1. ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

Board Structure The Corporation currently has eleven directors. Ten directors are divided into three classes: four in Class I, four in Class II and two in Class III. One director currently is unclassified and is a nominee for election at the 2002 annual meeting of shareholders as a Class III director for a term of one year. Class II and Class III Election The four nominees for election as Class II directors and the one nominee for election as a Class III director are listed below. Unless you instruct us on the proxy card to vote differently, we will vote signed, returned proxies FOR the election of such nominees. If for any reason any nominee cannot or will not serve as a director, we may vote such proxies for the election of a substitute nominee designated by the Board of Directors.

Directors Stock Ownership Policy

The Board of Directors has adopted a policy that each director, within three years of his or her election, shall own a total of not less than 2,000 common shares of the Corporation. Stock units granted to a director under the Corporation's Directors Stock Unit Plan or the Deferred Compensation Plan apply toward attainment of the requirement. All of our directors are in compliance with this policy.

Board Compensation

Retainer and Fees

Directors who are not salaried employees of the Corporation (non-employee directors) receive the following annual compensation for their Board service:

Annual Retainer:	$36,000
Annual Committee
Chair Stipend:	$3,000
Attendance Fees:	$1,000 for each Board meeting $1,000 for each Board Committee meeting Expenses related to attendance
Shares of Stock:	The foregoing retainer and fees, at the election of the director, may be received in an equivalent number of the Corporation's common shares in lieu of cash.
Stock Units:	Number of units equal in value to $50,000 on date of grant under the Directors Stock Unit Plan described below.

Directors Stock Unit Plan In order to encourage increased stock ownership, the Board of Directors adopted the Directors Stock Unit Plan. Pursuant to that Plan, each non-employee director receives an annual grant of stock units having a value equal to $50,000 on the date of the grant. One unit is equal in value to one share of the Corporation's common stock. While stock units do not confer on a director the right to vote, each stock unit is credited on each dividend payment date with stock units equal to the applicable dividend payable on the Corporation's common shares. Upon termination of service as a director, the director is entitled to payment of his or her accumulated stock units in an equivalent number of the Corporation's common shares or in cash.

Directors Deferred Compensation Plan Directors may defer payment of retainer and/or meeting fees to future years and may elect to have such deferred compensation deemed to receive interest at prevailing market rates

be invested in the Corporation's common shares, or be invested in one of several mutual funds designated for that purpose.

Expenses and Benefits All directors are reimbursed for travel and other related expenses incurred in attending shareholder, Board and committee meetings. The Corporation also provides non-employee directors with life insurance benefits.

Directors and Officers Liability Insurance

The Corporation maintains directors and officers liability insurance policies and pension trust liability policies (placed on three-year terms) issued by National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., Executive Risk Indemnity Inc., Continental Casualty Company, Federal Insurance Company and XL Insurance Company. The policies insure (i) directors, officers, division presidents and vice presidents of the Corporation and its subsidiaries, and employees who are fiduciaries of employee benefit plans of the Corporation and its subsidiaries, against certain liabilities they may incur in the performance of their duties and (ii) the Corporation against its obligation to indemnify such persons against such liabilities, and (iii) the Corporation for allegations related to securities claims. On June 1, 2000, the Corporation extended those policies to June 1, 2003 at annual prepaid premiums of $413,699, $118,800, $100,625, $44,550 and $60,720, respectively for each of the above mentioned policies.

Stock Options

Each of the executives listed in the Summary Compensation Table was eligible to receive two types of option grants during 2001: normal option grants and reload option grants. The first type of grant is a compensatory award normally made on an annual basis which is intended to reward each named executive based on the Corporation's future performance. Normal option grants customarily include the right to receive reload options.

A reload option is granted to an employee who exercises an option with already-owned shares. It replaces the opportunity for future appreciation that the employee would otherwise lose by exercising the original option, while encouraging the employee to increase his share ownership. Reload option grants customarily include the right to receive additional reload options.

The following table contains information with respect to the normal compensatory option grants and reload option grants made to each named executive during 2001 and the hypothetical value at the time of grant based on a variation of the Black-Scholes model (see footnote (3) below). The Corporation is not aware of any option pricing model which can provide a true assessment of the value of the options. Over their lives, the options could have a greater or a lesser value than that shown in the table, and under some circumstances they could have zero value.

