issued after 5:00 p.m., New York time, on the fifth business day before the expiration of the rights offer will be held for pick-up by the submitting subscription rights holder at the subscription agent's hand delivery address provided above. All deliveries of newly issued rights certificates will be at the risk of the submitting subscription rights holder.

Except for the fees charged by the subscription agent (which will be paid by the company as described above), all commissions, fees and other expenses (including brokerage commissions and transfer taxes) incurred in connection with the purchase, sale or exercise of subscription rights will be for the account of the transferor of the subscription rights, and none of such commissions, fees or expenses will be paid by the company or the subscription agent.

Validity of Subscriptions

We will resolve all questions regarding the validity and form of the exercise of your subscription rights, including time of receipt and eligibility to participate in the rights offer. Our determination will be final and binding. Once made, subscriptions and directions are irrevocable, and we will not accept any alternative, conditional or contingent subscriptions or directions. We reserve the absolute right to reject any subscriptions or directions not properly submitted or the acceptance of which would be unlawful. You must resolve any irregularities in connection with your subscriptions before the subscription period expires, unless waived by us in our sole discretion. Neither we nor the subscription agent shall be under any duty to notify you or your representative of defects in your subscriptions. A subscription will be considered accepted, subject to our right to withdraw or terminate the rights offer, only when a properly completed and duly executed rights certificate and any other required documents and the full subscription payment have been received by the subscription agent. Our interpretations of the terms and conditions of the rights offer will be final and binding.

Escrow Arrangements; Return of Funds

The subscription agent will hold funds received in payment for our common shares in a segregated account pending completion of the rights offer. The subscription agent will hold this money in escrow until the rights offer is completed or is withdrawn and canceled. If the rights offer is canceled for any reason, all subscription payments received by the subscription agent will be returned, without interest, as soon as practicable.

Shareholder Rights

You will have no rights as a holder of our common shares you purchase in the rights offer, if any, until certificates representing our common shares are issued to you or until your account at your record holder is credited with the our common shares purchased in the rights offer. You will have no right to revoke your subscriptions after your rights certificate or the Beneficial Owner Election Form, the full subscription payment, and any other required documents have been delivered to the subscription agent.

Foreign Shareholders

We will not mail this prospectus or rights certificates to shareholders with addresses that are outside the United States or that have an army post office or foreign post office address. The subscription agent will hold these rights certificates for their account. To exercise subscription rights, our foreign shareholders must notify the subscription agent prior to 11:00 a.m., New York time, at least three business days prior to the expiration of the rights offer and demonstrate to the satisfaction of the subscription agent that the exercise of such subscription rights does not violate the laws of the jurisdiction of such shareholder.

Table of Contents

No Revocation or Change

Once you submit the form of rights certificate to exercise any subscription rights, you are not allowed to revoke or change the exercise or request a refund of monies paid. All exercises of subscription rights are irrevocable, even if you learn information about us that you consider to be unfavorable. You should not exercise your subscription rights unless you are certain that you wish to purchase additional common shares at the subscription price.

Regulatory Limitation

We will not be required to issue to you our common shares pursuant to the rights offer if, in our opinion, you are required to obtain prior clearance or approval from any state or federal regulatory authorities to own or control such shares and if, at the time the rights offer expires, you have not obtained such clearance or approval. If we elect not to issue shares in such case, such shares will become available to satisfy subscriptions pursuant to the over-subscription privilege.

Because we are a registered bank holding company, the Change in Bank Control Act of 1978 prohibits a person or group of persons acting in concert from acquiring control of us or Irwin Union Bank and Trust, our wholly-owned Indiana chartered bank subsidiary, unless the Federal Reserve Board has been given 60 days prior written notice of such proposed acquisition and within that time period the Federal Reserve Board has not issued a notice disapproving the proposed acquisition or extending for up to another 30 days the period during which such a disapproval may be issued. An acquisition may be made prior to the expiration of the disapproval period if the Federal Reserve Board issues written notice of its intent not to disapprove the action. Under a rebuttable presumption established by the Federal Reserve Board, the acquisition of more than 10% of a class of voting stock of a bank holding company with a class of securities registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act (such as our common shares) would, under the circumstances set forth in the presumption, constitute the acquisition of control.

In addition, any company would be required to obtain the approval of the Federal Reserve Board under the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (BHCA) before acquiring 25% (5% in the case of an acquiror that is a bank holding company) or more of our outstanding common shares, or such lesser number of our common shares as constitute control over our holding company.

