Safe Harbor Statement

We have included or incorporated by reference in this Annual Report on Form 10-K, and from time to time our management may make, statements that may constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Forward-looking statements are not historical facts but instead represent only our belief regarding future events, many of which by their nature are inherently uncertain and outside our control. These statements include statements other than historical information or statements of current condition and may relate to our future plans, objectives and results, among other things, and also include (without limitation) statements made in Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations in Part II, Item 7 of this Annual Report. It is possible that our actual results may differ, possibly materially, from the anticipated results indicated in these forward-looking statements. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ from those in the forward-looking statements include, among others, those discussed under Risk Factors in Part I, Item 1A of this Annual Report and Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations in Part II, Item 7 of this Annual Report.

Accordingly, you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date on which they are made. We undertake no obligation to update publicly or revise any forward-looking statements to reflect the impact of circumstances or events that arise after the dates they are made, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise except as required by applicable law. You should, however, consult further disclosures we may make in future filings of our Annual Reports on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and Current Reports on Form 8-K, and any amendments thereto.

Item 1. Business

Business. We provide electronic payment processing and related services to financial and nonfinancial institutions. Services include processing consumer, retail, commercial, government services, stored value and debit cards. Based in Columbus, Georgia, and traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol TSS, we provide services to financial and nonfinancial institutions throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Honduras, Puerto Rico and Europe. We currently offer merchant services to financial institutions and other organizations in the United States through our wholly owned subsidiary, Vital Processing Services, L.L.C., and in Japan through our majority owned subsidiary, GP Network Corporation. We also offer optional value added products and services to support our core processing services. Value added products and services include: risk management tools and techniques, such as credit evaluation, fraud detection and prevention and behavior analysis tools; and revenue enhancement tools and customer retention programs, such as loyalty programs and bonus rewards. Synovus Financial Corp., a diverse financial services company with more than $27 billion in assets, owns 81% of us.

Table of Contents

The services we provide are divided into three operating segments, domestic-based support services, which accounted for approximately 75% of our revenues in 2005, international-based support services, which accounted for approximately 9% of our revenues in 2005 and merchant processing services, which accounted for approximately 16% of our revenues in 2005.

Seasonality. Due to the somewhat seasonal nature of the credit card industry, our revenues and results of operations have generally increased in the fourth quarter of each year because of increased transaction and authorization volumes during the traditional holiday shopping season.

Intellectual Property. Our intellectual property portfolio is a component of our ability to be a leading electronic payment services provider. We diligently protect and work to build our intellectual property rights through patent, servicemark and trade secret laws. We also use various licensed intellectual property to conduct our business. In addition to using our intellectual property in our own operations, we grant licenses to certain of our clients to use our intellectual property.

Major Customers. A significant amount of our revenues is derived from long-term contracts with large clients, including our major customer, Bank of America Corporation. In December 2005, we received official notification from Bank of America of its intent, pending its acquisition of MBNA Corporation, to shift the processing of its consumer card portfolio in house in October 2006. For the year ended December 31, 2005, Bank of America accounted for approximately 22.3% of our total revenues and all relationships with Bank of America and MBNA on a combined basis accounted for approximately 23.9% of our total revenues. As a result, the loss of Bank of America, or other large clients, could have a material adverse effect on our financial position, results of operations and cash flows. See Major Customers under the Financial Review Section on pages 47 and 48 of the Annual Report which is incorporated in this document by reference.

Competition. We encounter vigorous competition in providing electronic payment processing services from several different sources. Most of the national market in third party card processors is presently being provided by approximately three vendors. We believe that as of December 31, 2005 we are the second largest third party card processor in the United States. In addition, we compete with in house processors and software vendors which provide their products to institutions which process in house. We are presently encountering, and in the future anticipate continuing to encounter, substantial competition from card associations, data processing and bankcard computer service firms and other such third party vendors located throughout the United States and from certain international processors with respect to international-based support services. Based upon available market share data that includes cards processed in house, we believe we hold a 39.1% share of the domestic consumer card processing market, an 84.6% share of the Visa and MasterCard domestic commercial card processing market, a 14.4% share of the domestic retail card processing market and a 4.8% share of the domestic signature debit processing market. With respect to merchant processing, we believe that Vital has a 13% market share of all authorizations originating at U.S. merchant locations and a 20% market share of all bank-card accepting merchant locations in the U.S.