- (1) Normal options expire no later than the tenth anniversary of the date of grant, plus one day. If an employee retires on his normal retirement date, or retires early under any pension or retirement plan maintained by the Corporation or any subsidiary, or dies, his exercisable options terminate upon the fifth anniversary of his retirement, disability or death or the original expiration date, if earlier. If an optionee's employment terminates for any reason other than retirement, disability or death, his exercisable options terminate no later than 30 days following the termination of his employment.

Normal options become exercisable in three or four substantially equal annual installments beginning on the first anniversary of the date of grant or earlier as the Compensation and Management Development Committee in its discretion may determine. The Committee may also approve provisions making installments exercisable (a) upon the employee's retirement, (b) six months from the date an option is granted if it is the result of a previous exercise in which pre-owned shares were used in payment of the exercise, and (c) as the Committee deems appropriate in a change of control of the Corporation but not later than two years after the employee ceases employment.

Options customarily include the right to receive reload options in the event the optionee exercises an option with already-owned shares. Reload options contain the same expiration dates and other terms as the options they replace except that they have an exercise price per share equal to the fair market value of a common share on the date the reload option is granted and become exercisable in full six months after they are granted. Reload options customarily include the right to receive additional reload options.

- (2) Illustrates the total number of normal and reload options granted as a percent of the aggregate number of 2001 normal options (1,420,090) granted to all employees.

- (3) The hypothetical present value of the options at the date of grant was determined using a variation of the Black-Scholes option pricing model. The Black-Scholes model is a complicated mathematical formula which is widely used to value options traded on the stock exchanges. However, executive stock options differ from exchange-traded options in several key respects. Executive options are long-term, non-transferable and subject to vesting restrictions, whereas exchange-traded options are short-term and can be exercised or sold immediately in a liquid market. The model used here is adapted to estimate the present value of an executive option and considers a number of factors, including the grant price of the option, the volatility of the Corporation's common shares, the dividend rate, the term of the option, the time it is expected to be outstanding and interest rates. The Black-Scholes values were derived using as assumptions the following financial factors which existed at or about the time that the options were granted: volatility of .409, dividend yield of 3.155%, and an interest rate of 3.379%. In view of the Corporation's historic exercise experience and the inherent motivation to exercise options early in their terms because of the reload option feature, normal options were assumed to be outstanding for three years at time of exercise and reload options for one year. No downward adjustments were made to the resulting grant-date option values to account for potential forfeiture or non-transferability of the options in question. Because the Black-Scholes model was not developed for executive options and requires the use of assumptions primarily based on conditions in effect at the time of grant (and not over the term of the option), it provides only a theoretical estimate of the value of these options.

Reload option grants are part of the Corporation's overall program to increase the number of common shares owned by its executive officers and other key employees. Traditional option programs generally do not encourage optionees to exercise options prior to the end of their term or to hold the shares received upon such exercise. The Compensation and Management Development Committee adopted the reload option program, with shareholder approval, to encourage option exercises and stock retention by permitting an optionee to exercise an option with already-owned common shares and to be restored to the same economic opportunity available immediately prior to such exercise.

Under the reload program, an employee who exercises an option (the Original Option) with already-owned shares prior to the end of the option term will receive an additional option (the Reload Option) covering a number of shares equal to the number used to exercise the Original Option. The Reload Option will be exercisable, beginning six months after grant and continuing for the remaining term of the Original Option, at a price equal to the fair market value of the shares on the date the Original Option is exercised. As a result of the exercise of the Original Option with already-owned shares, the net number of common shares held by the employee will increase by the number of shares that has an aggregate market value equal to the spread on the option (the spread equals the aggregate market price of the option shares on the day of exercise less the aggregate exercise price). Thus, the number of shares covered by the Reload Option plus the number of additional shares received on the exercise of the Original Option will equal the number of shares covered by the Original Option. The program thereby serves to replace the opportunity for future appreciation that an optionee would otherwise lose by exercising an option using already-owned shares. In addition, by inducing option exercises and stock retention, the reload feature offers optionees the opportunity to receive dividends on a greater number of shares than would be the case without such a feature.