Because we are a bank holding company incorporated in Indiana and Irwin Union Bank and Trust is an Indiana-chartered bank, the Indiana foreign bank holding company statute prohibits a non-Indiana bank holding company (including a company that only becomes a bank holding company upon acquisition of control of the bank at issue) from acquiring control of us or Irwin Union Bank and Trust unless the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions (the DFI) has approved the acquisition. Control is defined as owning 25% of the total, aggregated voting shares of the institution, controlling the election of a majority of directors or exercising a controlling influence over the management or policies of a bank or company, as determined by the Federal Reserve after notice and opportunity for hearing.

In addition, the Indiana change of bank control statute prohibits an investor, acting directly, indirectly or in concert with one or more other investors, from acquiring control of us or Irwin Union Bank and Trust unless the DFI has received an application by which the DFI is given 120 days prior written notice of the proposed change in control and within that time the DFI has issued a notice approving the proposed change in control. Control is defined as the power to vote at least 25% of any class of voting securities or to direct the management or policies of the bank or bank holding company.

Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Treatment of Rights Distribution

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, you should not recognize income or loss upon receipt or exercise of these subscription rights to purchase our common shares for the reasons described below in Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences. If you sell your subscription rights, you should recognize capital gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes equal to the difference between the amount that you realize and your adjusted tax basis in your subscription right. For these purposes, your holding period in a subscription right will include your holding period in the common shares with respect to which the subscription right was distributed. Capital gain of a non-corporate U.S. holder, including individuals, that is recognized in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15% where the holder has a holding period greater than one year. The deductibility of net capital losses is subject to limitations.

Listing

We expect that the common shares that we will issue upon exercise of the subscription rights will be listed for trading on the NYSE under the symbol IFC and we intend to apply for listing.

Outstanding Common Shares After the Rights Offer

As of _____, 2008, _____ of our common shares were issued and outstanding. Assuming no other transactions by us involving our common shares, and no outstanding options for our common shares are exercised, prior to the expiration of the rights offer, if the rights offer is fully subscribed through the exercise of the subscription rights and the standby purchasers acquire all of the common shares not purchased by the holders of subscription rights before the expiration of the rights offer, then an additional _____ of our common shares will be issued and outstanding after the closing of the rights offer, for a total of _____ of common shares outstanding.

In addition, if we concurrently complete an exchange offer for a portion of our trust preferred securities for common shares, it will result in the issuance of additional common shares. As a result of the exchange offer, the ownership interests and voting interests of all existing shareholders, even those that fully participate in the rights offer and the standby purchasers, will be substantially diluted. We cannot determine the amount of dilution at this time.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COMMON SHARES

The following description does not purport to be complete and is subject to, and qualified in its entirety by reference to, our Restated Articles of Incorporation and our Code of By-Laws, as amended to date.

Common Shares

We are currently authorized to issue 40,000,000 common shares, no par value. Our board has authorized an amendment to our Restated Articles of Incorporation to authorize an increase in the number of common shares we are authorized to issue to 200,000,000 common shares, and on November 3, 2008, we will hold a special meeting at which shareholders will vote on that amendment. There were outstanding common shares as of as of , 2008.

As of , 2008, approximately common shares were reserved for issuance upon the exercise of employee stock options (of which options to purchase an aggregate of common shares currently were exercisable). The outstanding common shares currently are, and the common shares to be issued in the rights offer will upon issuance be, fully paid and non-assessable. Each common share has the same relative rights as, and is identical in all respects with, each other common share.

Dividend Rights

Holders of our common shares are entitled to receive such dividends as may be declared by our board of directors out of legally available funds, and to receive pro rata any assets distributable to holders of our common shares upon our liquidation.

On March 3, 2008, we announced that our board of directors voted to suspend the payment of dividends on our common, preferred and trust preferred securities. In addition, as a result of the written agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, we are not permitted to (1) declare or pay any dividend without the prior approval of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and Indiana Department of Financial Institutions, or (2) make any distributions of interest or principal on subordinated debentures or trust preferred securities, unless we obtain the prior written approval of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. There is no certainty that we will resume payments of dividends in the future.