Table of Contents

Our major competitor in the card processing industry is First Data Resources, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of First Data Corporation, which provides card processing services. The principal methods of competition between us and First Data Resources are price, system performance and reliability, breadth of features and functionality, disaster recovery capabilities, data security, scalability and flexibility of infrastructure and servicing capability. Certain other subsidiaries of First Data Corporation also compete with us with respect to the provision of merchant processing services.

Backlog of Accounts. As of January 31, 2006, we had a pipeline of approximately 75 million accounts associated with new clients. We expect to convert our entire backlog of 75 million new accounts in 2006.

Regulation and Examination. We are subject to being examined, and are indirectly regulated, by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of Thrift Supervision, the National Credit Union Administration, and the various state financial regulatory agencies which supervise and regulate the financial institutions for which we provide electronic payment processing services. Matters reviewed and examined by these federal and state financial institution regulatory agencies have included our internal controls in connection with our present performance of electronic payment processing services, and the agreements pursuant to which we provide such services. In addition, we are registered with Visa and MasterCard as a service provider for member institutions and are subject to applicable card association rules.

As the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta has approved Synovus' indirect ownership of us through Columbus Bank and Trust Company, we are subject to direct regulation by the Federal Reserve Board. We were formed with the prior written approval of, and are subject to regulation and examination by, the Department of Banking and Finance of the State of Georgia as a subsidiary of Columbus Bank and Trust Company. In addition, as we and our subsidiaries operate as subsidiaries of Columbus Bank and Trust Company, we are subject to regulation by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Employees. As of December 31, 2005, we had 6,603 full-time employees.

Item 1A. Risk Factors

This section highlights specific risks that could affect our business and us. Although this section attempts to highlight key factors, please be aware that other risks may prove to be important in the future. New risks may emerge at any time and we cannot predict such risks or estimate the extent to which they may affect our financial performance. In addition to the factors discussed elsewhere or incorporated by reference in this report, among the other factors that could cause actual results to differ materially are the following:

If we do not successfully renew or renegotiate our agreements with our clients, our business will suffer.

A significant amount of our revenues is derived from long-term contracts with large clients, including a major customer. Consolidation among financial institutions has resulted in an increasingly concentrated client base. The financial position of these clients and their willingness to pay for our products and services are affected by general market positions, competitive pressures, and operating margins within their industries. Renewal or renegotiation time presents our clients with the opportunity to consider other providers. The loss or renegotiation of our contracts with existing clients or a significant decline in the number of transactions we process for them could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operation.

Consolidation among financial institutions, including the merger of TSYS clients with entities that are not TSYS clients or the sale of portfolios by TSYS clients to entities that are not TSYS clients could materially impact our financial position and results of operation.

Consolidation among financial institutions, particularly in the area of credit card operations, continues to be a major risk. Specifically, we face risk that our clients may merge with entities that are not our clients or our clients may sell portfolios to entities that are not our clients, thereby impacting our existing agreements and projected revenues with these clients. During 2005, for example, Bank of America acquired MBNA Corporation, making it one of the largest card issuers in the U.S. In December 2005, we received official notification from Bank of America of its intent to shift the processing of its consumer card portfolio in house in October 2006 in connection with the acquisition of MBNA. This kind of consolidation and the loss of any significant client by us could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations.

Accounts on file may be lower than anticipated and internal growth rates for our existing clients may be lower than anticipated.

At December 31, 2005, we had approximately 438 million accounts on file. By the end of 2006, we anticipate that there will be approximately 395 million to 405 million accounts on file. There is no guarantee, however, that accounts on file will be as we anticipate and this could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations. Furthermore, a significant amount of our revenues is derived from certain large clients and internal growth rates for these existing clients may be lower than anticipated, thereby negatively impacting our business.

We may incur expenses associated with the signing of a significant client to our processing system and in connection with our efforts to grow internationally or incur other costs that may hurt our financial results.