PENSION AND OTHER RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Retirement Plans

The following pension table shows the estimated aggregate annual benefits payable in the form of a straight life annuity commencing at age 65 under the Phelps Dodge Retirement Plan for Salaried Employees (the Retirement Plan) as supplemented by the Phelps Dodge Corporation Supplemental Retirement Plan (the Supplemental Retirement Plan) that make up amounts limited by the Internal Revenue Code (the Code).

Pension Plan Table

Final Average
Compensation(a)

$473,088 $551,936 $630,784 $709,632 $1,100,000 $173,696 $260,544 $347,392 $434,240 $521,088 $607,936 $694,784 $781,632 $1,200,000 $189,696 $2

(a) The Retirement Plan provides a member upon retirement at age 65 with a pension for life in a defined amount based upon final average compensation and length of benefit service. Under the Retirement Plan, final average compensation is the highest average annual base salary for any consecutive 36-month period plus the highest average annual incentive compensation for any consecutive 60-month period during a member's last 120 months of employment. Benefit service includes all periods of employment with the Corporation or its participating subsidiaries. Benefits under the Retirement Plan are subject to certain limitations under the Code, and to the extent the result of such limitations would be a benefit less than would otherwise be paid under such Plan, the difference is provided under the Supplemental Retirement Plan. The formula for determining benefits payable under the Retirement Plan takes into account estimated social security benefits payable. The amounts set forth in the table assume maximum social security benefits payable in 2001.

- (b) The expected credited years of benefit service at normal retirement for the Corporation's five current named executive officers as of December 31, 2001 are as follows: Mr. Whisler, 43 years; Mr. Iraola, 30 years; Mr. Snider, 45 years; Mr. Peru, 42 years; and Mr. Miele, 38 years. The years of service are based on normal retirement for all executive officers under the Retirement Plan and the applicable provisions of the Supplemental Retirement Plan.

SEVERANCE AND CHANGE OF CONTROL ARRANGEMENTS

Severance Agreements With Our Executives

The Corporation has severance agreements (Severance Agreements) with each of its five named executive officers under which the executive would receive a lump sum payment equal to his annual base salary in the event the Corporation terminates his employment, other than for cause or mandatory retirement, or the executive voluntarily terminates his employment because of material reductions in his salary or his position, duties and responsibilities. The terminated executive would also receive (i) outplacement services at a cost up to 15% of his base salary and (ii) the cost of continued coverage for a limited period under the Corporation's group health, life insurance and disability plans.

Change of Control Agreements With Our Executives

The Corporation also has agreements with such executives under which each executive would receive, in the event he ceases to be employed by the Corporation within two years following a change of control of the Corporation (for a reason other than death, disability, willful misconduct, normal retirement or under certain circumstances a voluntary termination of employment by the executive), a lump sum equal to (i) three times the executive's highest base salary during that year and the prior two years plus (ii) three times the executive's average bonus paid under the Annual Incentive Compensation Plan for the two calendar years preceding the year in which the change of control occurs, less (iii) any severance payable under his Severance Agreement. The amount of such payments, when combined with any other payments that are contingent upon a change of control, may be capped at the maximum amount that can be paid without triggering an excise tax under the Internal Revenue Code. This Cap on payments does not apply if the amount of such payments, calculated without the Cap, is at least 20% more than the amount of such payments calculated with the Cap. If the payments are not subject to the Cap, the Corporation will provide the executive with a tax gross-up payment to reimburse the executive for any excise taxes, as well as the presumed income taxes on the gross-up. The terminated executive would also receive the cost of continued coverage for a limited period under the Corporation's group health, life insurance and disability plans. Except under certain circumstances, these change of control agreements currently expire on December 31, 2002.

Other Change of Control Provisions

Although normal compensatory options granted by the Corporation become exercisable in three or four substantially equal annual installments beginning on the first anniversary of the date of grant, they also become exercisable in certain change of control situations. Specifically, such options are exercisable (but not earlier than six months from the date of grant) for a period of 30 days beginning on the date the Corporation's common shares are purchased pursuant to a third party tender offer or the Corporation's shareholders approve a merger or similar transaction which the Corporation will not survive as a publicly held corporation or, in the case of the five named executive officers and certain other employees, the date the employee ceases to be employed if he/she ceases to be employed within two years following a change of control.