Voting Rights

Holders of our common shares are entitled to vote for the election of directors and upon all other matters, which may be submitted to a vote of shareholders generally, with each share being entitled to one vote. Our common shareholders do not possess cumulative voting rights. This means that holders of more than 50% of our common shares (on a fully diluted basis) voting for the election of directors can elect all of the directors, and holders of the remaining shares will not be able to elect any directors.

Liquidation Rights

In the event of any liquidation, dissolution or winding up of our holding company, the holders of our common shares would be entitled to receive, after payment or provision for payment of all our debts and liabilities, all of our assets available for distribution. Holders of our preferred shares may have a priority over the holders of common shares in the event of any liquidation or dissolution.

Other Rights

Common shareholders have no preemptive rights to purchase additional securities that may be issued by us in the future, although our common shareholders do have certain contingent preferred share purchase rights that may be triggered under our shareholder rights plan as discussed below. There are no redemption or conversion provisions applicable to our common shares, and common shareholders are not liable for any further capital call or assessment.

(1) On March 3, 2008, we announced that our board of directors voted to suspend the payment of dividends on our common, preferred and trust preferred securities.

The resumption of dividend payments and the amount of future dividends will depend on earnings, financial condition, capital requirements and other factors, and will be determined by our board of directors on a quarterly basis. For a discussion of our dividend policy, see Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations in our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2008.

The last reported sale price of our common shares on October 13, 2008, as reported by the NYSE, was $3.09.

MATERIAL U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES

This section describes the material United States federal income tax consequences of the ownership, sale, exercise and disposition of the subscription rights acquired through the rights offer and the common shares received upon exercise of the subscription rights or, if applicable, upon exercise of the over-subscription privilege. It applies to you only if you are a U.S. holder, acquire your subscription rights in the rights offer and you hold your subscription rights or common shares issued to you upon exercise of the subscription rights or, if applicable, the over-subscription privilege as capital assets for tax purposes. This section does not apply to you if you are not a U.S. holder or if you are a member of a special class of holders subject to special rules, including:

A financial institution,

A regulated investment company,

A real estate investment trust,

A dealer in securities,

A trader in securities that elects to use a mark-to-market method of accounting for securities holdings,

A tax-exempt organization,

An insurance company,

A person liable for alternative minimum tax,

A person that holds common shares as part of a straddle or a hedging or conversion transaction, or

A person whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar.

This section is based on the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, its legislative history, existing and proposed regulations, published rulings and court decisions, all as currently in effect. These laws are subject to change, possibly on a retroactive basis.

You are a U.S. holder if you are a beneficial owner of subscription rights or common shares and you are:

An individual citizen or resident of the United States,

A domestic corporation,

An estate whose income is subject to United States federal income tax regardless of its source, or

A trust if a United States court can exercise primary supervision over the trust's administration and one or more United States persons are authorized to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

If a partnership (including any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes) receives the subscription rights or holds the common shares received upon exercise of the subscription rights or the over-subscription privilege, the tax treatment of a partner in a partnership generally will depend upon the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. Such a partner or partnership should consult its tax advisor as to the U.S. federal income tax consequences of receiving, exercising and disposing of the subscription rights and acquiring, holding or disposing of the common shares.

You should consult your own tax advisor regarding the United States federal, state, local, non-U.S. and other tax consequences of owning, exercising and disposing of subscription rights and common shares in your particular circumstances.

This discussion addresses only United States federal income taxation.

Taxation of Subscription Rights

Receipt of Subscription Rights. Your receipt of subscription rights pursuant to the rights offer should be treated as a nontaxable distribution with respect to your existing common shares for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The discussion below assumes that the receipt of subscription rights will be treated as a nontaxable distribution.

If the fair market value of the subscription rights you receive is less than 15% of the fair market value of your existing common shares on the date you receive the subscription rights, the subscription rights will be allocated a zero basis for U.S. federal income tax purposes, unless you elect to allocate basis between your existing common shares and the subscription rights in proportion to the relative fair market values of the existing common shares and the subscription rights determined on the date of receipt of the subscription rights. If you choose to allocate basis between your existing common shares and the subscription rights, you must make this election on a statement included with your tax return for the taxable year in which you receive the subscription rights. Such an election is irrevocable.

On the other hand, if the fair market value of the subscription rights you receive is 15% or more of the fair market value of your existing common shares on the date you receive the subscription rights, then you must allocate your basis in your existing common shares between the existing common shares and the subscription rights you receive in proportion to their fair market values determined on the date you receive the subscription rights.