We incur significant up-front expenses prior to converting a significant client to our processing system. In the event we enter into a processing contract with a significant client, these expenses will directly affect our earnings results. In addition, we provide services to our clients worldwide and plan to continue to expand our service offerings internationally in the future. We are likely to incur costs in growing our business internationally, and there is no guarantee that such international expansion will be successful. We may also incur other expenses and costs, such as operating and marketing expenses. If we are unable to successfully manage these expenses as our business develops, changes and expands, our financial position and results of operations could be negatively impacted. In addition, changes in accounting policies can significantly affect how we calculate expenses and earnings.

There may be a decline in the use of credit cards as a payment mechanism for consumers or adverse developments with respect to the credit card industry in general.

If consumers do not continue to use credit cards as a payment mechanism for their transactions or if there is a change in the mix of payments between cash, credit cards and debit cards, it could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations. We believe future growth in the use of credit cards will be driven by the cost, ease-of-use, and quality of products and services offered to consumers and businesses. In order to consistently increase and maintain our profitability, consumers and businesses must continue to use credit cards. Moreover, if there is an adverse development in the credit card industry in general, such as new legislation or regulation that makes it more difficult for our clients to do business, our financial position and results of operations may be adversely affected.

We may not convert and deconvert clients' portfolios as scheduled.

We anticipate conversion of Capital One's North American portfolio of consumer and small business credit card accounts and deconversion of Citibank's Sears, Roebuck and Co. card portfolio and Bank of America's consumer card portfolio during 2006. There is no guarantee, however, that these conversions and deconversions will occur as anticipated and this may have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations.

We have pursued various strategic acquisitions and these acquisitions may be more difficult to integrate than anticipated.

We regularly explore opportunities for strategic acquisitions and expect to grow, in part, through such acquisitions. Difficulty in integrating an acquired company may cause us not to realize expected revenue increases, cost savings, increases in geographic or product presence, and/or other projected benefits of the acquisition. The integration could result in loss of key employees, disruption of our business or the business of the acquired company, or otherwise adversely affect our ability to maintain relationships with clients or achieve the anticipated benefits of the acquisition. These factors could contribute to us not achieving the anticipated benefits of the acquisition within the desired time frames, if at all.

The costs and effects of litigation, investigations or similar matters, or adverse facts and developments related thereto, could materially affect our financial position and results of operations.

We may be involved from time to time in a variety of litigation, investigations or similar matters arising out of our business. Our insurance may not cover all claims that may be asserted against it, and any claims asserted against us, regardless of merit or eventual outcome, may harm our reputation. Should the ultimate judgments or settlements in any litigation or investigation significantly exceed our insurance coverage, they could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations. In addition, we may not be able to obtain appropriate types or levels of insurance in the future, nor may we be able to obtain adequate replacement policies with acceptable terms, if at all.

Changes in accounting policies and practices, as may be adopted by the regulatory agencies, the Financial Accounting Standards Board, or other authoritative bodies, could materially impact our financial statements.

Our accounting policies and methods are fundamental to how we record and report our financial position and results of operations. From time to time, the regulatory agencies, the Financial Accounting Standards Board, and other authoritative bodies change the financial accounting and reporting standards that govern the preparation of our financial statements. These changes can be hard to predict and can materially impact how we record and report our financial position and results of operations.

If we do not anticipate and respond to rapid technological change or changes in industry standards, particularly with respect to e-commerce, our services could become obsolete and we could lose our clients.

Our success depends, in part, on our ability to timely, successfully and cost-effectively improve and implement processing systems to provide new products, increased functionality and increased efficiencies. The widespread adoption of new technologies could require us to make substantial expenditures to modify or adopt our existing products and services, and we may not be successful in improving and implementing our processing systems or in achieving market acceptance of these new technologies. If competitors introduce new products and services embodying new technologies, or if new industry standards and practices emerge, particularly with respect to e-commerce, our existing product and service offerings, proprietary technology and systems may become obsolete. Further, if we fail to adopt or develop these new technologies or to adapt our products and services to emerging industry standards, we may lose current and future clients, which could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations. Our industry is changing rapidly. To remain competitive, we must continue to enhance and improve the functionality and features of our processing systems, products, services and technologies.