The Supplemental Retirement Plan provides for the payment of unreduced benefits to employees who meet liberalized age and length of service requirements and whose employment is terminated by the Corporation or any of its subsidiaries within two years following a change of control of the Corporation. The Supplemental Retirement Plan also provides an additional 36 months of service credit to an executive who, due to his termination of employment within two years following a change of control of the Corporation, becomes entitled to receive payments under his change of control agreement with the Corporation. The Supplemental Savings Plan obligates the Corporation to transfer an amount equal to the deficiency in the assets of the Plan's trust fund, if any, prior to the day on which a change of control occurs.

COMPENSATION AND MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

REPORT ON EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

The Committee

The Committee is composed solely of directors (currently six) who are not employees of the Corporation. It has periodically retained respected independent compensation consultants to advise and assist it in connection with various compensation matters.

Corporate Goals

The Corporation's goal is to be the leader in each of the domestic and international mining and manufacturing activities in which it competes while maximizing shareholder value.

The Compensation and Management Development Committee designs its executive compensation program to ensure the Corporation's ability to attract, retain and motivate the highest performing employees. The Committee believes it can align total compensation with shareholder interests and motivate senior managers participating in these programs by:

Emphasizing the relationship between pay and performance by rewarding managers who effect significant achievement with respect to key business strategies and specific operational objectives.

Increasing the relative amount of compensation at risk as management responsibilities increase.

Assuring that the elements of variable compensation are linked as directly as practicable to measurable financial, operational and other forms of performance.

Encouraging stock ownership by executives.

Linking pay for performance as closely as possible to success in maximizing the value of the Corporation's stock over the long term.

Elements of Executive Compensation

The executive officers are compensated by salaries, annual incentive awards and long-term incentive compensation in the form of stock options and restricted stock grants. Each element focuses on performance in a different but complementary way. Salaries focus on individual performance, competence and the Corporation's performance during the officer's tenure. Annual incentives relate to corporate, division and, where appropriate, unit and individual performance. Long-term incentive awards, which are awarded most often in the form of stock options, and, from time to time, in restricted stock, create a long-term identity of interest with the shareholders based on the Corporation's performance and related growth of shareholder value.

The Committee believes that the Corporation competes for its executive talent primarily with similarly-sized industrial companies located in the United States. Accordingly, where possible, the Committee compares the compensation for the top five executives, at least annually, to the compensation paid to executives holding similar positions at 16 publicly held industrial corporations of an average size, measured by revenues and market capital, similar to that of the Corporation (referred to below as the comparison group). For other executives, comparisons to similar positions are based on a much larger group of companies of similar size to the Corporation measured by revenues. The Committee believes that the competitive data used is generally representative of the competitive level of compensation paid to executive officers in companies the size of Phelps Dodge. Thus, the companies used for comparison purposes in connection with the compensation paid to the Corporation's executive officers are somewhat different from the companies included in the peer group used in the performance graphs on pages 22 and 23 to compare shareholder returns.

Executive Salaries

Individual salaries for executive officers are established by the Committee to reflect the officer's performance and competence, existing general economic and industry conditions and the Corporation's performance during the executive officer's tenure. Generally, salary adjustments are targeted to move salaries to competitive levels over time for sustained and expected performance and competence. Despite outstanding individual performances executives have displayed in managing the business in challenging times, the historically low copper prices and poor business conditions have created a difficult economic environment. In an effort to control every cost, including compensation, management recommended, and the Committee determined, to defer merit increase adjustments for all employees for at least six months, beginning January 1, 2002.

Annual Incentives

The Annual Incentive Compensation Plan provides the executive officers and certain other officers and managers with compensation based on success in achieving annual corporate, division and, where appropriate, unit and individual goals. For each executive officer, a target award is determined approximating the 60th percentile of the annual incentive compensation paid by the comparison group to individuals holding comparable positions. Lower threshold awards and higher maximum awards are also established. Corporate goals are set using return on equity and net operating cash flow return on invested capital which are fundamental indicators of the Corporation's performance. In 2001, the Corporation's performance with respect to both return on equity and net operating cash flow return on invested capital were below the threshold goals. Based on these results and the difficult business conditions, the Committee approved, at management's recommendation, the decision to forego all incentive payments for 2001, including those unit or individual elements which achieved threshold or greater levels.

Long-Term Incentive Compensation

The Committee has historically used stock options as the principal method of providing long-term incentive compensation primarily because employees benefit from options to the extent there are increases in the value of the Corporation's common shares. To further the identity of interest with the shareholders, the executive officers are expected to acquire and own significant numbers of the Corporation's shares.