Your holding period in a subscription right will include your holding period in the common shares with respect to which the subscription right was distributed.

Exercise of Subscription Rights or Over-Subscription Privilege. Generally, you will not recognize gain or loss on the exercise of a subscription right or over-subscription privilege. Your tax basis in a new common share acquired when you exercise a subscription right will be equal to your adjusted tax basis in the subscription right or over-subscription privilege plus the subscription price. The holding period of a common share acquired when you exercise your subscription right will begin on the date of exercise.

Acquisition of Common Shares through Exercise of Over-Subscription Privilege. If you acquire common shares through exercise of the over-subscription privilege, your basis in such shares will generally be equal to the subscription price you paid for such shares. The holding period with respect to such common shares will commence on the day after the acquisition of the common shares.

Not Exercising Subscription Rights. If you do not exercise your subscription rights, you should not recognize a capital loss for United States federal income tax purposes and any portion of the tax basis in your existing common shares previously allocated to the subscription right not exercised will be re-allocated to the existing common shares.

Transfer of Subscription Rights. If you sell your subscription rights, you should recognize capital gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes equal to the difference between the amount that you realize and your adjusted tax basis in your subscription right. For these purposes, your holding period in a subscription right will include your holding period in the common shares with respect to which the subscription right was distributed. Capital gain of a non-corporate U.S. holder, including individuals, that is recognized in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15% where the holder has a holding period greater than one year. The deductibility of net capital losses is subject to limitations.

Taxation of Common Shares

Distributions. Distributions with respect to common shares acquired upon exercise of subscription rights will be taxable as dividend income when actually or constructively received to the extent of our current or accumulated earnings and profits as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes. To the extent that the amount of a distribution exceeds our current and accumulated earnings and profits, such distribution will be treated first as a tax-free return of capital to the extent of your adjusted tax basis in such common shares and thereafter as capital gain.

Subject to certain exceptions for short-term and hedged positions, distributions constituting dividend income received by certain non-corporate U.S. holders, including individuals, in respect of the common shares in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 are generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15%. Similarly, subject to similar exceptions for short-term and hedged positions, distributions on the common shares constituting dividend income paid to holders that are domestic corporations generally will qualify for the dividends-received deduction. You should consult your own tax advisor regarding the availability of the reduced dividend tax rate and the dividends-received deduction in light of your particular circumstances.

Dispositions. If you sell or otherwise dispose of the common shares, you will generally recognize capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount you realize and your adjusted tax basis in the common shares. Such capital gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if your holding period for the common shares is more than one year. Long-term capital gain of a non-corporate U.S. holder, including individuals, that is recognized in taxable years beginning before January 1, 2011 is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15%. The deductibility of net capital losses is subject to limitations.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

For non-corporate U.S. holders, information reporting requirements, on Internal Revenue Service Form 1099, generally will apply to the payment of dividends on the common shares and the payment of the proceeds from the sale or redemption of common shares.

Additionally, backup withholding will apply to such payments if a non-corporate U.S. holder fails to provide an accurate taxpayer identification number, is notified by the Internal Revenue Service that it has failed to report all dividends required to be shown on its federal income tax returns, or in certain circumstances, fails to comply with applicable certification requirements.

You generally may obtain a refund of any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules that exceed your income tax liability by timely filing a refund claim with the Internal Revenue Service.

The standby purchases are subject to conditions. If, in our opinion, any standby purchaser is required to obtain prior clearance or approval for the purchase of our common shares from any state or federal bank regulatory authority and if such approval or clearance has not been obtained by the completion of the rights offer, the standby purchaser is not required to purchase any shares. In addition, Cummins Inc. is not required to purchase common shares if (i) the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions determine that the holding company and the bank will not remain well-capitalized in light of foreseeable capital requirements and that our capital plan, including the rights offer, will not be satisfactory, (ii) it reasonably believes that it will be deemed to control (within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended) our holding company, (iii) our holding company has not taken all required actions to increase the size of our board by one director so a designee of Cummins Inc. may be elected or appointed to the board in the future if Cummins so proposes and (iv) consents and approvals required to be obtained from any governmental authority in connection with the purchase of shares pursuant to the standby commitment have not been obtained or all applicable waiting periods and appeal periods have not yet expired. In addition, Cummins Inc.'s commitment may be reduced such that it will not own more than 19.9% of our common shares upon closing of the rights offer.