Changes in the laws, regulations, credit card association rules or other industry standards affecting our business may require significant product redevelopment efforts or may reduce the market for or value of our products.

There may be changes in the laws, regulations, credit card association rules or other industry standards that affect our operating environment in substantial and unpredictable ways. Changes to statutes, regulations or industry standards, including interpretation and implementation of statutes, regulations or standards, could increase or decrease the cost of doing business or affect the competitive balance. We cannot predict whether any of this potential legislation will be enacted or whether any credit card association rule or other industry standard will change, and if enacted or changed, the effect that it would have on our financial position or results of operations. These changes may require us to incur significant expenses to redevelop our products, but there is no guarantee that we would be successful or that there would be a market for or value of our products. Also, if we do not comply with laws, regulations, policies or standards, we could receive regulatory sanctions and damage to our reputation.

We may not be able to successfully manage our intellectual property and may be subject to infringement claims.

In the rapidly developing legal framework, we rely on a combination of contractual rights and copyright, trademark, patent and trade secret laws to establish and protect our proprietary technology. Despite our efforts to protect our intellectual property, third parties may infringe or misappropriate our intellectual property or may develop software or technology competitive to us. Our competitors may independently develop similar technology, duplicate our products or services or design around our intellectual property rights. We may have to litigate to enforce and protect our intellectual property rights, trade secrets and know-how or to determine their scope, validity or enforceability, which is expensive and could cause a diversion of resources and may not prove successful. The loss of intellectual property protection or the inability to secure or enforce intellectual property protection could harm our business and ability to compete.

We may also be subject to costly litigation in the event our products and technology infringe upon another party's proprietary rights. Third parties may have, or may eventually be issued, patents that would be infringed by our products or technology. Any of these third parties could make a claim of infringement against us with respect to our products or technology. We may also be subject to claims by third parties for breach of copyright, trademark or license usage rights. Any such claims and any resulting litigation could subject us to significant liability for damages. An adverse determination in any litigation of this type could require us to design around a third party's patent or to license alternative technology from another party. In addition, litigation is time consuming and expensive to defend and could result in the diversion of the time and attention of our management and employees. Any claim from third parties may result in limitation on our ability to use the intellectual property subject to these claims.

Security and privacy breaches in our electronic transactions may damage customer relations and inhibit our growth.

Any failures in our security and privacy measures could have a material adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations. We electronically store personal information about consumers who are customers of our clients. If we are unable to protect, or our clients perceive that we are unable to protect, the security and privacy of our electronic transactions, our growth could be materially adversely affected. A security or privacy breach may:

cause our clients to lose confidence in our services;

harm our reputation;

expose us to liability; and increase our expenses from potential remediation costs.

While we believe we use proven applications designed for data security and integrity to process electronic transactions, there can be no assurance that our use of these applications will be sufficient to address changing market positions or the security and privacy concerns of existing and potential clients.

If we lose key personnel or are unable to attract additional qualified personnel as we grow, our business could be adversely affected.

We are dependent upon the ability and experience of a number of highly skilled technical, management and sales and marketing personnel who have substantial experience with our operations, the rapidly changing transaction processing industry and markets in which we offer our services. It is possible that the loss of the services of one or a combination of our key personnel would have an adverse effect on our operations. Our success also depends on our ability to continue to attract, manage and retain additional qualified management and technical personnel as we grow. Competition for the best people, particularly those individuals with technology experience, is intense. We cannot guarantee that we will continue to attract or retain such personnel.

Table of ContentsBank of America may not deconvert as anticipated, amortization of related contract acquisition costs may not be accelerated as anticipated and the termination fee may not be in the amount anticipated.

Bank of America has notified us of its intent to shift the processing of its consumer card portfolio in house in October 2006. Our processing agreement with Bank of America provides that Bank of America may terminate its agreement with us for consumer credit card services upon the payment of a termination fee, which is determined based upon several factors. Based upon the expected October 2006 deconversion date, this fee is estimated to be approximately $69 million. As a result of the anticipated deconversion in October 2006, we will accelerate the amortization of approximately $7 million in contract acquisition costs. There is no guarantee, however, that the deconversion will occur as anticipated in October 2006 and that we will be able to amortize the anticipated related contract acquisition costs or receive the termination fee in the amount anticipated from Bank of America.