The Committee has determined that to focus the executive's attention to an appropriate extent on the long-term growth of shareholder value, the targeted compensation levels with respect to the present value of stock options should be approximately midway between the 50th and 75th percentiles of the long-term incentive awards made to executives holding similar positions in the comparison group. Historically, adjustments have been made from these levels based on the performance, career potential, critical skills and prior grant history of the executive officer. For the 2001 option grant, a fixed rate grant approach was taken, applying the same formula used in the 2000 grant. This approach was taken due to increased volatility in the stock price, particularly subsequent to the tragic events on September 11th, and the adjustments made to the dividend.

This practice, recommended by outside compensation consultants, reduced the potential total annual grants made to executives.

Grants of Restricted Stock

The Committee also made grants of restricted stock to a limited number of other employees under the Corporation's Stock Option and Restricted Stock Plan. The only grant made in 2001 to an executive named in the Summary Compensation Table was to Mr. Whisler, as described in the CEO Compensation paragraph below.

Stock Ownership Guidelines

To underscore the connection between the interests of management and stockholders, the Corporation established stock ownership targets for officers and management of the Corporation. The targets are expressed in terms of the value of the Corporation's common shares held by the executive as a multiple of salary grade midpoint. The targets range from one and one-half times salary midpoint up to five times salary midpoint for the CEO. Four of the five named executives have met or exceeded their respective stock ownership guideline. The executive who hasn't met the guideline only became subject to such in 2000, and has 5 years from the date he became subject to the ownership requirements to reach the ownership target.

CEO Compensation

Phelps Dodge bases the chief executive officer's compensation on the same philosophy and policies as for all executive officers, as discussed above. This compensation includes base salary, annual incentives and long-term incentives.

In 2001, J. Steven Whisler, Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation, received a base salary of $750,000, a stock option grant to purchase 225,000 common shares, and a grant of 1,000 shares of performance-based restricted stock. Salary increase consideration for 2002 has been deferred along with all other employees. Mr. Whisler, like all other executives participating in the Annual Incentive Compensation Plan, did not receive an incentive compensation award for 2001.

Conclusion

The Committee will continue to evaluate the Corporation's compensation programs to best enable the Corporation to employ and motivate high caliber, dedicated people. Such employees, properly motivated, are believed to be key to achievement of the Corporation's goal to be the international leader in the mining and manufacturing activities in which it competes and the related enhancement of shareholder value over the long term.

2. RATIFICATION OF APPOINTMENT OF ACCOUNTANTS

On the recommendation of the Audit Committee, the Board of Directors has appointed PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP as independent accountants for the Corporation for the year 2002.

PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP or a predecessor firm has been the independent accountants for the Corporation since 1915. A representative of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP will be present at the annual meeting with the opportunity to make a statement if he so desires and to respond to appropriate questions.

The Board of Directors recommends a vote FOR ratification of the appointment of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP as independent accountants.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Board of Directors is not aware of any other matters to be presented at the annual meeting. If any other matter proper for action at the meeting should be presented, the holders of the accompanying proxy will vote the shares represented by the proxy on such matter in accordance with their best judgment. If any matter not proper for action at the meeting should be presented, the holders of the proxy will vote against consideration of the matter or the proposed action.

VOTING PROCEDURES

All shares represented by the accompanying proxy, if the proxy is duly executed and received by the Corporation at or prior to the annual meeting, will be voted at the meeting in accordance with any instructions specified on such proxy. Where no instruction is specified, the shares may be voted according to the printed instructions on the proxy.

It is the policy of the Corporation that, except under limited circumstances, each shareholder proxy card, ballot and voting tabulation that identifies any shareholder will be kept confidential and that the receipt and tabulation of such votes will be conducted by independent third parties, including the Corporation's transfer agent and its proxy solicitation firm, and not by employees of the Corporation.

The cost of soliciting proxies for the meeting will be borne by the Corporation. The Corporation has retained The Corporate Governance Group of Strategic Stock Surveillance, LLC, 331 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10017 to assist in soliciting proxies for a fee estimated at $10,000 plus reasonable expenses. Strategic Stock Surveillance and some officers and other employees of the Corporation may solicit proxies in person and by telephone or otherwise.