Cummins Inc. executed a lock-up agreement pursuant to which it agreed not to transfer or dispose of the common shares purchased pursuant to the standby commitments, including by means of any hedging or short sale transactions for a period of time. Cummins Inc. is free to sell shares, subject to applicable securities laws, (i) with respect to 25% of any shares it purchases, 60 days after the closing date of the rights offer, (ii) with respect to 50% of any shares it purchases, 120 days after the closing date of the rights offer, (iii) with respect to 75% of any shares it purchases, 180 days after the closing date of the rights offer and (iv) with respect to the remainder of any shares it purchases, 240 days after the closing date of the rights offer.

We have engaged Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated, a broker-dealer registered with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, as our financial and marketing advisor in connection with the stock offerings pursuant to an agency agreement between Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated and us. connection with mergers and acquisitions and other corporate transactions. As compensation for its services, upon completion of the rights offer, we have agreed to pay Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated $.

Item 15. Indemnification of Directors and Officers.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the Securities Act) may be permitted to our directors, officers, and controlling persons pursuant to the following provisions, or otherwise, we have been advised that in the opinion of the SEC such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is, therefore, unenforceable.

The Indiana Business Corporation Law (IBCL), the provisions of which we are governed by, empowers an Indiana corporation to indemnify present and former directors, officers, employees, or agents or any person who may have served at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee, or agent of another corporation (Eligible Persons) against liability incurred in any proceeding, civil or criminal, in which the Eligible Person is made a party by reason of being or having been in any such capacity, or arising out of his status as such, if the individual acted in good faith and reasonably believed that (a) the individual was acting in the best interests of the corporation, or (b) if the challenged action was taken other than in the individual s official capacity as an officer, director, employee or agent, the individual s conduct was at least not opposed to the corporation s best interests, or (c) if in a criminal proceeding, either the individual had reasonable cause to believe his conduct was lawful or no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful.

The IBCL further empowers a corporation to pay or reimburse the reasonable expenses incurred by an Eligible Person in connection with the defense of any such claim, including counsel fees; and, unless limited by its Articles of Incorporation, the corporation is required to indemnify an Eligible Person against reasonable expenses if he is wholly successful in any such proceeding, on the merits or otherwise. Under certain circumstances, a corporation may pay or reimburse an Eligible Person for reasonable expenses prior to final disposition of the matter. Unless a corporation s articles of incorporation provide otherwise, an Eligible Person may apply for indemnification to a court which may order indemnification upon a determination that the Eligible Person is entitled to mandatory indemnification for reasonable expenses or that the Eligible Person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification in view of all the relevant circumstances without regard to whether his actions satisfied the appropriate standard of conduct.

Before a corporation may indemnify any Eligible Person against liability or reasonable expenses under the IBCL, a quorum consisting of directors who are not parties to the proceeding must (1) determine the indemnification is permissible in the specific circumstances because the Eligible Person met the requisite standard of conduct, (2) authorize the corporation to indemnify the Eligible Person and (3) if appropriate, evaluate the reasonableness of expenses for which indemnification is sought. If it is not possible to obtain a quorum of uninvolved directors, the foregoing action may be taken by a committee of two or more directors who are not parties to the proceeding, special legal counsel selected by the Board or such a committee, or by the shareholders of the corporation.

In addition to the foregoing, the IBCL states that the indemnification it provides shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which those indemnified may be entitled under any provision of the Articles of Incorporation or Bylaws, resolution of the board of directors or shareholders, or any other authorization adopted after notice by a majority vote of all the voting shares then issued and outstanding. The IBCL also empowers an Indiana corporation to purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of any Eligible Person against any liability asserted against or incurred by him in any capacity as such, or arising out of his status as such, whether or not the corporation would have had the power to indemnify him against such liability.

Our Amended and Restated Articles of Incorporation provide for indemnification as a matter of right to any of our directors, officers or employees who have been successful on the merits of a claim against them, and for indemnification under certain other circumstances where allowed, by the action of disinterested members of the board of directors.

We have purchased $40 million in directors and officers liability insurance, the effect of which is to indemnify the directors and officers of us and our subsidiaries against certain losses caused by errors, misstatement or misleading statements, wrongful acts, omissions, neglect or breach of duty by them or similar matters claimed against them in their capacities as directors or officers.

(8) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers, and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the SEC such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in that Securities Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer, or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer, or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