Various domestic or international military or terrorist activities or conflicts could affect our business and financial position.

Acts or threats of war or terrorism, actions taken by the U.S. or other governments in response to acts or threats of terrorism and/or military conflicts, could negatively affect business and economic positions in the U.S. If terrorist activity, acts of war or other international hostilities cause an overall economic decline, our financial position and results of operations could be materially adversely affected. The potential for future terrorist attacks, the national and international responses to terrorist attacks or perceived threats to national security and other actual or potential conflicts or acts of war, including conflict in the Middle East, have created many economic and political uncertainties that could seriously harm our business and results of operations in ways that cannot presently be predicted.

As of December 31, 2005, we and our subsidiaries owned 12 facilities encompassing approximately 1,412,719 square feet and leased from third parties 19 facilities encompassing approximately 496,222 square feet. These facilities are used for operational, sales and administrative purposes.

Item 7A. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk

Foreign Exchange Risk. We are exposed to foreign exchange risk because we have revenues and expenses denominated in foreign currencies, including Euro, British Pound, Mexican Peso, Canadian Dollar, Japanese Yen and Chinese Renminbi. These currencies are translated into U.S. dollars at current exchange rates, except for revenues, costs and expenses, and net income, which are translated at the average exchange rate for each reporting period. Net exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of assets and liabilities of our foreign operations, net of tax, are accumulated in a separate section of shareholders' equity titled 'accumulated other comprehensive income.' The amount of other comprehensive loss for the year ended December 31, 2005 was $9.7 million. The amount of other comprehensive income for the years ended December 31, 2004 and 2003 was $7.1 million and $7.3 million, respectively. Currently, we do not use financial instruments to hedge our exposure to exchange rate changes.

The carrying value of the assets of our foreign operations in Europe, Mexico, Canada, Japan and China was approximately (in U.S. dollars) $131.9 million, $5.7 million, $457,000, $13.0 million and $37.0 million, respectively, at December 31, 2005.

Interest Rate Risk. We are also exposed to interest rate risk associated with the investing of available cash and any outstanding balance on the long-term line of credit we have with a banking affiliate of Synovus. We invest available cash in conservative short-term instruments and are primarily subject to changes in the prime rate.

On June 30, 2003, we obtained a $45.0 million long-term line of credit from a banking affiliate of Synovus. The line is an automatic draw-down facility. The interest rate for the line of credit is the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) plus 150 basis points. In addition, there is a charge of 15 basis points on any funds unused. The line of credit is unsecured debt and includes covenants requiring us to maintain certain minimum financial ratios. At December 31, 2005, we did not have an outstanding balance on the line of credit and were in compliance with all covenants. As the LIBOR rate changes, we will be subject to interest rate risk.

Concentration of credit risk. We work to maintain a large and diverse customer base across various industries to minimize the credit risk of any one customer to our accounts receivable amounts. In addition, we perform ongoing credit evaluations of our customers' and suppliers' financial condition.

Concentration of client base. A significant amount of our revenues are derived from long-term contracts with large clients, including certain major customers. Processing contracts with large clients, representing a significant portion of our total revenues, generally provide for discounts on certain services based on the size and activity of clients' portfolios. Therefore, electronic payment and merchant services processing revenues and the related margins are influenced by the client mix relative to the size of client card portfolios, as well as the number and activity of individual cardholder accounts processed for each client. Consolidation among financial institutions has resulted in an increasingly concentrated client base, which results in a changing client mix toward larger clients.

We have two major customers that account for a large portion of our revenues, which subjects us to credit risk. See Note 17 of Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements on pages 85 through 89 of the Annual Report which is incorporated in this document by reference for a description of major customers. In addition to our two major customers, we have other large clients representing a significant portion of our total revenues. The loss of any one of our large clients could have a material adverse effect on our financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

Concentration of suppliers. We utilize several large and diverse suppliers across various industries to minimize our reliance on any one supplier. However, we do rely on a relatively few major suppliers for a significant portion of our licensed computer software and hardware needs. The relationship with these particular vendors is well established. These particular vendors are large, well-known and respected entities in their industry.
